Complaints have frequently been made of men, and overgrown lumps of boys standing round the street corners, and making ungentlemanly remarks in the hearing of ladies as they passed along the sidewalks. The town By-laws, now being published in pamphlet form will, it is hoped, have a tendency to put a stop to a species of blackguardism, that deserve severe punishment.

A young girl named Miller, living at Burgoyne, has had an unusual experience. For a couple of years she was bed-ridden with what appeared to be an incurable complaint, and had treatment from specialists. Recently she complained that the bed clothes clung to something on her back, when it was discovered that a point of a needle was protruding through the skin. It is now remembered by her family that a needle was broken when she was about three years old and the other parts were found at the time, but the point was supposed to be lost about her clothing. It remains to be seen whether the pieces of steel, which has travelled through the young girl's body, has been the cause of her long and painful illness.—Chatsworth News.

A couple of weeks ago three Orange Halls in the neighborhood of Markdale were destroyed by fire. The work no doubt of an incendiary. The subsequent Saturday night the windows of the Catholic Church in Markdale were broken by stones. Putting these two facts side by side a most natural inference would be that the incendiarism was the work of the Catholics while the breaking of the windows would be a revengeful reprisal instituted by the Orangemen. This, however, is not the case, as the two sections are living on the most friendly relations with each other and neither Catholics nor Protestants entertain such a theory. It is believed, on the contrary, that all the evils were perpetrated by the same fiend and the second act was done simply to cover up the first and to avert suspicion. The Council took prompt action in offering $50.00 reward for the detection of the culprit whom all would like to see brought to speedy justice.

OBITUARY.

We have this week to chronicle the death of one of the oldest persons in Durham in the person of Susannah Wright, relict of the late Josiah Cooper.

The deceased was born in Manton, Rutlandshire, England, Oct. 4th, 1806. In 1835 she married Mr. Josiah Cooper with whom she emigrated to Canada fifty-seven years ago and commenced farming at Toronto near the point where Bloor and Dundas streets meet. While here she had the misfortune to lose her husband, about five years later, and with her family of five children removed to the Township of Brant, near Hanover, where she lived until about six years ago when she moved into town and has since lived with her daughter, Mrs. John Wright. Though never very robust she was always in good health until about four weeks ago she contracted a cold which resulted on Monday night last in her death.

She leaves a family of four children: George, of Hanover; Mrs. Dean of Toronto, and Miss Cooper and Mrs. Wright, of Durham. Deceased was a member of the English Church and a member of the interred in Hanover Cemetery yesterday, Wednesday, afternoon. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of the community.

One of Dornoch's most fashionable weddings took place at St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church on Monday, Sept. 17th, at 9 a. m., which floral decorations and gas illuminations had adorned for the occasion. The contracting parties were Stewart Grais, of Hamilton, and Miss Kennedy, of Chesley, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Brian Kennedy of that place. ### POMONA.

Rain, rain, rain. There has been rain, more or less, every day for the last two weeks, and those who have not dug their potatoes are getting fidgetty. Don't needlessly alarm yourselves, good people. There is a time for everything, only wait for it and pitch in when it arrives.

At the time of writing, threshing is completed from end to end of our large concessions, 4 and 5, with the exception of two barns. During the season six different machines have on the line, three steam and three horsepower.

Mr. Angus Morrison and his two dogs, Jim and Corbet, secured two fine coons one morning last week. The coons put up a good fight for life and used the dogs up pretty badly, but the odds were against them. One weighed 32lbs., and the other something less.

The many friends of Miss Nellie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Neil will be pleased to learn that she recently graduated as a nurse at St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto, receiving her diploma and gold medal, with congratulatory remarks from Dr. Dwyer and the Rev. Father Ryan respectively. Miss Neil was then asked to accept the position of head nurse in that institution which she accepted. There were three other young ladies who graduated at the same time as Miss Neil. In a letter home she says she will likely be home for a brief stay at Christmas.

Mrs. Geo. McRae went down to Georgetown on the 13th inst. to see her mother, Mrs. F. Arrowsmith who is ill at the home of her youngest son, D. B. Arrowsmith.

Mr. D. McGinnis returned on the 16th, from Seaford where he had been on a week's visit to Dr. and Mrs. John McGinnis.

We recently came across and have now in our possession a tax receipt for Lot 29 Con. 5, Glenelg, dated December 18th, 1855 for 14s. 6d. The late Thomas Arrowsmith was then owner of the lot and Mr. James Edge our present Treasurer was the Tax Collector.

Mrs. Patrick Haley has been ill for some time, her chief ailment being rheumatism. Although she has not the recuperative power of one younger, we hope she may yet be able to take her place at the family table as of yore.

Mrs. D. Johnston is leaving this vicinity to join her husband and family who have secured a home and employment at St. George. Mr. A. J. Mahar bought her cow at a good honest price, $20.00.
