Two of Durham's most devoted young men were present at the school house on Sunday, and after service we noticed on their faces such a serene happy look that we believe they are on the right track, and will continue on until victory is gained and the prize is won.

News is scarce this week, and it is a hard job to get up a budget. We would have been glad of any occurrence to help us out. In fact, if it had only been for some one to throw a rotten egg at us we would have tried to hatch a good item out of it, and get a compliment of some kind for the doner.

About a half dozen of our farmers were breaking in their colts last week. They like to have a little loose snow to hitch them in for the first time, so if their actions are at any time displeasing, they can pop them out of sight in a snow bank.

Mr. and Mrs. John Morrow spent last week in visiting their kinsfolk, the Mack and Nichol families. They will call on Berkeley, Grand Valley and Berlin friends before returning to their home in Elva, Manitoba.

We noticed a dearth in valentines this year. Those who other years would take their pen and in their hand write make-up valentines that were highly sensational, were, this year, so busy manufacturing for home use that they hadn't time to meddle with the affairs of other people.

Mr. Dave Hillis was up to Shallow Lake last week attending the funeral of his brother-in-law, Mr. Isaiah Flood who was well known in this part as a cheerful, hard-working man. He leaves a wife and ten young children to mourn their loss.
