REMNANTS

AND CLEARING LINES FOR THIS WEEK

This week we devote to the clearance of summer goods and remnants throughout the stock. The thread-bare terms of "bargains" will not express the values that are going. A bargain is something at less than it is worth, but will thus convey the fact that for half price you can buy many lines, such as Laces, Embroideries, Blouses, Gingham, etc., etc.

Particulars of the marriage of Miss Strain referred to by us last week are given in the Great Falls, Montana, Daily Tribune of August 15th as follows: "The wedding of Miss Mary Strain of this city to H. B. Lind, an attorney of Goldfields, Nev., was announced yesterday as having taken place at the home of a brother of the groom at Reno, Nev., on Saturday evening. The announcement will come as a surprise to the many friends of the young lady in this city, but at the same time it will be received with pleasure and scores of congratulations will be expressed, wishing the newly wedded couple all the happiness that a well mated marriage should bring. Miss Strain was for a number of years in charge of the millinery department in her brother's departmental store in this city, and Mr. Lind is a lawyer in high standing at Goldfields, Nev. The happy couple will make their home in the latter place after a tour of the South." The bride has many friends here who are pleased to learn of the happy event in her life.

The Methodist Ladies' Aid gave a lawn social on the church grounds on Wednesday evening of last week at which twenty dollars was realized. The evening was fine and a very enjoyable time was spent on the lawn after which an interesting program was rendered in the school room of the church.

After a brief illness with acute intestinal trouble Miss Margaret Matthews, youngest daughter of the late Henry Matthews, died on Saturday last at the home of her mother on the Toronto Line. The funeral took place on Monday to the Irwin cemetery. Rev. J. S. I. Wilson of this place conducted the burial service at the house and grave. The deceased who was 29 years and 11 months of age was an estimable young woman and will be greatly missed by her now sorrowing aged mother.

In view of the union evangelistic meetings to be commenced here by A. H. The Thompson Bakery and residence had a narrow escape from fire on Monday. When discovered the roof was on fire and but for water convenient and timely help a serious conflagration might have developed.

T., where he purchased property and erected a fine block thereon has disposed of his business, leased his property and with his family has returned to Collingwood where he formerly resided. Before leaving Sinaluta Mr. Clayton who was the Worshipful Master in the Masonic Lodge there, was presented by the lodge with a gold locket handsomely engraved accompanied by an address which in part said: "It is with extreme regret that we learn of your intended departure from our midst. Our sincere wish is that prosperity may go with you. We are very sensible of the fact that our lodge owes much to your zeal and faithfulness—in fact the existence of a lodge in Sinaluta may be traced to your efforts to that end."

Corner Concerns.

In reading over the minutes of the last Glenelg Council our attention was drawn to that item of three dollars paid A. McCuaig for damage to hay and wagon, and on making inquiries we are inclined to think it was merely an accident from overloading at the breaking up of the roads as the load contained 3,000 weight. The hill where it occurred is in the vicinity of Mr. McCuaig's own home and he was well acquainted with its condition, and as he went by that road which is a considerably longer route to Durham than the one he usually travels down the South Line is conclusive evidence that it appeared to be in better condition, though no one would accuse Mr. McCuaig of going that way just to run up a bill against the Council. The place had been complained of and no doubt the council board is deluged with such complaints at that season of the year as all wishing to have repairs made during the summer calls the attention of the board to it in early spring least their case would not look so good later on. Our Council is always well advised at the annual meeting not to expend money in either grading or graveling during the early spring or fall, and we think our citizens should try to maintain the principles we all advocate. The Fathers may have done right in settling the claim as it was small and the first of the kind rather than put a poor man to law expenses, but they should make it clear now how far they intend to let that sort of thing run as there are few but have an experience like Mr. McCuaig some time and can hardly tell whether to blame themselves, their horses or the condition of the roads. They will want damages now every time if such are going.

A notice in the Chronicle is a sure and easy way to recover strayed animals although some farmers will try every other means. Last spring one of our neighbors lost a steer and instead of going to the printer went to a Normanby wizzard who told him his beast was in the vicinity of Mr. Forest in an honest man's enclosure, making the matter more bewildering than ever as it may be as difficult to find an honest man around Mount Forest as it would be to find an animal that had strayed into the forty mile swamp.

Your Glenelg Centre young man is anxious to know if we have entered the matrimonial cage yet or if we have many penalties to pay. No, dear bachelor friend we have never thought of paying such things, there will be quite enough paying to do in that state of bondage without attending to penalties, or else marriage is not much like what it is talked up to be.

Mrs. R. Mead is visiting her sister in Mount Forest this week.

Jim Johnston bid the girls all good-bye last Sunday night saying he was going West on Tuesday, but he didn't go and as a reward for giving them a headache for nothing he was laid up the rest of the week with a stomachache. There is probably more truth than sympathy in saying it serves him right.

Out of consideration for the hens some people threshed their fall wheat last week. Clark's new separator makes a good job of threshing any kind of grain. What spring grain was threshed turned out well and is a good sample.

A party concluding Mrs. Alex. Allan's quilting made it interesting for the boys as well as the girls. Mrs. Ben Crittenden's was an enjoyable bee for the ladies, but they didn't take the young men into their confidence.

Tom Gray, of Fort William, was visiting friends again in this part on Friday. There must be something in that old saying that where the heart is there will the footsteps wander.

There has been a goodly number of mammoth quilting bees in this neighborhood lately, whether it is the sign of a hard winter or that Leap Year is going to end up in an interesting way we cannot say.

The white frost Tuesday morning helped the late oats to slide in more rapidly than they otherwise would have done and harvesting will be finished earlier than was anticipated.

We are pleased to see the Man on the Street has time to write again, but we are sorry he can't get to see a harmless game of lacrosse, as for that 24th of May celebration that he missed on account of having to help clip sheep it is just as well he didn't go as the fakir with the wheel of fortune attended everything in those good old days, and if it took both him and his dad to fleece an innocent sheep those fellows would have taken the very hide off him, cheating him out of his eye teeth and then make him believe he had been born without any.

We agree with him that those fellows are just as well kept on the outside of the fall fair grounds although we are not inclined to consider them the most dangerous characters in the world. Young men are well warned in the home, from the pulpit and by all good societies of the sin and danger of gambling at that particular stage of the game and if they are caught we say it serves them right. But if a man came along with a wagon load of pies or fancy little boxes such as they have been encouraged into gambling for and roped a lot of them in we would sympathize with them and censure the promoters of such affairs because we believe certain evils attend even that mild part of the game. We are told that young men have lost good positions and the confidence of the public who were studying Sunday School lessons while those interested in winning them into the gambling circles were planning the most artful way of making the pathway up to the gamblers' table appear so much like the one they were on that they could not notice the step over and to have had a little practice in the lottery business in church and other religious societies is good material in the other fellows' hands.
