AUTUMN CARE OF THE DAIRY COW.
Protection from Inclement Weather.
A Critical Period.
 At this season of the year when farmers are extremely busy preparing for winter, the dairy cows are apt to be neglected. Frequently they are left to pick a scanty living from bare pastures and the fence corners of grain fields, exposed to all the inclemencies of the autumn weather. The highly organized dairy cow is very sensitive to sudden and extreme changes in the weather, and nothing could be more detrimental to economical milk production. The flow of milk is often so materially lessened that it cannot be brought back to the normal standard during the winter. Exposure to storms and lying on the cold, damp ground at night not only lead to a decreased flow of milk but they are very apt to cause udder troubles, rheumatism and other diseases, and in some cases even death. It is, therefore, advisable to see that the cows get a sufficient supply of suitable food during this critical period, and that they are protected from storms during the day and comfortably stabled at night. That eminent dairy authority, Prof. Haecker of the Minnesota Experiment Station, has given considerable attention to this subject, and some of his experiments and conclusions are well worthy of consideration by owners of cows. In the course of an article on the fall care of cows he says:—
 One night or even a few hours of cold rain causes an enormous shrinkage of milk. Food, comfort, and contentment are the prime factors in successful dairying and it is not too much to say that comfort is the prime factor. To feed well but disregard the bodily comfort of the cow is court and insure disappointment. A cow will fail to elaborate a full mess of milk if she is wet or shivering from cold, no matter how generously she is fed.
 Autumn is a more critical period for a cow fresh in milk than winter. Cold rains and raw winds are fruitful causes of decreasing milk. The first makes inactive the muscular system that it fails to perform its work. Cows should therefore not be exposed to fall rains, left out during cold nights, or confined in muddy or wet yards at any time.
 The proof of this theory was clearly demonstrated by the Minnesota Station herd two years ago. Some changes were being made in the cow barn which made it inconvenient to stable the cows for a few days, and just then a cold, rainy spell set in, to which the cows were exposed. There was not only a very marked shrinkage in milk and butter fat at once, but they failed to recover during the winter, though the feed was liberal and the care the best that could be given. The cows gave 16.11 lbs. of milk and 9. lbs. of butter fat a day during the winter. It was known when the shrinkage took place and why, but the attempt to recover it failed. The next year such an experience was guarded against, and the same herd gave a daily average of 28.4 lbs. milk and 1.2 lbs. fat.
 It may be asked what the cows did with their food, since they were fed liberally during the winter. They made beef or fat with it, for each an average of nearly half a pound a day, a gain that did neither the cows nor the owner any good. During the two winters the herd was composed of the same cows, fed the same rations and received in every way the same careful attention, and yet because of that mishap the herd failed by just fifty per cent of doing it normal or possible work. Please think of this, and do not lose money by needlessly exposing cows in the autumn.

COWS THAT DO NOT PAY.
 Mr. J. C. Chapais, Assistant Dairy Commissioner, who is particularly well acquainted with agricultural conditions in Quebec, said in an address: From my experience, I am led to believe that the reason why the Badcock test is not more generally adopted as a basis for payment for milk is lack of knowledge on the part of the farmers. They do not know anything about the true value of cows. When they are told that a cow that yields thirty pounds of milk is more valuable than one yielding forty pounds they do not understand it. I came across an instance of this kind when I was working with the inspectors in the Lake St. John district. One man said, "I have the best cow in the parish, she gives sixty pounds of milk." I went out to his place, having with me the figures as to the butter fat in his milk. I got from him the facts as to cost of feeding his cow, and figured out the cost of the milk. I found that it cost, allowing the ordinary price for the feed used, about 96 cents per hundred pounds. At the priest's house I got the figures about a cow owned by him whose milk cost only 44 cents per hundred pounds. I showed the man that the percentage of butter fat in the milk of his cow was 2.85, while in that of the priest's cow it was 5.50. I was able to show him that, instead of having the best cow in the parish, he had the worst. The result was that whereas this man generally sold a calf at $15 at birth, the next year, though the calf was a heifer, nobody would buy it. This shows that the farmers will understand this matter if we go to them and explain it.
 Yours very truly,

Flower, Fruit and Honey Show.
 A novel method of advertising the Provincial Fruit, Flower and Honey Show, which will be held in Toronto, November 15-19, has been devised. The fruit growers and florists interested have decided to give apples and flowers free to every person who attends the exhibition on two days of the show. It is expected this will greatly increase the attendance and add greatly to the interest taken in the exhibition.
 The fruit growers with the idea of increasing the demand for fruit, arranging to distribute free of cost, neatly gotten up booklets containing numerous recipes for the cooking, preserving etc., of all varieties of fruit, such as apples, pears, peaches, plums and grapes. Much the same line of work is being followed by the Bee Keepers. Everything possible is being done to make the show of as great educational value as possible. It is expected it will be a strong rival in its way, to the big Winter Fair at Guelph.

DON'TS.
 Don't imagine you'll get rich without working.
 Don't think that every time you speak to your children you must scold them.
 Don't step over a door mat when entering a house or room, as it is put there for use and you should wipe your shoes on it.
 Don't imagine that every one else has a perfect wife or husband. Give your own a little credit.
 Don't make it a point to find fault at home with everything your wife does.
 Don't blame the children for going out evenings, unless you make a personal effort to entertain them at home.
 Don't be so anxious to go outside of your own house for pleasure. It's the very thing that breaks up many a home.
 Don't think that the silk hat your great grandfather wore is still in style to day.
 Don't eat a boiled dinner just before going to bed.
 Don't find fault with your minister unless your pew rent is paid in full, and even if he doesn't "know it all" he probably knows more than you.
 Don't wear low cut dresses if your bones show a tendency to burst through the skin like a breast bone of an underfed chicken.
 Don't forget to "rinse off" the soap after using, so that the soap may be nice and dry for the one who follows you.
 Don't think every one you meet is trying to rob you, as after all it's only a very small per cent. who are really bad.
 Don't be ashamed of honest work.
 Don't worry about what your friends (2) say of you, they will not pay your board or rent. It's only when you are spending your money that those big-hearted "friends" stick to you, and gee whiz! how they do stick.
 Don't think that people who are on the stage are a "bad lot." It's only the ignorant who think that.
