MR J. A. HUNTER is our most extensive advertiser, and in his ad. this week he comes out flat-footed and says it was the big ad. last week that brought the immense crowd to his store on Saturday last. This is certainly a high recommendation regarding the power of printers' ink, but we may just say to Mr. Hunter, much as we believe in advertising, that even the local papers of Durham cannot continue to draw crowds unless the advertisers back up every word they say with plain unvarnished truth. Mr. Hunter claims to do this and we have never known anything to the contrary. In fact, we believe all our advertising patrons have long ago learned that the public cannot always be deceived. To sum the whole thing up in a few words, we believe it is impossible to-day for any business man to get the best returns for his investments without using the columns of the local paper. We are now in the 20th century and the business methods of a hundred years ago are long out of date. If you have anything to sell tell the people, and the cheapest and best way to do this is through the press. Nov. 19th.
