HEALTHY HORSES

The horse has but one stomach, and has but one chance at his food, so it is absolutely necessary to extract the largest amount of good from the food in its rapid passage through the stomach. As a rule, horses are either overworked or underworked, and it suffers much from impaired digestion. This is followed by stagnation of the blood and a whole host of diseases. No trouble should be too great, to get and keep him in good shape for his every day work. Clydesdale Stock Food, with his ordinary feed, regulates his whole system by aiding the digestion, regulating the bowels, stimulating and correcting the action of the liver, loosening the hide, giving sleekness to the coat, and your horse will do more work and on less feed. It can be stopped at any time without bad results. Mr. D. B. McEachern, Harriston, Ont., says: "I have used your Clydesdale Stock Food for the last six months in my stable, and I find it is the best tonic I have ever used, and it is the only tonic that when using, I can stop at any time without bad results, and my horses will not lose in flesh like they will with other Stock Foods. No better remedies on the market than Clydesdale Heave Cure, Colic Cure, Worm Powder, Gall Cure, Embrocation Liniment and Tar Foot Remedy; they should be kept handy. You never can tell when they may be needed. If the above preparations are not found satisfactory your money will be refunded cheerfully by our dealers in your district, namely:

Exploded After Drink.

St Paul, Minn., Feb. 5.—Peter Eberhart, a farm hand, who Thursday drank a small bottle of nitro glycerine on a wager, froze to death while walking home and yesterday efforts were make to thaw him out

Peter worked near Wheatley, Minn., and while in the village got intoxicated, it is alleged, with the town marshall, who showed him a bottle of nitro-glycerine, saying it was taken from a bank robber. Peter bet that he could drink it and never feel injurious effects. He drank it and started.

He failed to get home, out in the morning was found by the roadside frozen to death and much distorted. He was picked up and hauled to the home of Claude Armonvale, his employer, where his late "boss" undertook to thaw him out, so that the body might be placed in a coffin and properly interred. While the body was left in an outbuilding near the stove in which was a roaring fire, the nitro glycerine explodee. The building was almost as completely wrecked as was the body of Peter.

Eberhart was a strange character, and had often threatened suicide.
