DURHAM CHRONICLE

W. IRWIN, Editor and Proprietor.

Durham, Sept. 22, 1904.

THE PARADOX.

A paradox is an instance of de formed logic. It is a case where a sentence destroys not itself, as in the case of the antichmax, but all the logic in itself. The anticlimax is the deformed sentence itself, while the paradox is the deformity of its logical sense. The best paradox in the English language is the one made by Artemas Ward when the humorist said :

· I'm bound to live within my means if I have to borrow money to do it "

The best paradox I ever constructed was a sentence once used in complimenting the West. In was made in a dinner speech. I commenced thus:

"I like the West. I like her self west, the more I am with her public men, the more I am convinced of the truthfulness of the Bible statement that the wise men came from the East !"

Here is another :

"How do you think Smith's proare paid?" asked a lawyer in a bankrupt case.

"I believe he will owe several thousand dollars," was the reply.

Again :

A Judge in Dublin asked an Irish policemen, "When did you last see your sister?" "The last time I saw her, my

Lord, was about eight months ago. when she called at my house, and I was out." "Then you did not see her on that occasion ?"

"No, my Lord, I wasn't there."

Again :

At a crowded concert to hear Patti the other night, a young lady was looking for a seat. "It is a seat you want, Miss?"

asked the Irish usher.

"Yes, a seat, please."

"Indade, Miss," said Pat, should be glad to give you a sate, but the empty ones are all full."

Again :-

An Irishman, describing the trading powers of the genuine Yankee,

"Bedad, if he was cast away on a desolate island, he'd get up the next mornin' and go round selling maps to the inhabitants."

Again :-An Irishman boasted that he had Sten skated sixty miles a day.

"Sixty miles!" exclaimed an audi tor, "that is a great distance; it must have been accomplished when the days were the longest,"

"To be sure it was; I admit that," oi'll tell ye all about it."

Again :-An Irish lover said, "It is a great omfort to be alone especially when er swatcheart is wid ye."

Again you all remember the tri amphant appeal of an Irishman who man is heir to. was a lover of antiquity, who, in arguing the superiority of old archi ecture cver the new, said :

"Where will you find any modern building that has lasted so long as the ancient?"

Again :before he had finished his repast.

"Would you take anything, Bridget?" asked my wife, pouring out

"Indade." said Bridget. "I would | I knew it would kill me." Again :-

Again :-

Two deacons once disputing about a proposed new graveyard, one remarked: " I'll never be buried in that ground as long as I live!" "What an obstinate man!" said the other. "If my life is spared I will."
