ing weeds that other animals will not touch.

With reference to breed the farmer should decide on the breed he intends to raise, and of this breed get the very best obtainable. It is not well to have a mixture of different breeds as they will degenerate both in wool producing qualities as well as in flesh.

Many lambs die because the ewes are not properly exercised previous to the birth season. They should have the freedom of a yard during the day. Lambs should be docked and castrated while young so that if unready for the early market they will sell to best advantage later on. They should have nice fresh pasture and plenty of water. Rape sowed in rows affords good feeding; and if care be taken that they be not cast in the drills they will be ready for an early market.

EVENING SESSION.

The evening meeting was a great success, the hall being literally packed, and many were unable to find seating room. Mayor Laidlaw was voted to the chair and in the course of his remarks welcomed the farmers, congratulated them on the success of their meeting and threw out a hint that might be construed to mean that before next meeting a larger hall would be provided. We cannot go minutely into the whole thing, and as this is essentially a farmers' meeting, the contributors to the entertainments who did not deal directly on matters pertaining to the farmers' welfare will pardon us for once while we attempt to record the hints thrown out by members of the delegation particularly.

The violin and piccolo selections given by the Haw Bros. of Swinton Park, were very highly appreciated by the whole audience as shown by the genuine ecstasies following each of their numbers.

Miss King, of Mt. Forest, made her first appearance as a soloist, and we feel safe in saying that her various selections afforded a genuine treat. Her rendering of the little song about our grand old national flag was a real treat, and seldom, if ever, did a genuine outburst of patriotic fervor, take such deep hold of a Durham audience, as when this talented young lady sang the concluding stanza, and gracefully waved the little emblem of loyalty that binds us together as a nation. Miss King was vociferously encored and with unaffected grace and becoming modesty responded to the call. Miss King has certainly won favor in Durham.

Another feature of the program that deserves special mention was an exhibition of club swinging by five little girls from Miss McCannel's school near Priceville. To the music furnished by Miss King on the piano and Mr. Haw on the violin these children kept excellent time for a lengthy period going through the various exercises in which they had evidently been well drilled. The exercise was indeed creditable to themselves and Miss McCannel who have exercised great patience in the preparation.

Mr. Wm. Ramage, who is ever rerdy with a patriotic song, and Mr. Telford of similar renown were valuable contributors to the musical part of the program.

Dr. Jamieson, M. P. P., and Mr. Gilbert McKechnie, Ex-M. P. P., made brief addresses that were both interesting and instructive.

Mr. Elliott, of Galt, a member of the delegation was biled to speak on "The Changed Condition of Agriculture," and after referring to his previous visit here some years ago, congratulating the audience on its superior intelligence and instituting a charge against our school system for neglecting agricultural education, he pointed out the difficulties in a country like Canada with its increased intelligence, increased tastes and increased requirements, to compete with such countries as Egypt, Russia, Manitoba or other lands where economic principles were developed to a degree we can never hope to attain. It was then shown that England had received 66% of all her butter and cheese importations from Canada, not as the result of competition in prices, but because of superior excellence in manufacture and honesty in dealing. Under the circumstances Canada, to hold her position in the British market, must continue to exercise her principles of honesty, and to furnish the very best article in every line that it is possible to produce.

Comparison was made also between the differences of climate in Canada and the United States. In the latter country the climate was milder and a livelihood could be earned with less difficulty, but the tendency would be towards physical degeneracy. The address was listened to with much interest.

Mr. Glendinning, of Manila, another member of the delegation next spoke on "The Farmers' Fruit and Vegetable Garden" giving useful hints that would be well to follow. In his opinion farmers attempt gardening on too small a scale. Gardens should be long and not the ordinary square patches so often found in front of, or near the house. The soil should be dry, rich and well fenced. Would recommend about three varieties of gooseberries and three of currants, planted in rows about six feet apart in the rows. In this way a large amount of cultivation could be done by the aid of a horse. Strawberries should also be planted in rows as well as vegetables of all kinds. He would recommend

A Bright Life Ruined by Cocaine

Which he first took in a Catarrh Remedy—Ends his Life in an Insane Asylum.

The manager of a large manufacturing concern in Toronto tells the pathetic story of how one of their travellers, a young man of great promise, became addicted to the cocaine habit by using a catarrh remedy containing this deadly drug.

In a few months he became a wreck, mentally and physically, and is now ending his life in an insane asylum.

It is impossible to estimate the countless number of lives being sacrificed to this dreadful habit as a result of using cocaine in a remedy for catarrh.

the planting of potatoes on the flat, and should the crust harden after planting it should be broken up with a scuffler as the tillage would tend to conserve moisture and promote growth.

For early potatoes, place whole seed in a box in the month of March in a warm place and leave there till sprouted, and stalks have attained a considerable length, then place the seed in early spring in a hole leaving the stalk above ground. Should the weather threaten frost, it may be necessary to protect the young plant, but in this way with the exercise of a little care, a small patch of early potatoes may be cultivated with good results.

Regarding tomatoes the plants may be grown in early Spring in pots until covered with bloom and fruit begins to set. Then as soon as possible transplant to the open ground and protect from heavy rains and frost which may be done by keeping covered with boxes elevated a short distance from the ground. Good cultivation added to these precautions will almost invariably insure a good crop.

About eleven o'clock the National Anthem closed one of the most, if not the most successful meeting of the Association.
