

Supplement to The Durham Chronicle.

DURHAM, OCT'R 19th, 1899.

FLESHERTON.

M. Richardson & Co's Millinery Opening took place on Thursday and Friday last and was more than an ordinary attraction for the ladies who with the keenest interest inspected the many beautiful creations in feminine headgear. The stock is large and very complete with the most up-to-date goods, and the newly decorated show room with handsome plate mirror in the rear made a fit setting for the beautiful display of trimmed hats, toques and bonnets which at once marked the head milliner, Miss Rankin, an artiste of superior taste and ability.

Mrs. Trimble continued her millinery opening on Friday and Saturday and as we said last week of her former opening made again a fine display of new goods and stylish millinery which must prove pleasing to the eye and heart of the fair sex.

At a Joint meeting of the Flesherton and Proton Station Presbyterian congregations held in the Presbyterian Church here on Monday last it was decided to unite the later with this charge. This will necessitate the withdrawal of the regular evening service here in favor of Proton.
