When their venomed points to powder death his heel. Gladly would Iris have dispensed with the friend-protection of the tarpaulin when the evening breeze came from the north. But such a thing might not be considered. Several hours of darkness must elapse before the moon rose, and during that period, were their foes minded, they would be absolutely at the mercy of the impetuous shafts if not aided by their impenetrable buckler. The sailor looked long and earnestly at the well. Their own bucket, improvised out of a dish cover and a rope, close to the brink. A stealthy crawl across the sandy valley, half a minute grave danger, and he would be up the ladder again with enough water to give their imperative needs for days.

There was little or no risk in descending the rock. Soon after sunset he was wrapped in deepest gloom, for it succeeds day in the tropics with prodigious speed. The hazard lay in the crossing the white sand, where the Dyaks hiding behind the trees held no foothold view of his powers. The one-sided nature of conflict thus far was due solely to possession of modern rifles as opposed to muzzle loaders. Let him be bounded on the level at close quarters by a dozen determined men and surely succumb.

ere it not for the presence of Iris would have given no second thought to the peril. To act without consultation was impossible, so they decided the project. Naturally she held it. The Mohammedan may be able to us," she pointed out. "In any let us wait until the moon wanes. It is the darkest hour. We do not what may happen meanwhile." The words had hardly left her mouth when an irregular volley was fired at from the right flank of the enemy's position. Every bullet struck above their heads, the common of musketry at night being too high an aim. But the impact of missiles on a rock so highly insulated with minerals caused sparks, and Jenks saw that the Dyaks could obtain by this means a most potent index of their faulty practice. Telling Iris to at once occupy safe corner, he rapidly adjusted a on the wooden rests already prepared in anticipation of an attack from quarter and fired three shots at opposing crest whence came the rattle of gun flashes.

"Women's Headaches"

Late hours and anxious pursuits, with immoderate eating, weakness, nervousness, and overwork or worry, is responsible for the alarming increase of headache. Women are more subject to this ailment than men. Their delicate constitution and nervous temperament induces a condition of the system that sooner or later brings on the periodical attacks of headache. "PSYCHINE" is the remedy of all others for the complete cure of headache. It builds up the nervous system—restores vitality, cleanses the stomach from all bile, settles the nerves, starts the blood into the proper channels, and in most cases the attacks can be warded off by careful attention in following directions. Don't destroy the system by frequent use of dangerous powders, that give only temporary relief. Begin the "PSYCHINE" treatment now, and fortify the system against attacks. This is the only way to permanently dispose of periodical headaches.

fallen to dislodge the occupants. Every minute one or more ounces of lead pitched right into the ledge, damaging the stores and tearing the tarpaulin, while those which struck the wall of rock were dangerous to Iris by reason of the molten spray.

He could guess what had happened. By lying flat on the sloping plateau or squeezing close to the projecting shoulder of the cliff the Dyaks were so little exposed that idle chance alone would enable him to hit one of them. But they must be shifted, or this night bombardment would prove the most serious development yet encountered. "Are you all right, Iris?" he called out.

"Yes, dear," she answered. "Well, I want you to keep yourself covered by the canvas for a little while, especially your head and shoulders. I am going to stop these chaps. They have found our weak point, but I can baffle them."

She did not ask what he proposed to do. He heard the rustling of the tarpaulin as she pulled it. Instantly he cast loose the rope ladder and, armed only with a revolver, dropped down the rock. He was quite invisible to the enemy. On reaching the ground he listened for a moment. There was no sound save the occasional reports ninety yards away. He hitched up the lower rungs of the ladder until they were six feet from the level and then crept noiselessly close to the rock for some forty yards.

He halted beside a small pool tree and stooped to find something imbedded near its roots. At this distance he could plainly hear the muttered conversation of the Dyaks and could see several of them prone on the sand. The latter fact proved how fatal would be an attempt on his part to reach the well. They must discover him instantly once he quitted the somber shadows of the cliff. He waited perhaps a few seconds longer than was necessary, endeavoring to pierce the dim atmosphere and learn something of their disposition.

"Up, for God's sake! I follow at your heels!"
She began to climb. He took some article from between his teeth, a string apparently, and drew it toward him, mounting the ladder at the same time. The end tightened. He was then about ten feet from the ground. Two Dyaks, yelling fiercely, rushed from the cover of the house.

"Go on," he said to Iris. "Don't lose your nerve, whatever happens. I am close behind you."
"I am quite safe," she gasped. Turning and clinging on with one hand, he drew his revolver and fired at the pair beneath, who could now faintly discern them, and were almost within reach of the ladder. The shooting made them halt. He did not know or care if they were hit. To frighten them was sufficient. Several others were running across the sands to the cave, attracted by the noise and the cries of the foremost pursuers. Then he gave a steady pull to the cord. The sharp crack of a rifle came from the vicinity of the old quarry. He saw the flash among the trees. Almost simultaneously a bright light leaped from the opposite ledge, illuminating the vicinity like a meteor. It lit up the rock, showed Iris just vanishing into the safety of the ledge and revealed Jenks and the Dyaks to each other. There followed instantly a tremendous explosion that shook earth and air, dislodging every loose stone in the southwest pile of rocks, hurling from the plateau some of its occupants and wounding the remainder with a shower of lead and debris. The sailor, unmolested further, reached the ledge.

What It Really Lacked.
"I put in the French phrases here and there," said the would-be author, "to give the book an atmosphere of culture."
"H'm!" remarked the critic. "It would have helped a bit if you had put in a little good English in spots!"

HAD BLOOD POISON 12 YEARS
The New Method Treatment Cured Him after Drugs, Mercury, Hot Springs, etc., all failed.
Wm. H. Patterson, of Saginaw, Mich., relates his experience: "I do not like notoriety and especially of this kind, but I feel I owe this much to Drs. K. & K. for the great good they have done me. I had a serious blood disease when 24 years of age. The skin and blood symptoms gradually developed. Pimples and ulcers formed, running sores broke out, hair before treatment became loose, pains in the bones and joints, dyspeptic stomach, foetid breath, itchy skin, etc. It is needless for me to say I tried doctors. I grew to hate the looks of one. I visited Hot Springs twice for four months each time. It helped me temporarily, but in six months after returning home I was as bad as ever. Finally a doctor friend of mine advised me to see Drs. Kennedy & Kergan. He said he had known of them for over 20 years, and that they made a specialty of these diseases and treated the worst cases by the method they ought to be expert in curing them. I was afraid of advertising doctors, but I took his advice. They agreed to treat me under a guarantee or no pay. I commenced the new method treatment. The eruptions disappeared in two weeks. The bone pains in four weeks and in four months I was entirely cured. Yes, sir, I can recommend the New Method Treatment for Blood and Skin Diseases. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. Consultation Free. Books Free. If unable to call, write for a Question Blank for Home Treatment."
