Mrs. Lebo was a daughter of Thos. Saunders of this town.—Com.

MR. AND MRS. ARTHUR McDONALD returned home on Monday night after a pleasant honeymoon trip in the city of Toronto. A reception was given them at the home of the groom's parents, where about thirty or forty had assembled to honor the occasion, enjoy the festivities, and take part in the evening's program, which lasted well on into the morning. The young couple will settle shortly in their new home, and the novelties of the honeymoon fortnight will be exchanged for the realities of married life.

THE R. T. of T. concert last Friday evening in the Society's hall was not as well attended as the merits of the programme deserved. Miss Crabtree's return to her former home here as a finished elocutionist was a treat which all present enjoyed. Rev. Mr. Masson, of Durham, gave an interesting address on temperance and the balance of the programme was made up of vocal numbers by Mr. Masson, Miss King, the Misses Bradley and Roy Cook. Miss Pennock played a piano solo and Miss Doan performed the duties of accompanist of the evening. The chair was filled by Mr. Crethour. —Mount Forest Representative.

I have sold my business and after above mentioned date all unsettled accounts will be placed in other hands for collection.

BLIND MAN A TYPEWRITER.

A blind typewriter operator, Geo. W. E. Raper, is employed at the Atlas engine works. He not only is an operator, but a rapid and accurate one, and no one would suspect, seeing his rapid and confident manipulation of the keys, that he cannot see. He works in the same manner as his numerous companions. Letters, messages and telegrams, are dictated to a graphophone, and the graphophone in turn dictates its message to the stenographer.

In learning the use of the machine he had placed on the keys raised dots known as the New York code system, that represented letters corresponding to those represented by the keys. When he learned the location of the keys the raised dots were dispensed with, and now he can use almost any typewriter with a universal shift keyboard. He has been employed in several establishments as a typewriter operator, not using a graphophone, but taking dictation direct upon his machine. Mr. Raper is handicapped in one manner, and that is the correction of his manuscript. But on account of this handicap the work is superior to that of the ordinary operator who can see, as he has learned to make but very few typographical errors.—Indianapolis News.

FLORIDA SPARKS

MILLVIEW, FLA.
Jan. 25th 1905.

Mr. W. IRWIN,
Dear Sir,—I hereby notify you of my present address, and will be pleased to see the paper here next issue.

Millview is nine miles North-east of Pensacola, and a huge saw-mill place. I did not like to settle for life in Pensacola, at least till I had seen some more of the south. The country around Pensacola is so scanty, that oranges grow only with much fertilizer. I am making my way towards the Alabama state line, and shall go along Mississippi Sound cities, till I see a spot that strikes me as an ideal place to live and die. I expect to live in Biloxi eventually, as it is a much better seaport, and warmer than it is here.

Figs and oranges grow without any care, almost like corn in Durham. Millview oranges are just ripening, and are called "bitter-sweets." Figs are green yet, and the people call it winter, though the mercury has been, on an average, 56° the past week. Rain falls copiously, and niggers are plentiful as hair on a dog's back.

I eat as much as a pig: the salt air being good for one's appetite. I pay $4 a week for board, and I'm sure I eat it all up, so you see they don't make much on me.

I am at present engineer and electrician at the Southern States Lumber Co's plant, and have a white oiler and a darkey crew, six boilers, two engines of four-hundred horse power each, a twelve horse power dynamo engine belted to an old-fashioned lighting unit that has seen better days. I shall stay here to see if summer improves the appearance of the country, which is pine stumps for a radius of three miles around the mill, and the only trees standing are those too small to rip into boards. Land is fair, and huge crops of sugar cane are grown.

Every white man who possesses the dignity of years is called "Majah," and "Cunnel," and I, being known as an ex-man-o-warman, rate as "Captain." To get along here, call an attorney a "Jedge," and an old man "Majah" and pretend to believe all his hair-breadth escapes in "our wah of sixty-three," and you are his guest as long as you don't get bored. Men drink mountain whiskey like water, and all hands "chaw long green," or home cured tobacco. Cigars of excellent quality retail at three for five cents, and wood twenty-five cents a cord. With all the oysters you can get on the beach, yams and corn bread, huge squash pies—our table actually groans with good diet three times a day.

A word as to the fair sex. Mr. Editor, and I'm done. Girls here are full grown, and marriageable, at sixteen, but age faster than their northern sisters. They draw out their words and wabble along at a snail's pace, and seem just too tired all the time. The style of the Durham girl would open their eyes here—short dresses to save trouble of holding them up—all wear white dresses, and sun bonnets of every variety, while parasols are unknown. Too hard work to hold them up unless a "cavalier cervante" is in attendance. Big girls of twelve or more gobarefooted, white all, young or old, wear mother hubbard dresses. No golf, no ball,—in fact they lead as nearly a butterfly life as good dame Nature's bountiful country will allow. All are charming singers and guitarists.

Oh! yes, I like the South and am here to stay, and as soon as settled, shall move my little family down.

Very truly yours,
R. O. WILKIE.

GENTLEMEN who are bald, or have thin hair, should call on Prof. Dorenwend, at the Middaugh House, on Wednesday, Feb 8th., and see his wonderful devices in Toupees, and Wigs, worn on over 75,000 heads. Explanation and demonstration free. Private apartments at Hotel. Don't fail to see his new invention, patented all over the world. Remember! For one day, only.

He was a young man and not used to dinner parties. At his side sat a lady, and in front of him were a chicken and fried sole, on which he was supposed to do execution. His fair neighbor wished for a piece of the sole, and after a moment's hesitation he attacked the chicken in the region of the wing. "No," she said in a louder tone, "the sole." More hesitation, and he tackled a leg as a long shot. "No, no, the sole, the sole," reiterated the damsel. With a weary, puzzled air he pushed the dish toward her, saying, "Here, take it, body, soul and all."
