The Hallelujah Girl.

She wears a plain poke bonnet, such as mother used to wear Some thirty years ago or more, and does not crimp her hair.
But wears it plain in satin bands smoothed softly from her brow To show her forehead in a way Dame Fashion don't allow.
She isn't much on style—you see she is not in the whirl.
Yet everybody stops to bless the Hallelujah Girl.

No silks and satins does she wear but just a plain attire Of some dark, rough material, to which a touch of fire Is given by a little gleam of scarlet, and her shoes Are not rich embroidered kid, such as our ladies use; They're made to plod through mud and slush when giddy snowflakes whirl.
And children starving rise to bless the Hallelujah Girl.

Through alleys dark at nightfall, where the shadows thickly lie, Where crime and want walk hand in hand beneath the starry sky, Where fever-racked, pale women lie, and children cry for bread, Where hearts that once were light as air are heavy now as lead, She wanders like an angel sent from heaven's gates of pearl.
For she is Mercy's messenger, the Hallelujah Girl.

Where ribald oaths from crime-stained lips escape upon the air, Where scarlet women wait their prey she moves with whispered prayer.
And at her coming oaths are stilled and eye-lids fill with tears As memories waken of a past that has been dead for years; Her hands are not so white as those you clasp in fashion's whirl, But well she does her Master's work, the Hallelujah Girl.

I reckon when the books of God are balanced up above, Where angel hands the records keep of deeds of hate and love; When from the Past's great sepulchre the stones are rolled away And every deed accomplished here stands out as clear as day You'll find her standing near the Throne inside the gates of pearl
With harp in hand and crown of gold
Hallelujah Girl.

Edge Hill.

Miss Minnie Hooper has been visiting friends here for the past week.
A. Ector and John Firth have each purchased a Brautford windmill.
When these are erected there will be five Brautford mills inside of two miles.

The Misses Clark, of Walkerton, were the guests of Miss Valerie Ede-for a few days recently.

Wm. Ritchie and Dan Ed. are attending the Fat Stock Show in Guelph this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John Moffat, of Greenock visited the latter's parents Mr. and Mrs. Robt. Ector and other friends over the week end.

The young people spent a very pleasant time in dancing and other amusements at the home of Mrs. D.
Firth one evening recently.

Miss Grace Greenwood was the guest of friends near Mount Forest last week.

INDIAN INVENTIVENESS.

Utch Bark Canoes and Snowshoes Its Best Productions.

That the North American Indian never rose to a high level of civilization may be attributed to his lack of inventiveness as well as to his indolence and improvidence. He reared no enduring structures and constructed no instruments for the manufacture on anything but the smallest scale of articles of use and exchange. This seems at first glance like a satisfactory explanation of the undeveloped state of his civilization.

It is nevertheless not true that the Indian lacked inventiveness. He has left at least two worthy monuments of his capacity for invention, although our own civilization has converted them into articles of necessity into what are practically playthings.

These two evidences of the Indian genius are the birch bark canoe and the snowshoe. For beauty and utility in the uses for which it was designed no product of the white man's art working with the same materials could have surpassed the Indian canoe. The snowshoe, as the Indian designed and made it, moreover, is a distinct work of art and, like the violin of the older masters, seems incapable of improvement.

It may be argued that these are articles of the simplest kind, but the genius that inspired their invention and construction is none the less worthy to rank with that which manifests itself in our own civilization in works of an amplifier but not more beautiful design.

SECRET INK.

Writing Which May Be Made Invisible or Visible at Will.

There are several ways in which two persons can correspond with each other unknown to even the people before whose eyes the very letter is held.
Ovid taught young women when writing to their lovers they should use new milk as ink. This when dried is invisible, but by scattering coal dust or soot upon the paper the writing becomes legible. Ansonius adopted this method when writing to Paulinus.

Diluted sulphuric acid, lemon juice, solutions of nitrate and chloride of cobalt or of chloride of copper write colorless, but on being heated the characters written with the first two become black or brown and the latter green. When the paper becomes cool the writing disappears and leaves the paper blank again. Salt peter dissolved in water and equal parts of sulphate of copper and sal ammoniac dissolved in water are two good invisible inks.

There are also some inks which are invisible when dry, but visible when moistened with another liquid. Thus a solution of muriate of antimony washed with tincture of galls becomes yellow, green vitriol ink washed with the same solution turns black, nitrate of cobalt washed with oxalic acid turns blue, arseniate of potash with nitrate of copper green, solution of gold with muriate of tin purple.

Gambetta's Table.

There is a curious story told of the table at which Gambetta wrote. A previous owner, General Lahitte, minister for foreign affairs in 1849, dismissed his confidential servant because he believed he had stolen a large sum of money in 1,000 franc bank notes.
Years afterward, when the table had to be repaired, the joiner employed for the work found the missing bundle of bank notes between the mahogany board of the table and the drawers below. They had lain there unnoticed for fourteen years. Unfortunately the story does not go on to say that the poor servant and his mistaken master were alive at the time of the discovery and that the one's character was cleared and the other's confidence restored.

Kaiser's Snub of the Bismarcks.

The marriage of Count Herbert Bismarck and the Countess Hoyos took place at Vienna, and it was on this occasion that the kaiser took a step which was one of the falsest steps of his life, a step equivalent to the malevolent boycotting of the Bismarcks. By order of his majesty Count Caprivi, the new chancellor, wrote to Prince Reuss, German ambassador at Vienna: "Should the prince (ex-chancellor) or his family make any approach to you pray confine yourself to conventional forms of courtesy. This order is also to be observed by the staff of the embassy. I may add that his majesty will take no notice of the wedding."—London Chronicle.

The Talmassic Moonstone.

The remarkable peculiarity of the moonstone is that, while in all other gems internal seams are called flaws and detract from their value, in the moonstone they are called "magic mirrors, because those favored mortals who are gifted with the illumination of the astral light can by its aid read on those surfaces of milky white the reflections of the past and the promises of the future."

The Only Cure.

Binks—I wish they would cut out these ballad singers at the vaudeville.
They make me tired. Jinks—Well, you might get somebody to remove their noses. Then they wouldn't have anything to sing through.

Stingy.

"Now I know," sobbed the six months' bride to her husband, growling over her extravagance, "why you used to call me a flower. You thought I was an orchid and that I could live on air."

It is from books that wise men derive consolation in the troubles of life.
—Victor Hugo.
