June Weddings.

June is the most popular month in the year for weddings. We have sold more Gowns this June than we have done for years, and we have to day the Prettiest range of White Organdies, Muslins, Silks and Stuff Goods in town.

We pay particular attention to our Dress Goods department. We know that if we don't carry the stock you require that we cannot expect to sell to you. In our large store we think that the most fastidious customer can be satisfied—from the fact that we have so very many well filled, separate and distinct departments. Just drop in some day and see us. We like to show you are goods. It's a pleasure, no matter whether you buy or not. We are here to serve you.

Wool Wanted.

Wool wanted for cash or trade. Rush in your wool early. We can't see any chance of a rise in price, so you are safe to sell now.

IT'S A SNAP to be able to exchange your wool at a store where you can get Sugar, Nails, Tobacco, Clothing, Hardware, Boots, Wall Paper, or almost anything else. Most woolen stores only offer you a small stock of woolen goods at big prices. There profit is large enough to allow a long trade price in the wool.

Hardware Specials.

Every week sees additional stock in this department. Call and examine our stock.

Washing Machines, Screen Doors, Clothes Wringers, Happy Thought Ranges, Razors, Lawn Mowers and Jack Screws.

Lacrosse Notes.

THE HANOVER BOYS WILL PLAY IN DURHAM ON CORONATION DAY.

The Hanover team will play the Durhams on Durham grounds on Coronation Day.

The opening game of Intermediate League No. 4 was played in Hanover on Friday between the Lornes of Mj Forest and the home team. Result 8-0 in favor of visitors.

The Durham boys play to-day (Wednesday) against the Owen Sound team in the County Capital. A number accompanied the boys from town to witness the game.

An interesting game of lacrosse was played on the Turf Association grounds, Shelburne, on Friday afternoon between the Dauntless of Shelburne, and the Dundalk club. The game was an excellent one all through and would have done credit to any intermediate series. Shelburne has a bunch of interesting youngsters that are clever stick handlers and with another year's practice will be able to give a warm reception to any of the senior teams. At the close of the game the score stood 9 to 4 in favor of Shelburne.—Free Press.

If an old lacrosse man had stood on the pretty High School grounds at Harrison last Thursday evening, and witnessed the lacrosse match between the Harrison and Hanover teams, his mind would have recalled the glorious struggles of bygone days when an athlete would receive rounds of applause for brilliant individual play. Memory would picture the time when big, husky fellows indulged in battles royal; when an expert lacrosse player would spurt past the grand stand with three or four opponents after him followed by the cheer of his best girl, or perhaps three or four of them, for a player of such prowess would be sure to have at least that many. Those were the days when a defence man was the idol of the line if he could throw the ball the farthest in that backward, dunt care-where-it-goes style. But things have changed since then in lacrosse as in other things. To-day while fleetness of foot, agility, courage are requisites of a good lacrosse player, it is the team play that counts. By-the-way you will remember that Hanover got rather the worst of it in an encounter with Durham recently. Well to tell the truth a game was arranged with Harrison—for they were considered to be easy—in order to try and even things up and of course get a little practice. Lacrosse is in its infancy in Harrison which has long been a good old baseball town. They have a team there, which with some practice, could give a good aggregation a game. But they will have to practise. Hanover beat them 5 to 1, but under ordinary circumstances they could quite easily have doubled or tripled the score. The visitors were treated very decently by the Harrison people in general, and when the Harrison boys come to Hanover on the 12th of July, they may rest assured that they will spend a pleasant day, have good square meals, and play a not too one-sided lacrosse match. Among the Harrison team the only familiar face was that of "Billy" Hallam, an old Hanover boy, who defended the flags and did it well.—Hanover Post.

GREY AND BRUCE BAPTISTS.

The Owen Sound Association Meeting at Strathavon.

(Special despatch to the Globe).

Owen Sound, June 13.—The Owen Sound Association of Baptist Churches held its annual meeting at Strathavon on the 10th, 11th and 12th inst. The territory included within this association from Meaford and Thornbury on the east, to Port Elgin on the west, and from Durham northward to the extreme limit of the Bruce Peninsula. There are thirty churches within this Association, with more than 1,600 members in all. About one hundred members were added upon profession and baptism during the past year. Rev. James Dessan, of Leith, who preached the annual sermon, was elected Moderator of the Association, and Rev. G. I. Burns was re-appointed clerk. Among those present from a distance were Prof. N. S. McKechnie of Woodstock College, who represented the cause of Christian Education, and Miss Priest of India, who has been for eight years a foreign missionary, and who is to return to her work in September. Among the important and practical questions up for discussion were such as the following:—"The Basic Purpose of the Sunday School," which was discussed by Rev. H. E. Allen of Tara, and Rev. C. H. Emerson of Meaford; "Bible Stewardship," by Rev. James McEwen of Warton; "The Young People's Mission to the Church and to the World," by Rev. J. A. Cooke of Fiesherston, and Rev. H. Proctor, of Clarksburg; "Evangelistic Work," by Rev. W. L. Newton of Durham; and "The Relation of the Church to Present-day Problems," by Rev. L. McKinnon of Port Elgin. The doctrinal sermon was preached by Rev. W. H. Cline of Owen Sound, from Acts ix., 2: "Did ye receive the Holy Ghost when ye believed?" A very able address was given on Wednesday evening to a large audience on "The Referendum and the Liquor Act of 1902," by Rev. J. O'Neill of Paisley. Mr. O'Neill expressed himself as quite satisfied with the act under existing circumstances, and urged everyone to help to make it law.

One of the most interesting features of the association was the women's session on Wednesday afternoon. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. M. P. Campbell, of Bentinck. Mrs. James Walker, of Owen Sound, presented her annual report as Director of Circles and Bands. An instructive paper on "Women's Home Mission Work" was read by Mrs. W. H. Cline. Music was provided by Misses Irving and Morrison, of Owen Sound, and Mrs. W. L. Newton, of Durham. Mrs. Newton also conducted a question drawer, which was at once interesting and instructive. An address was given by Miss Priest on the work among the women in India.

Among the resolutions passed at the closing session was one of thanksgiving for the close of the war, one of condolence with Chancellor Wallace of McMaster University upon the death of his beloved wife, and one touching the referendum, calling for earnest action on the part of all temperance people, irrespective of party.

TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE

Of Three Owen Sound Fishermen.

Special to the Mail and Empire. Owen Sound, Ont., June 15.—The steamer City of Collingwood arrived in port at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon towing behind an upturned sail boat. Connected with the incident is one of the most thrilling stories of the Georgian Bay.

On Wednesday at noon three fishermen, Thomas Jones, Andrew Park, and a boy of seventeen, named Ronald Claremont, all residents of Owen Sound, were sailing about eight miles from Cape Croker, and about thirty miles from this port. Shortly after the trio had dinner a ballast bag caught between the cleft and block, and jammed the halliards. A squall of wind at the same time caught the little craft and overturned her. All three of the occupants could swim, and clambered back on the side of the upturned boat. A small space about four feet long was not submerged, and they sat on that, clinging to each other all through Wednesday afternoon and Wednesday night. They sighted the tug King early in the morning, but were not noticed. On Thursday Jones feared the boat would sink, and climbed over the side, went under the water, where he remained until he had extricated several ballast bags with a pike pole. This made the boat more buoyant, but cold and hunger were beginning to tell, and it was almost impossible for Jones to keep his companions awake.

FAILED TO ATTRACT ATTENTION. During Thursday night they sighted the lights of several vessels, but were unable to attract attention.

On Friday the pangs of hunger were so terrible that the men resorted to desperate resources to get something out of the boat. Jones used the pike pole for several hours, and they secured three raw potatoes. These were eaten ravenously. On Friday evening the steamer J. H. Jones, passed in the distance. Chilled with the cold and exposure, Claremont's hands and face began to swell. He fell into a stupor, and would have fallen from the side of the boat but for Jones.

All through the long hours of Friday night Jones watched his half unconscious companions. When the day broke on Saturday morning no vessel was in sight. Jones kept his companions up by cheering words. He put his coat on the end of a pike pole as a signal of distress.

RESCUED AT LAST.

At 10:30 the City of Collingwood hove in sight, and Capt. R. B. Foote saw the signal of distress, and lowered a boat to the rescue. When brought to the deck of the steamer Park and Claremont could not stand without assistance.

Capt. Foote treated the rescued men with every kindness, and they arrived at their homes yesterday afternoon, after passing through an experience that few have lived to relate.

ONE of the oldest residents of Ross, and perhaps of the entire province, died recently at the great age of 102 years, in the person of Michael Brennan. For nearly a century deceased has lived in H. County, and has been known far and wide by many, who will greatly miss his familiar face.
