In an article on "Divorce" Mr. Abraham H. Hummel describes the welter of confusion in the marriage laws in the States that are not united on the question of marriage. For each state has its own regulations, and the people who are married or divorced in one are living in sin or still man and wife in another. In many States "there is only one kind of divorce which sever absolutely the marriage tie." But a trolley car or an automobile will carry the people who want a leasehold marriage to another more complaisant State.

The arrangement leads to confused issues. You may divorce your wife in Arizona for "cruel treatment," say ill baked pie. But as you travel on the same train to New York she is your wife still—now and then, and for an hour or two at a time. Unless you get the conductor of the train to call the State frontiers and read the local code, you cannot be certain whether you are bound or free. And even with the best intentions you cannot be certain that married in one State you are your wife's husband in another. For some States sixty cents and an alderman is not evidence.

If You Have a Bad Cold

It soothes the irritated membranes, kills catarrhal germs, instantly stops the cough and sneezing. It's the antiseptic vapor of Catarrhozone that does the curing. A trial proves that a cold can be cured in a few minutes by Catarrhozone. Money back if it fails. Complete outfit $1.00; small size 25c.

Vapo-Cresolene

Established 1879. Whooping Cough, Croup, Bronchitis, Cough, Croup, Arthritis, Diphtheria. Cresolene is a boon to Asthmatics. Cresolene is a long established and standard remedy for the diseases indicated. It cures because the air breathed is strongly antiseptic, is carried over the diseased surfaces of the bronchial tubes with every breath, giving prolonged and constant treatment. Those of a consumptive tendency, or sufferers from chronic bronchitis, find immediate relief from coughs or inflamed conditions of the throat.

Are persons married in other Provinces under marriage licenses obtained in Ontario legally married? The Provincial Registrar of Quebec does not think so, and he has just given a ruling to that effect, on the ground that the Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, by whose authority licenses are issued, has no right to issue them for other than his own Province. Three months ago a young Torontonian took out a license in the city and went down to Montreal to be married. The Ontario license authorizes "all or every minister or clergyman resident in the Dominion of Canada, and duly ordained or appointed," to perform the ceremony. This was accepted by the minister who officiated at the marriage in question. Later proof of the marriage was required in England in connection with business relating to an estate, and it was then found that the Registrar had refused to record it for the reason stated.

ARE WOMEN NERVOUS?

A London Critic Declares They Are Stronger Than Ever Before. Women of the present day are said to be more nervous than women at any previous period. This, of course, is largely the opinion of pessimists expressed in an exaggerated manner. Undoubtedly the woman of today suffers from "nerves." But this has always been a common complaint among women at all times. The last generation was neurotic; earlier generations had insistently convenient attacks of "megrims." The pessimist never wearies of enlarging upon the strain and stress of modern life, the rush of travel, the restlessness of great social centers, the incessant poaching on the hours of the night, the eternal increase in the number of working women. Yet in reality if the strain on women be greater than ever the fact that they are able to endure it proves an increase in nervous power rather than a decrease. The woman who works for her living today has far stronger nerves than her predecessors ever possessed. She stands the strain year in and year out. The woman of a few generations ago could not have stood it for a month. It is also futile to point to the rush of modern travel as a nerve destroying force. At the present day there is less nervous waste in crossing a continent than there was a hundred years ago in a journey from London to Bath in the stuffy interior of a lumbering coach. Where among the women of old, whose nerves are so lauded, could we find the woman who could drive a motor car without tremor or who could cycle through a street crowded with traffic? The most competent authorities declare that never in the history of the race has so excellent a type of woman been evolved as the average woman of today.—London Express.

USE OF PERFUMES.

Strive Always to Have the Odor Dainty and Clean Smelling. There is no minor detail of the toilet on which some people express themselves so heatedly as on the abuses of perfumes. When they dislike scent they stop short of few opprobrious terms concerning the scented. Analyzed, the disgust that a highly scented person inspires among many of the refined is chiefly to be traced to dislike of the "loudness" of a dominant, assertive fragrance and a peculiar, enervating nausea to which its continued presence conduces. A garden of flowers is the ideal of all scents. Note that in a garden first the mimosa yields a cleanly, exquisite whiff, then the breeze wafts the incense of carnations, the richness of roses or the sweetness of heliotrope. If a creeper or plant be heavily perfumed one's instinct is to keep clear of it—a passing breath is enough. Even the honeyed bean fields cloy. The secret of the agreeably perfumed is also to be found in an abstinence from a strong appeal to the noses of their neighbors and in a well planned variety. Sachet perfumes and the aroma from sweet scented roots and woods are more cleanly and refreshing than prepared essences. A box of cedar or sandalwood gives a delicate fragrance to furs and wooleens unrivaled. Lavender is faintly balsamic as well as a rich perfume. It may be placed among house linen and clothing in profusion without giving a sensation of satiety. Orris root is another of the welcome odors, never cloying. The ideal to be aimed at is of the daintiest, not the simulation of a walking flask of perfume.—New York Globe.

KITCHEN DON'TS.

Don't use knives for scraping the table and pots. Don't crumple up your dish towels. Rinse and hang them in the sun. Don't black a stove while it is hot. It takes more blacking and less polish. Don't put damp towels and napkins in the hamper. Dry them first or they will mildew. Don't put tin pans on the stove to dry. They become heated, the solder loosens and they soon leak. Don't put a greasy spoon on the table. It leaves a stain which requires time to erase. Put it in a saucer. Don't pour boiling water over china packed in a pan. It will crack by the sudden contraction and expansion. Don't clutter up the kitchen when getting a meal, because it will take hours to clean up after the meal is over. Don't pour boiling water and soap on grease spots. Moisten the spots first with a cold saturated solution of soda, then scrub them with the grain of the wood, using cold-soapsuds.—Exchange.

Eggs in Bed Gowns.

For eggs in bed gowns select about one half dozen sound potatoes as near of a size as possible, wash them thoroughly, peel them carefully and put them in the oven to bake. When quite done and nicely browned take them out, cut a small bit off the top, scoop enough of the potato out so that you can pour a raw egg into each without breaking the yolk and season with salt, cayenne and paprika to taste; then put them in the oven again, and when the eggs are set dust them over with fine breadcrumbs, add a small piece of butter and serve on a hot plate at once, garnished with parsley or water cress.—Vogue.

The Kitchen Mirror.

A good sized, clear glass mirror in the kitchen is a great comfort to the woman who has to answer the front door from that room and is conducive to neatness, cheerfulness and good health, for what woman ever looked at herself scowling? A necessity in the kitchen is a reliable clock.

BOUND ACROSS THE TRACK.

Harrison, Ont., Nov. 16th.—Considerable sensation was created in this town to day by the discovery of an unknown boy about 12 years of age, bound across the rails of the Southampton branch of the Grand Trunk Railway, a mile and a quarter north of this place. The discovery was made by Mr. Alexander Michie, of Harrison, and the boy had not been liberated many minutes before the express train from the north rushed past. Close to where the boy lay a bicycle was found on the track. The boy tells an extraordinary story. He says his name is Leo Boyd, and that he came to Palmerston last night from New York, in company with his father, John Boyd, and a stranger who joined them in Buffalo. The latter the boy knows only as "Jim." He claims that they passed the night in a lumber pile, and says that his father was anxious to get rid of him, and with the assistance of the stranger, fastened him to the track. When found the boy's hands appeared to be secure, and his bonds were bound behind his back. The police are making investigation.
