CYNTHIA WESTOVER ALDEN The Romantic Career of an American Woman

The lives of some people are so large, so brimful of action and accomplishment, so pulsing with purpose, so kaleidoscopic and diverse in expression, that a mere outline of their life-story seems more like the record of the doings of a syndicate than the biography of an individual. Such a one is Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, founder and President-General of the International Sunshine Society, and whose generous thoughtfulness in "passing on" to others her surplus Christmas gifts was the inspiration of a worldsociety with over 3,000 branches and more than 200,000 members-all consecrated to spreading sweetness and the sunshine of kindness.

When Mrs. Alden was a motherless child of four she was taken by her father, an expert geologist, from her native home in Iowa to Colorado. This was when the journey across the Rockies was one of fearful peril, for to the hardships of travel was added the constant terror of the Indians.

Her education was under the loving tutorship of her father, who, after teaching her the twenty-six keys to universal knowledge, led her into the mysteries of history and geology. When but a child she rode a broncho with the nonchalance of an Indian; with a revolver at her belt or a rifle slung across her arm she was a sure shot, and was expert with the lasso and bow and arrow. In this large unconventional life she grew up a strong, healthy girl, fearless, self-reliant, but with fine impulses and broad sympathy.

Her hunger to serve humanity was even then manifest. She crawled through the tall grass to bathe and dress the wounds of a stage driver who had been scalped by the Indians; saved the life of a miner who was to be lynched, by standing between the victim and the enraged mob till its fury was calmed; was lowered over a precipice to bring up the dead body of a puts the whole digestive system in child; threw herself on a miner's lamp that had fallen near gunpowder and smothered the flames; rescued some snow-bound miners; made a daring rescue ride through the Indian invaders and brought relief from the fort, and had many other similar experiences.

The first child in the schools of Colorado, she graduated from the State University. She has made a success in journalism; has written three books, the latest of which is "Money Earning for Women"; done splendid work in music; mastered Spanish, German, Italian and French, and is one of the most popular club women in the country. Mrs. Alden is the wife of John Alden, a lineal descendant of John Alden of "Mayflower" fame.
