

THE HORSE MARKETS.

The following is a synopsis of an address delivered by Dr. J. Hugo Reed, one of the expert judges employed by this Department at the recent Charlottetown Fair.

If a man is breeding for the market he should find out what the market demands and then make up his mind as to what style of the horses in demand he can produce at most profit to himself.

HEAVY DRAUGHTS.

Prince Edward Island is certainly in a position to produce good heavy horses. The Clydes are a good breed and seem to be in most demand. The stallions at present owned on the Island when mated to good mares will certainly produce colts that will sell well.

CARRIAGE HORSES.

The distinction between Carriage Horses and Roadsters is evidently not well understood by exhibition managers or people in the Maritime Provinces. These are two distinct types of horses, and should not be judged in the same class.

The distinction between Roadsters and Carriage horses is not a matter of size, or of breeding. The road horse is valuable for his performance in getting over the road; the carriage horse for his attractiveness, his style and action, in addition to his road qualities.

A sympathetic female woman says she wouldn't mind taking an editor to the Poor House in a wheelbarrow. This is the best the poor woman can do, so it's to be hoped no editor will think lightly of it.

A young lady applicant for a school out west, was asked the question: "What is your position upon whipping children?" and her reply was: "My usual position is on a chair, with the child held firmly across my knees face downwards." She got the school.

Dr. Christie, of Flesherton, thinks it "very funny" to charge him as an anti-prohibitionist. The Dr. made a profession of temperance until he was seventy-five or eighty years of age, and will never believe he has abandoned his principles.

There are lots of "Hielan" Scotch over Chesley way, and this is a conversation overheard recently: "Well, Donald, did she get the sheeps she lost?" "Yes, Dugald, she got them all." "And where did she get them, Donald?" "Oh, she got two by herself, and one together, and three among one of McDougald's."

A citizen seven years in arrears for his country paper, who had never had a good word to say for the Editor and who was always opposed to public improvement, was dying. "How do you feel?" asked the editor, who was on hand to write the obituary. "All looks bright before," gasped the dying man. "I thought so," returned the editor, "you'll see the blaze in about ten minutes."

A Paisley young woman was attracted by an advertisement, one line of which read, "How to become an Author." The advertiser claimed that by his method failure was impossible. So the ambitious young woman sent on the necessary trifling sum of money, and by return mail she received a slip on which was printed this bit of advice: "Write something." "But," she protested by letter, "I already have done that, and it hasn't been printed." "We congratulate you," was the reply. "If you have written something, you already are an author. Publication is a minor consideration, with which we have nothing to do."

Some people are mean enough to say we don't charge for the publication of that religious controversy. We say we do, and that we got the money and that we'll keep it. Beyond that we're not particular about what people think. What under heaven do they expect us to live on anyway? We find that even religious literature is but poor satisfaction to a hungry man, and we can't trade it off for meat and potatoes. Others again think we shouldn't charge for business locals. Great Scott! We can't get a stick of gum without paying for it, and why should our space and our labor be given away free. The only proper business method is to make every man pay for what he gets.

SEA FLOWERS AS PETS.

The queer little Creatures Known as Anemones. The queerest pets in the world are kept in a beautiful row of clear, flashing, round glass tanks on an upper floor of a large aquarium. As you approach the tanks you behold glowing little groups of color and artistic blending and mingling of fantastic weeds and shining stones. Then when you peer into the tanks you see what at first seem to you just like particularly handsome and gorgeous flowers growing all over the little rockeries. Some of the flowers look like dainty pink and white and yellow and purple and crimson dahlias. Others look almost like daisies, with delicate petals. Others look like little star flowers, all pure white and perfect. These flowers are of all sizes, from tiny ones barely large enough to see to great ones almost large enough to fill a saucer.

HITS AND MISSES.

Even divinity students aren't smart enough to fool with guns. Mt. Forest had an artesian well drilled, but the people there Calder a failure.

Isn't it time for municipal aspirants to catch the annual handshaking epidemic.

The frescoing and drapery of the Opera House will be injured if the shingles are not soon put on.

A man who marries for money would be mean enough to loaf around and ask his wife for ten cents to buy a plug of "chawin'" tobacco.

Should there be a revival of the Huron and Ontario Electric Railway, let it be hoped that it won't be so Penny as it was six or seven years ago.

Others look like little star flowers, all pure white and perfect. These flowers are of all sizes, from tiny ones barely large enough to see to great ones almost large enough to fill a saucer.

But if you will watch these "flowers" for a few minutes you will jump suddenly, for all at once you will see another and another do it. Slowly the petals unfold or contract, with little jerking movements, sometimes twining in the water like snakes. Tap smartly on the table on which the tanks stand, and like lightning all the petals will have disappeared. These sea flowers are really not flowers at all. They are living creatures, known as sea anemones.

For many years a scientist has tended and fed them, and the little animated flowers actually have come to know him. When he feeds them, he puts a little bit of fish on the end of a long pointed stick and puts it carefully down into the water until it is near the anemone. It did not take long for the beautiful things to understand it, and whereas at first they used to withdraw their petals and shut up tightly when the stick approached, now they twine gracefully and stretch their dainty arms out as far as they can go in order to reach it.—London Answers.

LONDON CAB SERVICE. Why It is the Best and the Cheapest in the World. "Everyone knows, either from experience or hearsay, that the cab service in London is the best and cheapest in the world, but few of us know why. So when I was over there I made it a point to find out."

The woman who occupied the other seat in the hansom looked as if she would like to hear the result of his investigations. "It is mainly due," he continued, "to the fact that licenses to drive cabs and buses through the London streets are hard to get. An applicant must furnish the most satisfactory proofs of his honesty when he files his application at Scotland Yard, and his references are carefully verified. Then he undergoes such a rigid examination as to his knowledge of more than half the candidates manage to pull through it. Those who do are then tested as to their ability to drive through the crowded thoroughfares, the test being a practical one, with an inspector of police, who is himself an expert driver, seated by the side of the would be Jehu as he threads his way through the jam. Probably 20 per cent of the applicants come to grief during this test, as the slightest infraction of the rules of the road or the exercise of bad judgment in controlling or guiding his horse means absolute failure. If successful, the applicant is impressed with the importance of returning all articles left in his cab to headquarters without delay and told that an attempt to make excessive charges means the forfeiture of his license. The result is comparative safety to the passengers in cabs and a reasonable certainty that there will be no attempt upon the 'cabbys' part to overcharge his fare."

A Story of Cervantes. Cervantes once gave a proof that his generosity was fully equal to his genius. In the early part of his life he was for some time a slave in Algiers, and there he devised a plan to free himself and thirteen of his fellow sufferers. One of them traitorously revealed the design, and they were all brought before the dey of Algiers, who promised them their lives on condition that they revealed the contriver of the plot. "I was that person," at once cried Cervantes. "Save my companions and let me perish alone."

The dey, struck by his intrepidity, spared his life, allowed him to be ransomed and permitted him to go home.

Things to His Misery. "Ah," he sighed, "I was happier when I was poor." "Well," they answered coldly, "it is always possible for a man to become poor again." "But somehow the idea did not seem to impress him favorably."

The Viewpoint. "That man is extremely suspicious, as he thinks every one he sees is a shady character, and naturally too." "It's his nature, I suppose." "Not at all. He wears smoked spectacles."

Didn't Seem Possible. Mr. Staylate—Is that clock right? Miss De Pink (wearily)—I think it must need cleaning. It's been two or three hours going that last hour.

You can't have a good time today unless you forget tomorrow, and if you forget tomorrow it will punish you when it is today.

TOP CLIFF.

For the last few days we had fairly good sleighing, but by all appearance this evening it will soon banish out of sight.

The fair fall we have had afforded people to get along well with their fall work. Consequently a large quantity of land was ploughed since November came in.

The tedious task of getting threshed is done, and all engaged in that work during the last few months can lay aside their outfit till another season.

Duncan McDonald, of this line, accompanied Chas. McDougall to Toronto last week with a load of live stock.

Thos. McDougall left for the American Soc a couple of weeks ago to engage in the timber business there all winter.

Your Pricerville Cor., Mr. Editor, had, in a recent issue, that some were hiring hands on Sunday after coming out of church to go to a threshing early on Monday morning. Well, we are informed on good authority that a farmer not a hundred miles east, west, north or south, as the case may be, of Pricerville, harnessed his horses and went for the water tank of a steam thrasher on Sunday evening so as to save him time to go after it on Monday morning. Query—Which sin is more heinous in the sight of the Almighty, this or the other.

We are sorry to chronicle a painful accident that befell Mr. John McPhail, of this place, one day last week. While in the woods assisting to get out a stump, a tree slid some way off the stump coming in contact with one of his feet breaking it half way between the knee and the ankle. Dr. Dixon, of Pricerville, was at once summoned to attend to him and set the broken limb, and now the patient is doing as well as possible considering the severe case. Mr. McPhail is a man of upwards of 75 years, and no doubt it will take longer to heal the broken limb than on a young person. The sincere sympathy of the whole community goes to the family, as Mr. McPhail was always a hard and industrious worker nevertheless his advanced years.

Municipal matters are kind of quiet. It is very likely Neil McCannel will contest for the Commissionership for this division, and we may say that very few in the riding are more fitting to fill the office than Neil for he has had quite an experience in municipal matters. As for our own municipality we did not hear, but we think Patrick Sullivan will tackle it again from this side and he ought to get a good show this time. We heard some one say his Uncle Tom intends to run, but it would not be wise for the two of them to run. We can testify that Mr. Thos. Sullivan proved himself to be a good councillor during his time in office some years ago, and if his nephew takes after the uncle Pat will make a good officer too.

They tell the story about a good Christian gentleman, who took his little boy to church with him last Sunday for the first time. Instructing the lad about his behaviour, he wound up by telling the boy to keep an eye on him and do just as he did. When the contribution box was passed saw his father's hand go into the box and remembering his father's advice put his hand in also. When the box had passed by, the lad whispered "Say papa, I got a quarter; how much did you get?"

THE VISIBLE CHURCH

The second point in Beas which I shall consider is that of the Visible Church.

say Reader has wasted a ammunition. He is arguing for a Visible Church, there is such a church in my and the Presbyterian not only assume its existence but give a positive definition of it. Hence it will not be waste space and time in what both Churches believe. It is not a proper discussion in the present conception of the Visible Church, the generally accepted conception will be pointed down. Here it is sufficient in my letter of April I used these words, "I conceive a unity which requires a visible shape, arguing for a far higher mere external correspondence or ceremony. From ever Reader assumed that believe in a Visible Church conclusion does not need low. The difference between radical. Reader believes, stand him right, that no Unity in the Church on outward conformity to forms and ceremonies—the external correspondence forms of worship and churchment. I hold that there is a Unity of Spirit, of aim and purpose, and a visible unity which is enduring, more in harmony, essentially spiritual teaching. New Testament, than a unity is or can be. The shell, the other the kernel, the other the letter hitherto but the Spirit. It is this higher, life-giving, more spiritual which Presbyterians believe though from a human standpoint would appear to be conformity also, yet that is possible with the world with so many different with its own peculiar laws, tendencies. It is quite pointed out by Archbishop (cited in letter of Oct. 19) and His Apostles never outward conformity to symbols was to be the test, was in other words unity which they held to the Church as the body. "By this shall all men are my disciples if ye love to another," are the Master Himself. In this one word as to outward in worship or in anything simply Love, which is a visible bond of Unity in as in the family no matter the component be.

My reference (letter to the alliances compact now-a-days between States, very different institutions, in order to possibility of Unity with conformity to any set please my friend Reader, for the comparison was reading the works of his chiefly Chillingworth, especially Whately—all the clearest intellect and est character. These do not hesitate to reason from the kingdoms of the Kingdom of Christ upon this earth. Does Testament frequently in the same way? Why fore Pilate "refused to such a comparison" He of His Kingdom not as on earth but of His Kingdom, comprehending all the Salt time of Adam to the end Reader would, it seems that much but for his action not to admit any the other side. Had text-books better, he would my use of the illustration.

The fact is that since nor His Apostles made conformity to set forms of Church Government a Unity in His Church for God's people guide Spirit to seek such formed the particular age environment, etc. in found themselves—st every age to the Unity faith and hope which be characteristic of the It is abhorrent to the of any free man that compelled to conform forms against which because he finds no satisfaction in the Word of God, a higher spiritual life is one who argues along long to a bygone age was unknown of this age was not of conscience was not

This idea of the Spirit of the Church is strongly Archbishop Whately in these words, "The then, not, as cons Society, but because Societies or Church modelled, and ought so, on the same part because they enjoy lieges,—one Lord, baptism. According Ghost, through His a tles, has not left any of the formation of Society; but He has
