After the old gentleman had invited the young one to be seated the latter coughed once or twice to clear his throat and then bluntly suggested that he wished to marry the old gentleman's daughter.

The old gentleman didn't wish to be too ready to give his consent, but he admitted after a few minutes h thought he had no objections.

"That's just the trouble," protested the young man disconsolately. "If you'd only oppose it and order me out of the house once or twice and buy a bulldog I'd have some show of getting

Race of Centenarians.

Pierre Forget, aged 100 years, and his wife, aged 96, on March 1 celebrated in Montreal the 76th anniversary of their marriage, at which children down to the fifth generation attended. Speaking to a newspaper man, he said: "It has often happened to me to say: 'My daughter, go tell your daughter that her daughter's child is crying.' My wife is 96 years of age, but if she takes after her mother she is good for several years yet, for her mother died at the age of 104. I have never worn glasses, and if God grants us life until we celebrate the 80th anniversary of our marriage, you will hear of the celebration, I can assure you. I belong to a race of centenarians, and I am strong and fit the library of the race is hardly open to live for quite a number of years to est of whom is now 46 years of age, and the eldest will celebrate her golden wedding in three years. My wife and I will be present to dance a step at the celebration."

THE ELDER TREE.

In Days Long Gone by It Was Held

In Disrepute. In olden days to be crowned with elder was a disgrace. In an old play we read, "Laurel for a garland and elder for disgrace." This may have been due to the story which Shakespeare has noticed that Judes hanged himself upon an elder tree:

Well follow'd; Judas was hanged on an elder .- "Love's Labour's Lost." This legend was generally accepted. Ben Jonson in "Every Man Out of His Humour" has, "He shall be your Judas, and you shall be his elder tree to hang on," and Nixon in his "Strange Footsteps," "Our gardens will prosper the better when they have in them not one of those elders whereupon so many covetous Judases hang themselves." Shakespeare also makes it an emblem of grief: Grow patience And let the stinking elder, grief, untwine His perishing net with the increasing vine .- "Cymbeline."

Truthful Children

-London Telegraph.

Never punish a child when he confesses he has done wrong. To do so is really to encourage him to tell lies. Many a child has got into a habit of telling untruths simply because he knew he would be punished if he confessed. Let him see and try to make him understand how it grieves you, but train him to look on you as a friend to whom he can tell all his childish misdeeds without fear of punishment to
