SOUTH GREY REDEEMED.

MR. M. RICHARDSON ELECTED BY ABOUT 150 MAJORITY OVER DR. LANDERKIN.

A Hot Time in the Old Town, but no Rowdiness. Great Enthusiasm all Along the Line.

The Government Sustained. Quebec Goes Almost Solid for Laurier, who will Likely Have a Majority of About 40. Full Returns Not Yet in.

The elections are over, and whatever the result in the Dominion may be South Grey will be represented in the House of Commons by a man whom both parties cannot fail to respect. Mr. Richardson, the standard bearer of the Conservative party, and the member elect for this Constituency of South Grey has often been referred to in these columns during the campaign as a gentleman, whose every action in life is worthy of emulation. Now that the battle is over and the victory won, we may sum up the whole by saying we meant every word we said, and we believe the future conduct of Mr. Richardson, as a legislator, will convince our readers of the fairness of our estimate.

Dr. Landerkin, whom he defeated, has held the Constituency for about a quarter of a century, and South Grey had almost come to be looked upon as a Gibraltar of Liberalism. The Dr., as we have said all along, was popular with all classes, and felt perhaps just as Mr. Richardson may feel to day, that he was indebted for his position to a Liberal support from Conservatives and Independent voters, as well those who were solidly attached to his own party. His majorities were never large, yet they were large enough to keep him in power, and a new man in the field to oppose him, a resident of one side of the Constituency, and a man who was very little known to the general public, the Liberals entered the contest with high hopes of scoring a brilliant victory, of such magnitude as to cause Mr. Richardson to sink back into the quietude of private life. From the outset we had said nothing against the character of Dr. Landerkin; in fact we do not think that any one would be justified in attempting to do so. The democratic nature of our Constitution forces a submission to the will of the majority, and the majority of the electors, who have expressed themselves in this contest, have pronounced in favor of Mr. Richardson, just as the majority of the Dominion has said they want the Laurier government for another term. There is no alternative, and as true loyal subjects we can do nothing better than to submit. The fight is over now, the die is cast, and it behoves us all to watch the actions of the administration, and turn them out if they are doing wrong.

There is one very pleasing feature about this contest. So far there has not been a hint of bribery or corruption, and apart from a few little items of "small politics" the whole contest has evidently been a pure one and parity we believe will do more to strengthen either party and keep the Constituency stable, than the petty devices and small pieces of political trickery that are too often indulged in in political contests. Let a constituency once become demoralized through bribery and corrupt practices, and a generation must pass before such constituency can again be restored to original purity. The contest here, we believe, was all right. We congratulate Mr. Richardson on his splendid victory, and we hope his record during the next five years will be such that the people will know him by his works and no newspaper commendations will be necessary to secure his return to power.

What greater enthusiasm was ever shown in Durham than that witnessed last night when the announcement. Everything seemed to run wild but the best of good nature was shown everywhere. We believe too from the absence of drinking that the hotel men stuck to the law.

Following is the list of majorities at the different polling places as near as could be ascertained:—

NOTES.

The majority, 7 for Dr. Landerkin in Bentinck, is phenomenally low. Egremont's majority, about 25 for Landerkin, including, say 20 at Yeovil, which is not yet to hand, is something of a surprise to the Liberals, who were expecting a much higher support. They didn't get more than 25 per cent, of what, we understand, they were counting on. Gleneleg breaks nearly even, but a majority for Mr. Richardson was hardly expected. They too did well. Hanover gave a good Conservative vote, but we are not in possession of the figures. Mr. Richardson's majority will be between 150 and 160 in the whole Constituency.

When Mr. Richardson's name was mentioned, some who didn't know the man pronounced him "a walk over." Just so.

When Mr. Richardson was chosen by the Convention leading Liberal here, said "He suits the Grits all right." He suits the Tories all right too. Strange isn't it that a "little man" like Mr. Richardson should suit both parties?

The Italian Harpers are still alive and well, and their music didn't hurt anybody. It seems like small potatoes to throw out insinuations about the kind of legitimate entertainment furnished by Mr. Richardson in the campaign. Is there a man, woman or child, who ever pointed to anything wrong the Italian boys were guilty of during the whole tour? People who condemn such attractions should never say "It pays to advertise."

What miserable little insinuations, Mr. Lucas makes as to Dr. Laneckerkin," says the Review. Aren't they almost as heavy as the beer bubbles, some of Dr. Landerkin's prize heelers were making so much fuss about, even though they may not have changed any more votes.

Wanted—A receipt for preserving the voice, applications may be made at the Review Office. This is his ad, which appeared in last week's issue. He says:—"Boys if you have any method of preserving your voices until Mr. Richardson is elected in South Grey, let us have the recipe. No doubt Charlie's voice is a little out of tune but his howling over the Doctors' victory hasn't been accountable for it.

MISS ELLA WILLOUGHAN, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Willoughan, a short distance east of town, after a lingering illness from consumption, departed this life at the early age of eighteen years. Before her death she left a dying testimony to show her implicit confidence in Christ as her Saviour, and departed in peace. Deceased leaves a father, mother, three sisters and three brothers. The brothers are James, of Toronto, Willie and Harry at home, and the sisters are Martha, Lizzie and Mary, the latter being now Mrs. W. Perry, of Lockport, N. Y. The relatives wish to thank the many neighbors and friends for the kindness shown them during their trouble and bereavement. We extend our sympathy.

MR. RICHARD ENGLISH, has had the misfortune to lose a very fine seven year old mare, under rather peculiar circumstances. While grazing near by a swamp it partook of some poisonous ivy, and in some way a stock or root, some six inches long, became lodged about the root of the tongue, and there remained till it had the effect of poisoning and causing the tongue to swell to such extent that breathing became so difficult that the V. S. had to resort to opening a breathing channel between her jaws in the neck. The poor animal remained in this state for some eight days without food, when the poisonous weed worked its way out through the neck, but the result was death after a few more days lingering.—Glascock Cor.

He leaves to-day for the Pacific coast, and if circumstances suit he will locate there, otherwise he talks of returning to the Old Country.

A PACKED HOUSE attended Mr. Richardson's meeting here on Monday night and a most attentive and appreciative hearing was given to all the speakers, interruptions occurring by vociferous yells of approval only when the Government was arraigned for misconduct and a failure to fulfil its pre-election promises. Mr. Laidlaw was in the chair, and discharged his duty fairly and honestly. The speakers for Mr. Richardson were Mr. Taylor, Mr. I. B. Lucas, who came in late after attending a meeting at Lamdash, and the candidate himself. Mr. H. H. Miller got an attentive hearing for about an hour, in the interests of Dr. Landerkin, but as the election is now over an outline of the address is quite unnecessary. Conservative sentiment was decidedly strong.

On Thursday morning of last week Mr. John Potter, an old, respected and well-to-do resident of Bentinck after an illness of some weeks duration was called upon to cross that bourne from which no traveller returns. Though we have a slight personal knowledge of the old gentleman for the past four years we are not sufficiently informed of his history to give an accurate obituary, and as we have not met any one who seems to know the particulars, we must necessarily be very brief in our remarks. He was about 80 years of age, an industrious, hardworking farmer, possessed like the rest of us of his own peculiarities, but honest in relation with his fellow man. He leaves a good farm, and considerable property which he accumulated by toil and industry. The deceased is well spoken of and the sympathy of the community goes out to the daughter of the deceased whom we understand is the only remaining child.

THE RETURN OF THE BOYS

That this week has been one of pronounced excitement in Toronto requires scarcely to be said. The welcoming home of the Canadian Contingent and on a General Dominion Election are two events that are not to be found in a generation or in a single week. Toronto was in magnificent attire. Scarcely a home but had its wealth of gaiety in flags, bunting and decorations displayed. All along the route taken by the procession escorting the returned soldiers who have fought in South Africa from the railway station to the armouries, the buildings are almost entirely concealed from view by flags and ensigns and streamers and devices. Among the great public buildings lauded in splendour are the principal banks, Eaton's and Simpson's great departmental stores, the Confederation Life Building, Earngey's and Hassard's law offices, Kent's Jewellery store, Dineen's, Boineaus, the Oak Hall, the railway offices, the insurance companies' buildings and all the hundreds of leading stores on the miles of streets.

Conscious among the private homes which are so profusely decorated as to attract noticeable attention are the homes of Capt. Barker, of the Contingent, on Cecil street, the residence of Col. Outer, on Spadina Ave., the house of Senator Cox., which is surrounded by flags and streamers, the residence of Dr. Levy, on Yonge street, the home of Mr. N. Hassard, on Seaton street, which is covered with Union Jacks and Canadian flags, and many other residences too numerous to mention. The Arch of Triumph, on University street, has been viewed since its erection by tens of thousands. All Toronto turned out to view the procession go by. Seats in balconies, windows, roof tops and every possible place of vantage was crowded. It is said that a few mercenary creatures inhabiting houses along the line of march were unpatriotic enough to charge prices for seating room in their premises. Had I their photographs I would forward them in order that the public might see what are the features of individuals of that character. The affair was a great success from every standpoint. All Toronto has welcomed home the warriors. All Toronto has joined in congratulations. All Toronto has rejoiced. The excitement even yet has not subsided; and will not abate for some time to come. Wherever a soldier, dressed in khaki, is seen he is cheered and applauded. And round the winter firesides in the long days to come will be told the story of the victories and the celebration at the home-coming of the boys who fought our battles in S. Africa.
