Sprained Ankle. Stiff Neck. Lame Shoulder.

These are common ailments for which Chamberlain's Pain Balm is especially valuable. If promptly applied it will save you time, money and suffering when troubled with any one of these ailments. For sale at Parker's drug store

Cuban Diarrhoea.

U. S. soldiers who served in Cuba during the Spanish war know what this disease is, and that ordinary remedies have little more effect than so much water. Cuban diarrhoea is almost as severe and dangerous as a mild attack of cholera. There is one remedy, however, than can always be depended upon as will be seen by the following certificate from Mrs. Minnie Jacobs of Houston, Texas. "I hereby certify that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy cured my husband of a severe attack of Cuban diarrhoea, which he brought home from Cuba. We had several doctors but they did him no good. One bottle of this remedy cured him, as our neighbors will testify. I thank God for so valuable a medicine." For sale at Parker's drug store.

Edge Hill.

Mr. Geo. Firth, of Melancthon, visited friends and neighbors here for a few days last week.

Mr. Herb. Greenwood, accompanied by his two sisters, Winnie and Ethel, visited friends near Maple Hill, the beginning of the week.

Mrs. C. Williams has returned home after a lengthened visit with friends in Toronto and Hamilton.

We must congratulate Mr. W. J. Firth on his success in passing with honors his third year examination in Arts at Toronto University.

Our beef ring killed their first beef last Wednesday. The farmers in this part could not be persuaded to do without the beef ring.

The Edge Hill Union Sunday School held its annual picnic in Mr. Wm. Edge's bush on Saturday last. The weather was all that could be desired and a nice crowd gathered together. The early part of the afternoon was most pleasantly spent in games and swinging any other amusements. Tea was served about 4:30, and the wants of the inner man amply supplied by the abundance of delicacies which the ladies generously provided. After tea came the special feature of the picnic, the baseball match between the married and single men. The game was interesting throughout. The married men led at the first of the game but they did not keep it up and the result of seven innings play was a decisive victory for the single men, as they more than doubled the score of their opponents. Mr. Jos. Firth kept tally and Mr. Dan Edge acted as umpire giving the best of satisfaction. Following are the players and their positions, with perhaps some few changes, during the game.

After the game the crowd returned to the swings and kept them in operation until dark when all went home well satisfied with the afternoon's sport.

Just What Everyone Should Do

Mr. J. T. Barber of Newville, Ga., always keeps a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy at hand ready for instant use. Attacks of colic, cholera, morbus and diarrhoea come on so suddenly that there is no time to hunt a doctor or go to the store for medicine. Mr. Barber says: "I have tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy which is one of the best medicines I ever saw. I keep a bottle of it in my room as I have had several attacks of colic and it has proved to be the best medicine I ever used." Sold at Parker's Drug Store.

MISS HELEN F. MEARS.

A Talented Woman Who Has Earned Fame as a Sculptor.

Miss Helen Farnsworth Mears, the sculptor of Frances Willard's statue which the state of Illinois commissioned her to make for Statuary hall at the capitol at Washington, was born in Oshkosh, Wis., and began to model things out of putty that she found about the house when but a mere child. Before she was nine years old she had modeled a head of Apollo, which was exhibited at the county fair, and every year after she modeled something for exhibition, her designs representing allegorical figures, as Hope, Repentance and similar ideas. Later, when Miss Mears began attending the Normal college, she continued her modeling at home, with her father to make suggestions and criticisms.

Although the statue of Miss Willard is not the first work of importance

MISS HELEN FARNSWORTH MEARS.

Miss Mears has executed, she is still a young woman. She submitted a design in competition for the figure of a woman for the Woman's building at the Chicago exposition, coming in third, and when symbolic figures of Wisconsin were wanted for the Wisconsin State building she competed successfully for them. The Milwaukee Woman's club having offered a prize of $500 for the best work of art by a Wisconsin woman that should be exhibited at the Chicago exposition she was fortunate enough to win it with her Wisconsin figure, which, after the fact, was put in marble and placed in the rotunda of the capitol at Madison.

Up to this point the only professional instruction Miss Mears had received was confined to about six weeks at the Art Institute in Chicago, but she went to New York, where she studied for a year and a half under Augustus St. Gaudens at the Art Students' league before going abroad to spend a year in Paris atelier, working under Pusch in Julien's studio, in Collin's class and with Merson and Charpentier. During the latter part of the time she worked for St. Gaudens, helping to model his General Logan and other statues.

After nine or ten months in Italy Miss Mears returned to New York and set up for herself as a sculptor.—Detroit News-Tribune.

Window Shades.

In measuring for window shades it must be remembered that the dealers measure by the length of the roller and not by the width of the shade itself, as most women learn to their sorrow if they take the measure for themselves. The shade has to be cut narrower than the fixtures on the ends of the roller to allow it to work; hence shades are too narrow very often if untrained persons take the measures for themselves.

In the same way designers of their own homes draw plans and give measures to a house builder, imagining that the measures will be exactly right to allow the pieces of furniture to stand in the spaces intended for them. They intend the single line for inside measure and make no estimate for the walls, and the builder takes it for the outside and lessens the size of the room just that much. The writer once visited in such a house, where it was a constant source of trouble to its owners, who had drawn the plan to accommodate rugs and furniture. The foundations were laid and walls up too far to change before the matter was discovered.—Table Talk.

Her Company Voice.

"Who is that in the parlor, Nellie?" asked the little sister.

"Nobody but mamma and Fred," replied Nellie.

"Oh, yes, there must be some one else," rejoined the little girl, "for mamma has her company voice on."

It was a little squib under the heading of "Fun" which a member of the family read aloud from the paper. The circle about the table who heard it smiled, and one said, "That's a good joke." But a more thoughtful member turned it over in her mind. She was the mother, and she admitted to herself that it was more than a joke—that in many instances it was a sober truth. It came home to her heart with great significance, for she acknowledged to herself that "the company voice" was entirely too often put on when in the presence of those outside the home circle. We wish to appear at our best before those whose good opinions we desire to gain. But with those who love us how often we speak in irritable, harsh, quick tones.—Evangelist.

Red Arms.

The skin of the upper parts of the arms is often rough and red and therefore a source of annoyance to the owners.
