DURHAM, ONT.

The man who had been thrown overboard had shrieked for help as he fell. The splash he had made as he struck the water had been followed by another. A Spanish priest standing on the rail had seized a grating and thrown it to the man. Morgan took the situation in a glance. "Who threw that grating?" he cried. "I, senior," composedly answered the priest, who understood English. Morgan instantly snatched a pistol from De Lussan's hand and shot the man dead.

"I allow no one," he shouted, "to interfere between me and the discipline of the man dead."

"If you hesitate—Fire on me!" he cried to his officers. But the man in the front did not linger. They were away from his presence so suddenly that they fell over one another in the gangways.

"Don't fire!" they cried in terror. "I'll go back to duty!" Morgan was completely master of the situation.

"I am to be obeyed," he cried, "immediately, without question, without hesitation, yes, yes!"

"I will!" they cried. "That's well. Heave that carrion board," kicking the body of the man. "Now we'll go back and pick up the sawkins," he continued. "Ready at! Station for stays!"

"Look you, Captain Morgan!" cried the big old, pointing to leeward. "The ship! 'Twill be soon on us! We'll reduce sail and run for it!"

"I'll allow not a storm to interfere with my business. Flow the head sheets there! Down with the helm! Aft here, you of you, and man the quarter boat! I'd pick him up, and picked up he'll be!"

The ship, like all Spanish ships, was sandy and a poor sailer. Morgan, never, got all out of her that morning could get. With nice seamanship he threw her up into the wind. She heaved and dropped a boat overboard. Teach had volunteered for the command of her, and the best of the men on the ship were at the oars. The men had managed to catch the ship and was clinging feebly when the boat swept down upon him. They dragged him aboard and then turned the ship. The sinister squall was blowing down upon them from the black horizon with terrific velocity. The men bent their backs and strained their oars as never before. It did not seem possible that they could beat the wind. The men on the ship besought the wind to fill away and abandon their gables.

"No!" he cried. "I sent them there. I'll wait for them if I sink the ship!"

Good Bread should please the Eye as well as the Palate.

Why does the dainty housewife delight in snowy napery, glittering cut-glass, burnished silver, delicate china and all other table allurements dear to feminine hearts?

And what man does not appreciate table beauty?

It is not that we appreciate the appearance of our food almost as much as the taste of it?

Bread may be ever so wholesome, well-flavored and made of scientifically milled flour, but with all these qualities we want it to look dainty, appetising, snowy-white, with nut-brown crust, and be firm and silky in texture.

Royal Household Flour makes just that kind of bread.

The electrical purification and sterilization of Royal Household Flour makes it yield not only absolutely pure bread, but bread of snowy whiteness and beautiful texture—bread that will grace the prettiest table or give beauty to the humblest meal served on the plainest dishes.

You can prove this by trying a 25 lb. bag—you must have flour, why not have the best.

Cured of Lame Back After 15 years of Suffering.

"I had been troubled with lame back for fifteen years and I found a complete recovery in the use of Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says John G. Bisher, Gillam, Ind. This liniment is also without an equal for sprains and bruises. It is for sale at Parker's Drug Store.

An ignorant countryman who saw the sea for the first time was much impressed with the effect of the blue water, and asked a fisherman if he could tell him the owner, as he would like to buy a gallon to take home to his wife. The fisherman replied proudly: "Us, me man—we own it!" "Land sakes!" exclaimed the rustic. "Could you sell me a gallon for fifty cents?" "Sure," said the fisherman; and he disappeared, returning in a few moments with a jar of water for which he received the countryman's fifty cents. The latter departed with his purchase. Returning later in the day, after the tide had gone out, he gazed in silent wonder at the water, which had receded far from the beach. "Lumm!" he exclaimed, "don't they do a trade!"

Chamberlain's Cough Remedy Aids Nature.

Medicines that aid nature are always most effectual. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy acts on this plan. It aids the cough, relieves the lungs, aids nature in restoring the system to a healthy condition. Sold at Parker's Drug Store.

Some of you fellows who have a million dollars, like we editors, do not know of course of just what the big pile consists. We will put you on. When you have a million dollar bill and pile them up flat on one another, and want to take one of them off the top you will have to reach up 275 feet. If you have laid them down end to end you would have to walk 11 2-3 miles. If you have that amount in silver dollars the pile would be 1½ mile high. And so on. We know because we tried the other night but the blamed bed slat broke and we woke up.—Kenmare Journal.

A GUARANTEED CURE FOR PILES

Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles Druggists refund money if PAZO OINTMENT fails to cure any case, no matter of how long standing, in 6 to 14 days. First application gives ease and rest. 25c. If your druggist hasn't it send 50c in stamps and it will be forwarded post-paid by Paris Medicine Co., St. Louis, Mo.
