Eden Hutton, near Orchard, has had a barn erected Friday 36 x 64 ft. Everything put together in splendid style with a fine work light and Mr. Hutton is well pleased with the structure that is about a year ago. Eden Hutton is the contractor.

Mr. Darling, Clerk in Park Street, deserves a leather and honorable mention. On a big fellow snipped a plug of tobacco and started down the street following captured John following captured John with it and immediately to business none the worse of the scrap. He feels quite over the capture, and says the weight then was just a half, though his ordinary weight exceeds.

—Of special interest to the young people who have taken the Entrance and Leaving Examinations this year is the fact that the Central Business College, Toronto, which in accordance with its energetic and efficient management, is awarding a number of scholarships to those who have taken the highest marks in the above examinations. Candidates who have not yet communicated with the college about the matter will find it to their advantage to do so without delay.

—We note with pleasure the very creditable success of our young townsman, Fred F. Hunter, in the examinations at the Royal Military College, Kingston. He has been awarded the Governor General's Scholarship for general proficiency in nearly every class throughout the year, and won every prize offered for swordsmanship, riding and drilling. He was only one point behind the General's prize for the year in Toronto last May.

BARRISTER Telford while assisting to fight the fire Tuesday got his foot hurt by a piece of falling timber. It will get better soon we hope.

The Epworth Leagues, of Durham, Holstein and Mt. Forest had an exceedingly enjoyable union picnic in Holstein on Thursday last. The attendance was not large, but all seemed bent on making the event as pleasant as possible, and they did it.

I have seen the report in last week's Review, of the result of case of Pettigrew vs Hutton, and certainly the statement therein made is erroneous: as I was present and heard the case tried and am satisfied from the evidence that Hutton was little to blame, although always we must defer to his Honor, Judge Morrison, whose judgments give everyone satisfaction. A. BARRISTER.

SMITH'S FOUNDRY IN RUINS.

An unexpected and unannounced feature of the Orange demonstration on the 12th was the burning of Mr. Smith's Foundry, and the exhibition of work our Town Fire Brigade is capable of doing. Never in the history here had they so many spectators, and never did they put in their work with better and more telling effect. At about one o'clock fire was seen issuing from the roof of the machine shop, and in an incredibly short time huge tongues of flame were belching forth from both sides licking up the shingles and sending out fierce fiery tongues in search of food upon which to spend their fury. The alarm was sounded, the meaning of which our brave boys knew full well and regardless of their Sunday clothes and Orange paraphernalia the engine and hose reels were soon dragged into position, and in exactly eleven minutes by the watch two streams of water were playing on the roof. The wind at the time was blowing gently from the South-west, but as the heat increased it grew into a decided breeze. Right in the course of the fire would take if unchecked there stood a number of ramshackle frame buildings, dry as tinder, and the very best material for feeding a first class fire an i destroying the whole of the business portion of Lower Town from the foundry to the Bridge.

Though Fire Engines and Fire Companies as a rule do little more than save contiguous property our boys, not only did this, but also saved without serious damage apparently, a large portion of the machinery in the building where the fire originated. Mr. Carson's house started two or three times, but was soon extinguished by the engine, and willing workers with buckets, who were very valuable assistants in staying the progress of the flames. The firemen did well, and the general feeling is that the engine has saved enough to pay for itself many times over. Mr. Smith though a sufferer to the extent of two or three thousand dollars with only $300 insurance in the Wellington Mutual is delighted that things are not much worse. The boys should now stand high in the estimation of the citizens, and only a most niggardly and parsimonious council will in future quibble over their small but necessary demands.

Mr. A. Calder, representing the Sawyer & Massey Manufacturing Co., Hamilton, was in town this week on business.

Miss M. Allan and Miss Nettie Fleming and Mr. Walter Ellis, all of Mt. Forest, visited friends in town on Tuesday last.

Mr. Geo. L. Allen, Past County Master, one of Mt. Forest's popular councilmen, attended the demonstration here on the 12th., and gave the CHRONICLE a pleasant call.

South Grey Local Union Convention.

The fourth annual convention of the South Grey Local Union was held in the Presbyterian Church, Priceville, on Tuesday the 5th inst. The morning session was opened by a song service led by the Priceville Choir. The hymns chosen were very suitable for the occasion and the singing was heartily entered into by all. At the close of the song service the Rev. Mr. Matheson, of C. E. in relation to Mission work. After giving a few words of welcome, he gave an account of his experience in mission work. He showed the difficulties encountered by the early pioneer missionary in the far off fields. He also said that both Methodists and Presbyterians had worked shoulder to shoulder in this great cause. But although the conditions had greatly improved, still there was need of help in this great work, and the C. E. was one of the means by which this great work was to be carried on. The object was two fold: 1st, The young people are needed in the church as they will become the pillars in the church when the older members have passed and gone; and 2nd, It requires sacrifice on the part of all in order that the mission work may be carried on as it should be.

At 1:30 o'clock the executive met for the purpose of nominating officers for the coming year. This committee reported at the evening session.

After the opening exercise the President, W. J. Sharp, gave his address. His theme was "The true aims of the C. E." He said that the success of the convention did not rest with the Executive but upon the individual members of the different societies. The aims of our society are three in number: First, progress in church work. Second, winning souls for Christ. Third, mental development. He urged especially the establishment of a Literary Department in all societies. These societies are auxiliaries to, not substitutes for the church.

The Secretary, Miss Scott, then read the report which showed that there were 29 societies in the Union. Of these only 21 had reported viz: 7 Methodist and 14 Presbyterian. In the Methodist societies there are 146 active members, 128 associate and 176 church members. In the Presbyterian societies there are 326 active, 297 associate, and 350 church members. There are also two Junior societies with a membership of 47, making a total of 976 members.

The Treasurer, Mrs. Ferguson, stated that there is on hand $14.36 for union purposes. Also that during 1898 $121.24 had been raised for missions. The Rev. W. Johnston, of S. Zora, President of the Provincial Union, next addressed the convention on "Spirituality of C. E. methods." He said that spirituality yields in importance to none. It is and has been spirituality that gives our societies prominence, Christ being the only foundation. Only as we are quickened by God's spirit can we quicken others. The development of spirituality should be continual. Progress should be our watchword. Christian activity is the great essential.

Mr. W. McWhinney, of Maxwell, then led the "Open Parliament" subject—"The advantages and dangers of the C. E." He said the Endeavor had encountered much opposition on account of some who disapproved of its methods. The advantages mentioned were: It has taken with the young people its methods are well adapted for the work; it is fulfilling what it purposed to do; it is a training school for the young; it develops our ability. The dangers were: lack of unity; lack of efficient officers; formality; lack of duty. An animated discussion followed which brought out many new ideas. After music by the choir the Rev. Mr. Flemming, of Maxwell took up his subject: "The Pledge." He showed the importance of having a pledge and urged on all to be faithful in carrying it out to the letter. It calls for fidelity. It calls for Christian enthusiasm. So sure as the pledge becomes a thing of indifference just so sure will the society sink into oblivion, but if not ours will be the crowning victory.

The Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Dromore, next took charge of the "Question Box." The questions were based on "The difficulties in connection with your society and how to overcome them." The subject was handled to the satisfaction of all.

The evening session was opened with devotional exercises after which Mr. McWhinney, chairman of the nominating committee, read his report, which was as follows: President Mr. C. Ramage, of Durham; Vice-Pres., Mr. W. J. Blakestone, of Priceville; Secy., Miss T. Stevenson, of Holstein; Treas., Miss L. Campbell, Swinton Park. The report was adopted.

Music was again rendered by the choir, after which the Rev. Mr. Humphries, of Priceville, conducted the consecration service which proved a great spiritual blessing of communion and fellowship together.

The Rev. W. Johnston again addressed the convention on "The distinctive features of the C. E." He said we are only a part of the great union and yet an important factor. We are living in an age that is most interesting. There never was a time when the forces of evil were so subtle as at the present and never a time when our movement was so progressive as at present. He advised regular attendance on all church services as one of the great essentials of success in Endeavor work. After votes of thanks to Rev. Mr. Johnston and the choir one of the most successful conventions of the South Grey Local Union was brought to a close.
