The Review says:—"Men like horse races, and women too." Why of course, sensible men always did like women.

MR. A. S. HUNTER sold his thoroughbred Hereford bull, "Likely Lad," to Mr. Joseph Brown, of Mt. Forest, whom we believe possesses now, one of the finest animals in the Dominion. He's a dandy.

MEMBERS of the Horticultural Society are requested to select premiums for delivery this fall, either apple or cherry trees or bulbs, and inform the secretary at once of the choice made.

"BACHELOR girls" are very much the fashion now, says an exchange. There is a world of difference between the bachelor girl and an old maid. An old maid is a woman who missed matrimony and had no other resource to which to turn. A bachelor girl is an unmarried woman who earns her living in a merry, independent way, and feels that she will never be disappointed whether she marries or not.

TWO BARN BURNED.—On Tuesday afternoon last while Mr. Thos. Caldwell, of Orchardville, was attending the Egremont Fair at Holstein, his fine barn, one of the best, if not the best in the county, caught fire in some mysterious manner, and before anything could be removed the whole structure was laid in ashes. A stiff breeze was blowing at the time and a burning shingle was carried to Mr. John Calvert's about fifty rods away and, lighting on the roof, it, too, became a prey to the devouring element. We have not learned full particulars but the losses will be great. The building cannot be replaced for less than $3000.

TEN years ago a man with a wife, two children, and $10 in his pocket drifted into Chicago. Last week the same man sailed from Europe with his family, accompanied by valets and maids, a stenographer, &c., worth $5,000,000, the absolute ruler of 50,000 people, and proprietor of a college, a bank and a hotel, and of the greatest city of religion planned since the Mormons set up in Salt Lake. This is Dr. Dowie, of Zion fame, who believes that he can cure by the laying on of hands. Talk about investments. None seems to pay as well as the discovery of a new kind of medicated religion.

In 1894 John Tolmie was nominated by the P. P. A. in convention at Walkerton as their candidate for West Bruce. In 1896 he was nominated by the Patrons of Industry in convention at Tiverton. In the same year he secured the endorsement of the Conservative party and went to the polls as a P. P. A.—Patron-Conservative candidate and was elected. In 1900 (Sept. 24), he was nominated by the Liberal party as their candidate for West Bruce. Can history furnish a similar record? Is their one riding in Canada that can produce a man to out-Tolmie Tolmie? If so, signify in the usual way. None.

OUR subscription list is going up rapidly, and with the special inducements we are offering new subscribers we hope to add a great many more before the end of the century.

ANOTHER interesting letter from the Philippines appears in this issue. Though Frank denies being an author he writes a very racy letter, which we know is widely read and appreciated.

THE New McIntyre Block is being pushed ahead rapidly, and when finished will present a fine appearance. The new addition will have six stores on the ground flat, and the second floor will be used as dwellings.

THE fever we had in town a few weeks ago, about which there was so much scare in the surrounding townships, is rapidly simmering down to the vanishing point and we are pleased to add, without any fatalities, it is true some of them were "good and sick" according to their own story, but we trust that in a short time, every one of them will be as active and healthy as before the attack.

It has been suggested that a great leakage could be avoided in connection with our Furniture Factory if we had a chair manufactory in connection with it. At present a great deal of material, utterly worthless for general furniture must be used as fuel, whereas with a chair factory in connection every scrap could be made use of. It would be well, we think, for the Directors to take the matter into consideration.

A sensational case of elopement occurred this week when one of the young men of Meaford, respectably connected, made his disappearance at the same time as another man's wife from the same place. On Tuesday Constable George Owens, of Meaford, came over to town with a large sheet of paper in his hand and a determination to round up the erring lovers. One of them, the woman, he found at a boarding house, the other at an hotel. The officer took the young fellow back to Meaford, but the law apparently had no hold on him, for he was acquitted at the Lakeside Town. It is said that the pair took the Parry Sound out of here last night.—O. S. Sun.

THE increase in population will soon make it necessary to erect new dwellings. Even now and in fact for some time past, it is difficult to get a place fit to live in. At present there are many old shacks, overtaken, that wouldn't be looked at if better and more convenient places could be secured. Again the rent asked for some of the better class of dwellings is so high, that only those who are in fairly good circumstances can afford the luxury of a good house to live in. Many people who have not houses of their own, think that renting is an unsatisfactory outlay and would build for themselves if eligible sites could be secured at a reasonable price, but here we are again combated by the extravagant greed of land owners, whose valuation should cause a blush when the sale price is compared with the cash value placed upon the property. Such greed is detrimental to the progress of any town and our Council and Assessor should see to it, that vacant and eligible building or business property is run up on the Assessment roll. This is no visionary hint and we feel assured that our Town Fathers would be justified in getting a revenue out of property that might be built up and enhance the value of the place.

THIS week the masons laid a fine big stone in the McIntyre block bearing the name of the owner and the date of its erection. The stone was cut by Mr. T. Jennings, of W. M. McCalmon's marble shop and does credit to the building.

OUR young townsman, Mr. Roy Gordon, gave the citizens of Durham a big surprise on Show Day, when he came out as a prize winner in the Bicycle Race, and got first money. No one ever dreamed that Roy was a scorcher of such high merit.

MR. McARTHUR has this week transferred his stock to the Old McKechnie Store, and Mr. Morlock is settling his goods in the store just vacated by Mr. McArthur. Mr. Morlock purchased the building some time ago, and is using the upper flat as a dwelling.

THE partial failure of the Manitoba crops this season was the means of throwing some goods back on the makers' hands. We say an excellent opportunity to procure your winter clothing at a big discount and took it. In consequence boys', youths', and men's pants, suits and overcoats can be purchased at big reductions.

THE rapid material advancement of Durham during the past two or three years is bringing out in greater hid-cousness the shabby old land marks that are still left, but will, we trust, soon be replaced by something more beautiful and more useful. Instead of the old shacks of two or three years ago, we have now fine brick blocks that would do credit to places of much greater pretensions. Instead of the rickety old sidewalks we are getting in the modern granolithic, and better than these, instead an army of idlers, our young men to their credit, have been transformed into bread winners for themselves and their families. Far be it from us to admit that any government should get credit for these visible signs of progress. The thing is universal in this western continent, and we only share the wave of prosperity, now spreading from the Atlantic to the Pacific, and from the Torrid regions to the Arctic zone. And yet with all our improvements there remains a lack. The bridges in the heart of the town are not at all creditable, and notwithstanding occasional patchwork, new structures will soon have to replace the old ones, but the character of the new bridges should be composed is a question worth considering. Steel bridges have been spoken of, and in some localities are quite popular, but as the spans over our river here are quite short, the building of stone bridges might be, in fact, is well worthy of thorough investigation. Of material suitable for such purposes we have no lack, and during the slack winter season a great deal of it could be put on the ground quite cheaply. However, as the question is not seriously thought of we shall leave it for consideration.

Mr. F. Search, of Georgetown, who recently secured a position in the Furniture Factory, here, was joined by his family a week or two ago; and so the increase of population goes on. We welcome all the newcomers.

MILLINERY OPENINGS.

The writer undertook to describe definitely to a large class how to make a loaf of bread. The getting together of the flour and other ingredients proved smooth sailing, but when we explained that a good handling of hops should next be added dry to the mixture, an unmistakable giggle from different parts of the room was satisfying evidence that something was wrong, and not until afterwards did we know the hops had to be soaked in boiling water before they were put into the dry flour. In describing some of the fantastic paraphernalia seen round a millinery shop on opening days we trust our readers will pardon us if we step aside from the path of correct millinery rectitude, and make a blunder similar to the one we have just acknowledged.

On Friday and Saturday last the millinery establishment of Ireland & Co., and Miss Culbertson were visited by a large number of ladies from town and country, who now regard it as part of the charm of living to go from place to place and gaze upon the artistic beauties.

The work of this department at Ireland & Co's. is again under the management of Miss Dick, of London, who is now putting in her second season here. In a short interview we were pleased to learn what can hardly be regarded as other than an increased popularity in Miss Dick's work. The sales are a good criterion to judge by and, though Fall is not so good and brisk in millinery goods, yet the sales here have far surpassed those of the Spring Opening which at that time were considered highly satisfactory. The walls of the show room were neatly draped and hung with very attractive pictures which, together with the unusually large display of pretty bonnets and hats, captivate at once the eye of the beholder.

The name "General Roberts," "Baden-Powell," "Volunteer," "Powerful," "Valiant," etc., given to various articles of head gear are suggestive of a strong military admiration which we trust the ladies wearing such hats will carry their hearts as well as their heads. We give here a brief but very imperfect description of a few of the pretty articles on exhibition at the Opening, beginning with a handsome picture hat.

1. This elaborate model is made of black mirror velvet, draped crown clasped with one large steel buckle. Brim of black tuck velvet and tacked chiffon facing, a very stylish bow of ribbon velvet at back.

2. Another picture hat that will be exceedingly popular this winter will be the double brim, bent up at side and filled out with two drooping Amazon plumes.

3. Large gray mirror velvet toque brim draped with handsome chenille, white ospreys and steel buckles. Draped crown of mirror velvet.

Miss Culbertson, too, made every effort to give an attractive appearance to her show rooms. The walls here also were artistically trimmed, looked pretty and were quite in keeping with the large lot of elegantly trimmed hats and bonnets that at once arrested the attention of the writer. To the interested eye of male visitors it seemed that nothing could be prettier. We did not learn any fancy names by which these goods were known, but we have no doubt that some imaginative genius could invent something that would be quite appropriate. Here goes a description of a few of them:

1. A blue-gray velvet turban, with gray fur on the brim,—large soft crown and a very handsome gray bird on the left corner of front, trimmed at left side with loops of gray ribbon, which extends gracefully around the crown to right where it is finished with a handsome bow.

2. A black silk velvet hat, with sequin crown. Edge of leaf has a round of black chiffon, the under side of leaf being encircled with two rows of white tuck chiffon, trimmed with two large ostrich tips falling gracefully over the left side and the left corner of the front has a large rosette of black chiffon. The right side being finished with bows of black velvet ribbon. The side band is finished with loops of velvet ribbon caught with a rhinestone pin.

3. A child's hat of rose colored velvet, under side faced with sherry cream silk, finished with a large ruche of cream chiffon. The brim is made of a frill of the velvet with stitched edge, edged with cream lace. Soft crown of the velvet and trimmed with a large bow of the cream ribbon in front.

4. A chinille bonnet. Puff of silk velvet around the edge and a beautiful sequin wing falling gracefully from the left front over the crown. Two black ostrich tips at the right corner. A broad bow of satin ribbon across the front knotted with handsome green ribbon, finished at corners with loops of the ribbon, and on the back is a handsome rhinestone buckle.

5. The Juliette, a very handsome black felt hat, trimmed with three large black ostrich plumes, two falling over left side and one over the hair at back. The back has loops of black ribbon velvet, the front has large knots of taffeta silk with stitching under the leaf on, side is a very handsome knot of cerise velvet.
