Mr. Spencer, its champion, and author, or originator, still lives though in his sixties. Surely this is modern enough. The Vertical system has gates. The latest extortion—that of ing year.

A pearing bee was held at the resifice we believe modern historians, it must have been taught while Mr. Spencer was yet quite a little boy. Who knows but what Confucius used it in Chinese chirography many years before the Christian era?

I hope no one will think I am trying to expose my poor wits vauntingly, but I would give much assistance to that body of noble benefactors who fearlessly and courageously might give this Vertical writing fad a last long resting-place. Would it were consigned to eternal oblivion with R, I. P. respectfully and indetibly inscribed over its tomb. With the Spencerian system again introduced and carefully taught, the N. American school children would again come to the front and many a youth and maiden would be saved much disappoint-ment and hard labor simply by finding their reception into business circles facilitated by the teachings in P. Schools of a system required and demanded by business men.

Public School Inspectors and Principals ought to confirm more to the requirements of the age. They ought to endeavor to be more practical.
