FLESHERTON.

A fair sized audience greeted the Burton-Thompson, elocutionists, under the auspices of the Band in the Town Hall here on Wednesday evening of last week.

Thanksgiving Day was, of course, a holiday here and many were the ways the day was spent by our citizens. At 11 a. m., a union thanksgiving service was held in the Methodist Church, the sermon being preached by Rev. L. W. Thom, who chose for his text Deut. 6, 10-22, and dealt with it under the following divisions: our heritage, our appropriation, our danger and our thanksgiving.

The pulpits here were all supplied by strangers on Sabbath last and very able and edifying sermons were given by the visitors. Rev. T. Campbell, Dundalk, exchanged pulpits with the Methodist pastor, Rev. J. Ward. Rev. Mr. McKinnon of Port Elgin, exchanged with the Baptist pastor, Rev. A. J. Darroch, who is assisting him last week and this in special services.

The teachers in our Pabic School have been re-engaged for 1900.

Among the visitors on Thanksgiving Day were Mr. J. Mills of Toronto, at Mr. Jas. Sullivan's; Mr. H. Watt of Markdale, at the Manse; Mr. Arch. Gibson and Mr. J. Moore of Dundalk, at the former's home; Mr. Fred. Strain, at home and Mr. W. Neil, of Toronto, visited his sister, Miss Mary Neil.

Mr. Thos. Leitch left last week to make a short visit with friends in Owen Sound, after which he will visit for a few months with his daughter, Mrs. J. P. Stephens in Collingwood.

Mr. J. White, of Toronto, is visiting at Mr. Richard Smith's.

Mr. John Gibson, of The Herald, Dundalk, Sundayed at home.

Mr. Percy Hamilton and Miss Caswell, of Meaford, visited over Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Hamilton.

Mrs. T. Aikenhead, of Toronto, is visiting her mother, Mrs. J. W. Armstrong.

Mr. W. Richie salesman in M. Richardson & Co's has returned to his position after a short illness at home in Orangeville.

"Keeping cows for Profit" is the title of a little book received at this office. It is exceedingly neat in its general get-up and as every page contains some valuable hints for dairymen it would be well for all our readers to avail themselves of the privilege of getting a copy, which will be furnished free to all who apply to the De Laval Separator Co. 74 Courtlandt St. New York. In writing mention The Chronicle.

AGNES HUDSON, wife of Mr Samuel Dickson, reeve of Bentinck, died at her home on Monday of last week. Deceased was a native of Galshields, Scotland, came to this country about forty-five years ago, and was married to Mr. Dickson over forty years ago. Besides her husband, three sons and five daughters remain to mourn the loss of an affectionate wife and mother.

OWING to the limited circulation of Local papers, and the great cost of getting up the matter for the first copy, they cannot be furnished so cheaply as large city weeklies, which run daily editions also and save matter for the weekly edition. THE CHRONICLE to the end of next year, only one dollar, or a trial trip for the balance of 1899 for only ten cents.

OUR report of the Grit Convention is necessarily brief, but an effort has been made to give a general idea of what each speaker said. The best and most exhaustive address was made by Mr. Campbell, but his failure to eulogize Tarte leaves a sad blank. Mr. O'Connor's effort to be little the election frauds in Waterloo, though received by some didn't go down with all the Grits and his reference to the opinion of two judges being in opposition to the bulk of the people is far fetched.

DURING the thunder storm about noon on Sunday, Oct. 15th, lightning struck the large barn on the farm near Arnott owned by David Smith and occupied by E. Dennet. In short time the building was in flames and totally destroyed together with the largest crop that has ever been harvested from the place, part of which had been threshed the day previous. A mower and several other implements were destroyed. Threshing machine, the property of Richard Green and James Edmund was in the barn and was consumed. There was no insurance on the crop and this most unfortunate occurrence has placed Mr. Dennet in bad circumstances. The neighbors who highly regard Mr. D., have volunteered liberal assistance and are solicited aid from all who are disposed to be a man worthy of assistance—Chas. worth Banner, Mr. Elijah Dennet, a brother of Mr. Henry Dennet, Varney, and formerly lived in N. manby.
