DEATHS AT WORK.—This town witnessed a big sensation on Sunday last week, when a crowd of men surrounded the house of a man, a moulder and deman-der of a year-old daughter. Large numbers were gathered at the house, and threats were made to the lives of the inmates. The woman had not reached home, and was made for the railroad which is the nearest route to her home from the town. In the middle of the bridge the mob of young men, who were escorted by a gentleman. The couple were soon surrounded and overpowered. Tar and feathers were thrown at them, and the crowd got excited. The man was thrown to the ground, and the girl over his head, which is about 60 feet high. She was caught by her feet in mid air, and her cries not heard. Her life could be heard a long time, but in the excitement she failed to recognize some of her friends. On Tuesday following Constable Phippen arrested the young man, and induced the number to "talk." The man tried before the crown attorney Goderich, who allowed their freedom on suspended bond and paying a fine. The constable worked on the case is rep-raise by the better class of the town, while others have endeavored to keep the case from going to court. The Free girl has a record, and only a few months since she was tried in Stratford. An effort being made to drive her from the town.—Blyth Stand-ingham Cor.

MR. WILL LIVINGSTON left on Friday last for Flesherston, to which place he had been transferred as cashier of the new branch of Standard Bank, opened up in that place. Will was a "jolly good fellow" and his many friends, though pleased to hear of his advance in the service of his employers, were loth to lose him from their midst. We join them in wishing Mr. Livingston success and congratulate the people of our sister town on having added one more good citizen to her list.

We had an interview last week with Mr. B. B. Moore of Victoria, B. C., who is here now on a visit with friends. Mr. Moore is a poultry fancier and has now about a thousand head of thoroughbreds. This is the largest poultry ranch on Vancouver Island. The principal industries of the Island are fishing, lumbering and mining. Game and fish are so abundant that the place is characterized as the "Sportsman's Paradise." For shooting, the valley quail, the mountain quail, the blue grouse, the willow grouse, ducks and geese of all kinds, as well as the English pheasant form an unlimited in the line of small game. Add to this an abundance of deer, the mountain sheep, the big horn, the mountain goat, a pure white animal, and many others give additional sport that's much indulged in and highly prized. Mr. Moore is enthusiastic over British Columbia and thinks there's no place on earth to surpass it, in fact, he says, he doesn't think there is any place. It isn't a farming country, being as Edward Blake expressed it years ago, "a sea of mountains." As usual between two hills there's a valley, and the British Columbia Valley is unsurpassed for natural richness of soil, on which anything that grows will grow in the greatest luxuriance.

On Friday last Mr. John Vollet had a tumble from which he will feel the effects for some time. He was working on a scaffold veneering a house for Councillor Moran when the underpinning gave way and he was precipitated from his position near the top of the building. Some of the timbers fell on him and he sustained a sore gash or two on the head which was soon stitched up by Dr. Macdonald. One of his young sons happened to be caught in the mix-up but escaped without much injury.

A PLEASANT social evening was spent in Varney Tuesday night when the Epworth League had a rousing social.

A PUBLIC meeting under the auspices of the Women's Mission Circle was held in the evening of the 5th inst. The programme consisted of music, recitations, readings, and exercises by the children. Mrs. Campbell, a former President of the Circle, was present and spoke a few encouraging words to the members, also expressing her pleasure in meeting with them again. She also sang two solos, and Miss Amy Campbell sang two solos accompanied by her autoharp. The mite-boxes were opened, the contents of which together with the offering amounted to $10.00.

The Furniture Factory in Operation.

The Furniture Company has started up again, and about thirty men are now engaged in the manufacture of furniture. It is the intention to get out a full line of new and attractive designs and in the course of a few weeks the product of our factory will be again on the market.

Every precaution to prevent a repetition of the late disaster has been taken. Cement floors in the basement fire proof doors between the different departments and a fire proof roof are all safeguards against total loss as we had in March last, should fire again occur.

The machines are all installed and work is going on except in the finishing room. The saw mill has practically completed its work and by the end of this week will be engaged in the manufacture of shingles. A lot of the saw mill output has already passed through the machines and is now being put together in the Cabinet shop where it will be made ready in a few days for the finishing room. They have at present no suitable storeroom, and there seems very little prospect of getting one this fall. It is highly probable, however, that the great portion of the output for the fall and winter will go on the market at once and very little storage accommodation will be needed for some months yet.

Death of Mrs. Storey.

We regret very much to chronicle the death of Mrs. Henry Storey which occurred Monday last after an illness of only a few days.

The deceased was in her sixtieth year, and for about forty-five years has resided in Durham. She was born in the township of Derby near Owen Sound and came here with her parents when only a girl. She is a sister of Mr. James Carsen, Chief Constable of Durham and bailiff of the district.

Mrs. Storey was of a quiet retiring disposition, always satisfied with her lot in life, a good, true christian character and an affectionate wife and mother.

Four children remain to mourn her death, Mrs. Wm. Caldwell, of Varney, Thos. of Winnipeg, and Wesley and Melville at home. James died here about eleven months ago, and the second great affliction following so soon is a very severe trial on the bereaved husband for whom the whole community feels a deep sympathy.

Mr. and Mrs. Storey were married on the first day of July 1867, this being the first Dominion Day of the four Confederated provinces which now form only a part of the great Dominion of Canada. The Chronicle extends sympathy to the sorrowing family and relatives.

Died in the Orchard.

On Friday afternoon last Mr Jas. Andrews, who lived about a mile east of the town, died very unexpectedly in his orchard. He was 68 years of age and lived on the farm where he died from his early boyhood. For the past two or three months he has been complaining of his heart, but there was no expectation of his sudden taking off; in fact he was feeling better the day of his death, and spent some time in the orchard, where he was reclining on a little mound when called to supper. He evidently started for the house as one of the daughters found him a few minutes later a few rods from where he had been resting, quite warm but no sign of life left.

Mr. Andrews was a good neighbor and a good honest citizen. We are not sufficiently informed to give full particulars, more than to say that he was in good circumstances. He leaves a widow, two daughters and one son, all grown up. He was sixty-eight years of age.
