If the Sun Were Colored.

A German astronomer has recently published some interesting observations on the theoretical effects of a change in color of the sun. It is amazing to consider the possibilities if the sun were green, blue or red, instead of what it is. If it were blue there would be only two colors in the world-blue and black. If it were red, then everything would be red or black. If it were yellow, then everything would be yellow or black. Everyone knows that the light of our sun consists of six colors, and the reason the things are different hues is that some swallow up five of the colors and reflect only one. Thus, we have primroses yellow because they absorb all but the yellow; roses red, because they absorb all but red; violets purple because they absorb everything but red and blue, a mixture of which two colors form purple.

In the event of the sun being red. roses, blood, red ink, and other things that are now red would reflect it. So also would the lily and all things that are now white, but these would, of course, be red. Everything else would swallow up the red light and appear quite black Grass, for instance, would be black as ink, and so would the blue of the sky. but the white clouds would be red. The same kind of thing would happen if the sun were blue. Everything now blue or white would be blue and everything eise black. The whole sky, clouds and all, would be blue. The grass this time would be blueb not black, it reflects both blue and yellow. Hair would be all black and the rest of the face would be a cloudy have a little variety. Things that are now yellow would still be yellow. things that are blue would be blue, and things that are green would still be green, but there would be no reds. purples orange, pinks, or any of those cheery hues that make the world look so bright.

Sprained Her Ankle.

"I slipped on an icy step and sprained my right ankle very badly, writes Miss Minnie Burgoyne of Glenwood. It swelled to a tremendous size and caused intense pain I applied Polson's Nerviline and got prompt relief; the swelling was reduced, and before long I was able to use my foot." For sprains, swellings and muscular pains Nerviline is the one sure remedy. Strong, penetrating, swift to destroy pain-that's Polson's Nerviline. Fifty years in use.

A man who committed perjury in the personation of another voter at London, during the last Dominion election, has been sentenced to one year in jail. This is one more step forward in the direction of political reform. Each time a sentence of this kind is pronounced upon a man convicted of crookedness in connection with election matters such croodedness is properly and officially stamped as a crime, and a deterrent is placed upon others who might be disposed to take part in similar practices. - Weekly Sun.

A Good Suggestion.

The Prime Minister of Great Britain, Arthur James Balfour, is a strange paradox. A power in politics, he cares nothing for the game; with little no ambition, he has risen to a position second only to that of the King; of dreamy, philosophic temperament, he has proved himself a man of instanaction in every emergency. He was born in 1848 in Scotland, the son of a wealthy Scotchman, and Lady Cecil, sister of the late Lord Salisbury. At Eton and Cambridge h If the sun were green we would won no medals for special brilliancy, and no microscopic examination re vealed a germ of future greatness. He was a member of "The Bouls, society of enthusiasts vainly seeking the "ultimate" among the list of life' unattainables. When twenty-six he entered Parliament, and was bored an cynical, taking neither himself nor his work seriously; a spectator of lifrather than a struggler. As the weak member of "the Fourth Party," he was the good-natured butt of the House and was usually summed up by his fell lows as "clever but hopelessly lazy."

In 1886, to the amazement and amusement of England, Salisbury, hi uncle, named him the successor of Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chief Secretar, for Ireland. This post that had brought the snow of age to the heads c. strong men and had even killed some of them in the fierce days of the "Lan League," was given to this young, gentle, easy-going individual. The Iris members smiled knowingly and rubbed their hands in the glee of anticipa tion-but it was all premature. Daniel was surely thrown into the lion's der. but the lions had not reckoned on the marvellous transformation.

The indolent, careless manner of Balfour suddenly fell from him as if were a magic mantle. He stood before them a man of keen indgment, iro will, vigorous and virile force and a master in executive power. He brave. alike their taunts, their threats, their insolence and their abuse until the became tired. They were like farry bullets that hit him but did not hurt him. His firmness, liberality and good sense at last won his enemies.

From one high position to another he rose without any seeming effort. till his present honors fell at his feet in 1902. Balfour is a man of deep religious spirit, sweet and gentle in nature, serious and serene in temperament, simple and unaffected, seemingly unconscious of his strength, a philosopher turned statesman, and so sensitized to the great realities of life as to be unmindful of many things that absorb the whole life of smaller men.

Is It Glory Whalen's Murderer?

Berlin, Ont. May 11 - High Constable Huber disbelieves a story pub lished in the London Free Press to the effect that Constable Levan of Preston, has a clue that would lead to the arrest of Glory Whalen's murderer at Collingwood. The story is that W. Brislin, now serving a sentence of five years in Kingston Penitentiary for attempting to shoot Miss Gertie Jones at Preston, told Miss Jones' father that he had known Glory Whelan very well, and that he was in Collingwood at the time of the murder, in reply to which Mr. Jones had remarked that the murderer did well to escape. "He was no slouch." said Brislin. Constable Levan discovered that offences of the sort seemed to be a mania with Brislin. He was wanted in Walkerton on a charge of assault At Sault Ste Marie he was wanted for a similar charge, and a man answering to his description was wanted at Buffalo on "The benefit I derived from Ferro a like charge. #### Tramps Should Get The Bounce.

The Markbam Sun thinks that the indiscriminate giving to tramps and beggars is encouragement of vice. This is what it says;

"Need it be repeated that about 99 out of every hundred of these travellers are frauds and pretenders, and as a rule they only wait till they can reach the nearest bar room to spend the money they so easily make. The kind-hearted citizen who gives five cents or 10 cents or 25 cents to one of these mendicants probably does so under the firm belief that he is a good Samaritan.
