They Know It.

Thousands of people throughout the country know that the ordinary remedies for piles—ointments, suppositories and appliances—will not cure.

The best of them only bring passing relief.

Dr. Leonhardt's Hem-Roid is a tablet taken internally that removes the cause of piles, hence, the cure is permanent. Every package sold carries a guarantee with it.

It is perfectly harmless to the most delicate constitution. A month's treatment in every package. Sold at $1.00.

Further information in regard to it at Darling's drug store.

A benevolent looking Quaker in drab clothes and a broad brimmed hat, walked into the lobby of a Philadelphia hotel a short time ago, and was walking up to the desk, when he stubbed his toe on an uneven place in the flooring and measured his length on the floor. A bell boy rushed to assist him to his feet. "Boy," said the old gentleman, solemnly, "does thee swear?" "Oh, no, sir; no indeed," said the boy, taking his cue from the Quaker's pious appearance. "Um! Too bad, too bad," said he of the broad brimmed hat. "I would have paid thee handsomely to have sworn for me."

PROFITABLE EGG PRODUCTION.

Pullets For Winter Laying. The Fresh Egg Trade. Exporting Eggs.

For all farmers a most profitable branch of the poultry business is the production of eggs during the winter, says W. F. C. Hare, Chief of the poultry division, Ottawa. Every winter there is a great demand for new-laid eggs; the supply is always limited, and high prices are paid. In the large cities strictly fresh eggs sold readily during the past winter at from forty to sixty cents per dozen. Some farmers are so situated that they can maintain a city trade in fresh eggs throughout the year. A premium of several cents a dozen can usually be obtained for new-laid eggs shipped weekly to the city merchant.

Market requirements. There is a growing preference on the home markets for brown shelled eggs. The shells of the eggs should be wiped clean if necessary, and the eggs graded in size. For shipment to the merchant they should be packed in cases holding 12 dozen or 30 dozen each. Eggs to be palatable should be eaten in a strictly fresh condition; therefore they should reach the consumer without unnecessary delay. This requires (1) that the eggs be collected regularly every day and stored in a cool room (temperature 40 to 50 deg. F.), until a sufficient number on hand to deliver to a dealer; (2) that the dealer forward the eggs to the merchant at least once a week, and (3) that the merchant protect the eggs from deterioration while in his possession.

Pullets for winter laying. As a general rule pullets hatched during May or early June will prove most profitable for winter laying. Farmers who expect to make a specialty of high-priced of new-laid eggs next winter should at the present time be hatching out a good number of chicks from which to select suitable pullets. The cockerels should be sold in early fall. Unless they are housed in the fields and require little attention or extra feed, the most profitable age for marketing is four months. After that age the cost of feed per pound of gain in liveweight rapidly increases.

The pullets should be comfortably and permanently housed in the fall; transferring mature pullets to a strange pen defers egg production. Early winter laying demands liberal feeding, which included in addition to the grain, waste meat or animal food, and vegetable food. From two flocks of Barred Plymouth Rock pullets that were liberally fed from birth for early maturity at the Bondville, Que., Illustration Station eggs were gathered daily after the pullets were four months and one week old. Experiments at the Utah Experiment Station showed that the profit from young hens or pullets were about five times greater than that from hens three or four years old. Not only did the old hens lay considerably fewer eggs, but the eggs were worth less per dozen. This is accounted for by the fact that the pullets laid a larger proportion of their eggs in winter, when the price was good.

Breeding for winter layers. When the pullets are forced for winter egg production, there should be kept in addition another breeding pen of fowls from which to rear the chicks. A hen or pullet that commences to lay in the spring will at that time produce stronger-germ eggs for hatching than will another that has had her vitality impaired by winter laying.

The farmer should select from the flock of pullets ten or twelve of the best winter layers, placing a regular leg band or a piece of wire around the leg of each. The next winter these pullets, [then yearling hens] should be separated from the laying hens and kept in good health and medium flesh but not fed for winter laying. In February or March they should be mated with a suitable cockerel, and their rations increased so as to bring them into laying at the time when their eggs are required for hatching. Such a process of selection would soon produce a particularly fine strain of winter layers.

Exporting eggs. The export trade carries off the surplus eggs produced during the summer months when prices are low, but has little or no effect on the price of new-laid eggs in winter. Efforts to increase our export trade in eggs need not, therefore, alarm consumers in cities or towns. Eggs that are placed in cold storage from April till July are shipped to Great Britain for the September and October trade; those that go into cold storage in the fall are exported during the winter months. All these are sold in Britain as "Canadian fresh eggs."

Yours very truly,
W. A. CLEMONS,
Publication Clerk.

Favors Church Union.

The Toronto News of Saturday last has one page devoted to the discussion of the church union topic, and was adorned by the photographs of a number of leading clergymen of the Presbyterian and Methodist churches. Among the rest appears the Rev. Thos. Wilson, of Walkerton. Being interviewed by a News correspondent, he delivered himself as follows:—"Being asked to state my views regarding the subject of 'Church Union' as now under discussion, between the Presbyterian, Methodist and Congregational denominations, I would favor it for the following reasons: "First, from the standpoint of economy regarding men and money. During my student days in the mission fields of Muskoka and the Northwest, I was impressed with the waste of men and money. In many new and thinly settled districts we had missionaries of different denominations, travelling over the same ground, preaching the same Gospel to the same people, while other districts were left without any supply. How much better it would be to have one man doing a work that he is able to, instead of dividing it up among two or three, and let the other one or two take another field. In our own towns and villages we have this same overlapping, where we find a number of men preaching each Sabbath to hand-fuls of people, where one or two congregations might be formed, and the work done even more successfully by one or two men, thus saving men and money for other fields. Secondly,—I would favor this union from the standpoint of experience. If a thing has been tried and tried for a sufficiently long time, and has been a success, then experience should count for something. If we go back some thirty years in the history of the Presbyterian church we will find that at that time we had three divisions: The Old Kirk, or Established Church of Scotland, the Free Church and the United Presbyterian Church. Since that time these branches have been united, and strength has been the result. So also in the Methodist church. As a result of its union of its divisions, we have the one strong cause. May we not say that the barriers in the way of the union referred to were as great if not greater, than the barriers in the way of the union now under discussion. Thirdly,—I would favor it from the highest, yes, the highest standpoint, viz. "that we may be one." This was Christ's prayer for the Church 'ere He left this earth. Is the answer found in the divisions innumerable, or is to be found in a closer union as proposed by the above union?"

HIS NERVES PLAYED OUT.

And Health Broke Down — A Life Saved by the timely use of Ferrozone.

Mr. Karl E. Newsome of Rothesay, writes: "I owe a debt of gratitude to Ferrozone which saved my life after a severe seige of Nervous Prostration. About a year ago my health gave out completely. I was in such a weak irritable condition that I couldn't work, and found that the doctors did nothing for me but take my money. My druggist recommended Ferrozone as the best preparation for nervous troubles, so I commenced at once to take one tablet at meals. Every box of Ferrozone I took seemed to do me more good than the previous one, and it wasn't very long before I was strong enough to move around again. In three months I was completely cured and know that I wouldn't be alive to-day if I hadn't used Ferrozone. It braced up my nerves, gave me a strong healthy constitution, and is certainly a marvellous restorer and tonic for nervous people."

The reason Ferrozone is so successful in curing nervous disease is that it contains the very elements that are needed to restore the wasted nerve cells. It is nourishing, strengthening tonic that costs 50c. per box, containing three weeks treatment. Six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all druggists or by mail from The Ferrozone Company, Kingston, Ont. Don't fail to get Ferrozone to-day, it assures health.

Lieut.-Col. Campbell has applied for and received permission from headquarters for the officers of the Thirty-first Regiment to adopt and wear the new regulation forage cap, staff pattern. The new lead-dress, which is a very handsome one has been ordered in England, and will be received and worn by the officers at the June brigade camp. A full supply of white helmets has been received from Ottawa for the non-commissioned officers and men, and as the whole force is to be trained this year the regiment will likely turn out overstrength as in other years.—Owen Sound Times.

DR. WILSON ON CHURCH UNION.

At a congregational meeting in St. John's Presbyterian Church last night Rev. Dr. Wilson (Methodist) spoke on church union. In part, he said that he was perfectly satisfied to let Dr. Caven write his theology, and he was perfectly satisfied with the polity of the Presbyterian Church. The whole idea of union was a grand one, and would mean the building-up of a great religious force in this country. If the union, however, was to be made a grab-bag, in which every one sought to get as much as possible out of it, it would never amount to much. The idea of how much could be put into it was what should actuate the new movement. The speaker declared his faith in the ability of the fathers and leaders of the church to evolve a polity and a policy that would be satisfactory to all. It was his conviction that both Presbyterians and Methodists would vie with each other and work with a true brotherhood for the common good.—The News.
