> REMARKABLE RESULTS OF THOM-AS-PHOSPHATE.

W. Godwin, of Market Drayton, writes to the "Lincolnshire Chronicle, April 2nd, 1898, brom which we quote: "As the phosphoric acid in Thomas-Phosphate is, presumably from its admixture with free lime, in an insoluble condition, and as it was a generally accepted theory that plants can only absorb soluble substances by their roots, I had some hesitation in accepting it as a reliable manure, and I spent a day last autumn among a number of farms in North Staffordshire, and another in South Shropshire. I am bound and indeed pleased, to confess that I was never more astonished in my life than when noting its effect upon pastures, clover roots and corn fields, especially upon the harsh, cold and almost intractable clay lands. The effect from Pekin, China, bring in- in numerous cases was simply marveldecided quietly to put frmation to the effect that the Em- lous; poor pastures, after being dressto the test. One field, especially, of some thirty acres, apparently poverty stricken to a last degree, had been dressed as to five acres with a ton of Alberts' Thomas-Phosphate Powder, which was one sheet of beautiful white clover in flower, fit to mow, while the remainder of the field afforded scarcely a bite of wiry, coarse grass." Mr. Godwin further at considerable length described root and wheat fields dressed with this manure as having withstood the drought and yielding splendidly. He concludes that genuine Thomas-Phosphate Powder comes as a decided boon, especially as its effects seem very lasting. In the same issue of this paper, Mr. Wooley, of Salop, attested to its wonderful value in bringing up an old, worn-out farm, which he had taken and which is now in capital condition. This is the farm which is being noticed in the English press as producing 77 bushels of 60-pound wheat per acre from the free use of Thomas-Phosphate Powder. Still another letter appears in this paper from Robert Eardley, of Newark, who says it seems to carry the roots through the frost better, and he noticed the good effects on the following crops, the third year being the most surprising the wheat crops being greener and stronger all through the season where it was

The mode adopted by the Boulogue Humane Society has some manifest advantages; for instance, it obviates having to pull a man 200 or 300 yards through the surf, with the prospect of rescuing him more dead than alive. Another point in favor of the method is that in a given time one can rescue more persons by it than by the use of a long-distance hawser.

The Winter Fashions in Dress and Millinery are elaborately illustrated and described, the Literary features are of an unusually high order of merit, and the Household Specialties are of the most seasonable and original character. The tender sentiment of A Modern Christmas Saint, by Clara E. Laughlin, will appeal to lovers of Stevenson in a peculiarly affectionate way. The Reboso of Senora Vigiel, by Eva Wilder Brodhead, is a captivating sketch of passionate, kind-hearted character to be found in the Southwest. Washington Society During the War, by Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, is an interesting retrospect of life at the Capital during the late conflict. Keeping Watch, an impressive Christmas poem, by Edith M. Thomas, tells the shepherd's story of the finding of the Christ-child. In the series on The Common Ills of Life, Dr. Grace Peckham Murray analyses the physical conditions and social aspects of Old Age. The article in the series on Amateur Photography contains a number of suggestions in regard to making photography remunerative for the amateur. Eleanor Georgen contributes another scholarly chapter on The Cultivation of the Voice.
