THE CHRONICLE.

DURHAM, Nov 10th, 1898.

The North West elections last week resulted in a victory for the Grits.

The Dr. Jamieson protest has been declared off. Died of starvation. Couldn't find enough bad Grits to swear him out. Speaks well for them.

The Temperance deputation to Ottawa last week met with a bland reception from Sir Wilfrid, but felt crestfallen on retiring from the House to find the newspapers reporting that the Government decided not to take any action.

BUNESSAN.

Mr. George Craig our prize axeman and hewer is practising his art in the interests of Mr. N. McIntyre in the woods down in Waterloo. Many a winter has George now spent at this his favorite occupation and many a piece of timber fresh from his axe has been sent to Quebec on its way to the world's timber market.

Mr. John Beaton, Sr. bought a horse from George Craig lately. A good horse and a good price exchanged hands.

Mr. Alexander Campbell, who has been under doctor's care for the last two weeks, is now on a fair way of recovery which his friends are very pleased. Mr. Campbell has been a remarkably healthy man and his strong constitution has been the means of his rallying so soon from his recent illness.

Mr. Thomas Gray has not been feeling his usual self this last three weeks or more but is a little better now. He is a model postmaster, so careful and obliging and we trust he may be many years with us yet in good health and able to attend to his present duties and also to relate the curious experiences of himself or of those for whom he could vouch.

Before you get this paper gentle reader, Bob Shortreed, who for so long a time has enjoyed a life of single happiness will enter upon a life of wedded bliss. The one chosen to make him happy for life is Miss Annabella McLachlan of the Durham Road one of the brightest and most winsome girls of the many such along that line. They were married on Wednesday (this) morning in the presence of friends and relatives at the residence of the bride's mother by Rev. J. A. Matheson B. D. After partaking of a sumptuous wedding breakfast the company dispersed and the bride and groom went off on a wedding tour among relatives in Galt followed by the best wishes of all who know them.

Mr. John McGillivray has built a splendid piece of railing around the band stand of the Cambie Canadian Band. More than one wishes the long, dreary winter past that spring might usher in an opportunity of hearing them discourse some of their stirring strains.

Mrs. Neil McGillivray is away visiting at the home of her sister Mrs. Alan Lyon, of Sarawak Tp. Neil, however does not lack attendance as seven of the girls are home. But notwithstanding that fact he is an abnormally looking forward to the day that is to see his wife back in her usual place at the table when he comes home from his day's occupation.

Mrs. Wm. Fallaise is away in Toronto visiting her brother and sister there. These dreary days lose none of their dreariness around William's home since his wife has gone away—though not with a handsomer man. For him the hours drag along like days and the days like months, as he is not as many girls as Neil McGillivray to cheer him in her absence.

Thrashing is finished here practically and the people are as a rule well pleased with the yield of grain and straw. This may be classed as a year of plenty not of famine as three years ago.

Mr. John H. Beaton (alias the Detective) has a pretty Indian pony but prefers driving a span of bays in his new buggy. All signs fail in the dry time but with such weather as we have had of late, signs come out all right. This seems to be an unfailing sign: Whenever a young fellow in the country (perhaps in the town too) begins driving a team in a light buggy it is not distant to the day that he will be in harness too, and his life of single blessedness is exchanged for that of double cussedness. The Detective is worth detecting. If you want to see the team watch at Mr. Laidlaw's store about 6 p. m. Saturday evenings.

Miss Jessie Beaton who works in the dress making department at Laidlaw's and Miss McDonald who has charge of the department Sundayed with the Beaton family. With Miss Jessie we are all acquainted here but with Miss McDonald, the Detective alone enjoys the pleasant privilege of acquaintance.

Where much honey is there are the busy bees found, and it is a remarkable fact that more young ladies find their way to this part since Duncan started to build "Castle Comfort." Who will be the lucky one among the number?

Messrs Alex. and Malcolm McMillan are finishing up their contract on the Saugeen bridge in the Valley. They are making an excellent job of it as they made of the bridge up in Scotch Town. It is a credit to the builders and a benefit to the community.

FLESHERTON.

On Wednesday evening of last week P. G. M. Unitt, of the A. O. U. W. delivered his second address in the town hall here to a good sized audience. At the close of the lecture the members of the society retired to their lodge room when six new members were initiated. A number more were added on Monday evening last.

Sacramental services were held in the Methodist and Baptist Churches here, on Sabbath morning last, the pastors, Rev. J. Ward, B. D. and A. J. Darroch, B. A. officiating.

Mr. Thomas Lever was up, on Saturday last, before Magistrate Vandusen on a charge of abusive language laid by F. G. Karstalt. The defendant claimed there was provocation, however, a small fine of fifty cents was imposed and costs $3.40.

Mrs. Peter Muir of Flesherton Station died on Thursday last at an advanced age. She leaves a respected family of seven grown up sons and daughters. Her remains were interred in the Presbyterian Cemetery at Priceville.

Mr. F. Dafee narrowly escaped a severe fall at the eggery recently. While engaged in building a chimney he slipped from the roof, but dexterously saved himself, and thus cheated his wife out of the pleasure of drawing his insurance.

Mr. James Allan, who is seriously ill had a professional visit from Dr. Gun on Sunday last.

Mr. John Gibson, who served his apprenticeship in the Flesherton Advance severed his connection with that office and left on Saturday for Toronto to take a position on one of the Dailies there. We wish John every success.

Mr. John Rutherford, of Owen Sd, paid Mr. M. Richardson and family a visit on Friday last. THE CHRONICLE correspondent was pleased to again meet Mr. Rutherford, but sorry to see him somewhat of an invalid from sciatica.

Mr. F. W. Unitt, of Toronto, was the guest of Mr. A. M. Gibson while in town.

Miss Ina Lamb of Markdale was the guest of Miss Minnie Munshaw last week, and Miss McQuay, of Pictou, visited Miss Robina Smith.

Miss Brownridge, of Osprey, was the guest of Miss Strain part of last week, and over Sunday.

Mrs. Bellamy sr. left Monday to visit her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Henderson, of Toronto.

Mr. R. N. Henderson is spending part of this week with his father in the city.

Mr. John Thompson, of Orillia, visited at his brother's, Mr. S. A. Thompson, "Brookhill" this week.

Principal Slaughter and Miss Irwin have been re-engaged for 1899. Miss Klippert, of the primary department, having resigned to continue her studies, will be succeeded by Miss Meredith of Durham.

We paid a visit to the Horse Shoe Hill a few days ago and found the work well forward and the road in a very passable condition, even for heavy loads. If the weather proves favorable, the contractor expects to have the job completed this week when there will be a marked transformation and appreciable improvement on this heretofore horse-wearingly and dangerous hill.

Messrs A. S. VanDusen, J. F. VanDusen, W. J. Bellamy and R. J. Sproule represented Prince Arthur Lodge A. F. and A. M. at the burial of Mr. Calloun, Sr., at Dandalk on Friday last.

Kidney-Bladder Trouble.

There is no more serious menace to good health in the present age than kidney disorders, and it's an appalling fact, but a true one, that four fifths of the country's people have the taint of this insidious disease with them. Dr. Chas. S. Kidney-liver pills cure all diseases.

CORNER CONCERNS.

While riding on a load of turnips with her pa May Hopkins felt off and dislocated her arm at the elbow.

Mrs. Wm. Amos who is in poor health spent the past fortnight under the kind attention of her mother, Mrs. McMeekin, but last week hearing that her husband was ill with a fever, returned home to be with him. Her sister, Mrs. J. Henry of Shallow Lake, came down to see her and returned Monday.

Turnip-housing was the order of the day last week. Some had about 100 loads and all a good crop.

Municipal affairs are being talked of, and for the Co. Councilorship it is concluded that Jim Allan will have no opposition in this tp. as no one else has yet expressed his intention of running. Any one intending to beat him would have to be moving pretty lively now.

Mr. Geo. Critenden, of Neustadt, visited Egremont friends Friday.

It was thought that Hallow'een this year would be attended by no evil pranks as the adults were all in attendance at the Varney revival meetings, but the juveniles decided on a celebration and with waggons, gates, etc., played the mischief.

A Trustee meeting was held last Wednesday to decide what to do with some "measly kids" who were attending school. As almost every family in the section has the disease a long suspension was deemed unnecessary.

The Rev. Mr. Kitching accompanied by Miss Williams visited the neighborhood last week congratulating and strengthening the new converts and also other members of the Varney church.

The S. S. officials assisted by the children and others will give an entertainment in the school on the evening of Nov. 30th. A good program, tea and edibles all for a 15c. admission; children 10c.

We noticed that about a dozen of our citizens took their lanterns to town with them on Saturday night, and although they had to use them along the streets they were taken more for the purpose of giving light on the way going and coming. We make the explanation so that the people of Durham will not die of shame at seeing their visitors having to supply their own lights.

STRAYED—From Lot 20, Con. 3, Bentinck, one ram, two ewes and two lambs. Any information leading to their recovery will be suitably rewarded. R. Macfarlane, tf

The Lambton Diamond

The famous Lambton diamond took the light from its many facets and strange, brilliant colors shot from its depths. It was the finest stone ever set in my life.

I was particularly pleased with the design for the setting. No other diamond had touched it, and I felt the frame, so to speak, was worthy of the picture.

The ring, now that it was finished, was fit even to adorn the hand of Lord Lambton. The beauty of the setting of the season. But I did not know that it was finished.

My young Lord Lambton his father's my own Nell I had a girl as good as pretty as any in the land. I was about to take the ring to my employer's daughter, and my private house was upstairs over a large showroom in Clifford street against all custom for Nell to come to my workshop, for her father disapproved our engagement. But she had not been able to resist the temptation of having a peep at the Lambton diamond.

Just as she had slipped it on, I was dancing about on her hand, and that the marvelous might catch the light, the door of Mr. Nugent entered. I pretended none came. Her father apparently preoccupied, merely took her from her, examined it earnestly, snapping the lid of the case upon it, placed it in his pocket and walked away.

Next day I was sitting at my desk when I saw a hansom drive up. Lord Lambton jump out. He walked into the room, which was the one where I was sitting and Mr. Nugent was.

"Soundrel!" I heard him say, could scarcely believe my ears. I thought to fool me easily by saying; but I am as good a judge of jewels as you are. You are a diamond I entrusted to you?" Mr. Nugent answered in a voice. What he said, could not have made any great impression upon Lord Lambton, however, for he interrupted, and at last a great threat concerning the "police" of my ears.

I sat still. I understood that Lord Lambton had deliberated over my employer of trying to get upon him an imitation diamond. I knew that I had set the truth and delivered it to Mr. Nugent yesterday.

My employer himself was a workman, though not a good one, and in the time that had elapsed between my handing him the stone and his transferring it to the other, could have removed the stone placed it by another. But for the trick to succeed the imitation was magnificently made, and a fine diamond must have been fully measured.

I had never known that Mr. Nugent kept any false gems about him, and besides was it likely that in this position would care to run a risk? Still, I could not remember how haggard and pale he had been of late, and interest that he took in the intelligence.

As I thus speculated on the accusation, Mr. Nugent opened the door of the work room looked keenly at me as if I had it would be safe to trust it. "Did you hear anything?" he passed in the next room.

I admitted that I had. "Of course, I shall be tried," he announced, chest thrust buskily as he spoke. Lord Lambton can make that agreeable. And look here, haven't always been as friend as I might, but I can trust you as an important witness.

You can for me, for the girl's words sounded strange. I was given no time to answer that moment Lord Lambton with two Scotland Yard employees was given into custody, taken to the police station to the premises.

Mr. Nugent being a widow only one child, the management of the business practically devolved upon the detectives ransacked they put many questions to where the stones were kept. They were all pointed out to them and seemed disappointed with the result.

Late in the evening the me in the workshop, and I had Lambton, one of them said. "This is your work, we take it that the stone you set for me. I glanced at it, but I don't call myself an expert in precious stones, and all I can say is that this one precisely resembles the shape and appearance the stone was to set.

While this statement was being made, one of the detectives looking at the Lambton diamond would have to tell all I knew about the stone, and then, just as I was about to look up the place for the stone in. It was the first time I had seen her since she had been taken away.

It was then which I thought I should have been marble.
