A Narrow Escape.

Mrs. Wm. Mason, of Alliston, had a very narrow escape from death in Shelburne Wednesday evening of last week. Mrs. Mason and Mrs. John Dowkes were crossing the Victoria street crossing of the C. P. R. just as the evening train for the south was pulling out from the stat ion. Mrs. Dowkes was ahead and did not notice until she was severa yards away, that her companion had rails, partially stunning herself. covery, the train was almost on them had actually run over someone, and pulled up to investigate. It was indeed an exceedingly close shave and one Mrs. Mason naturally has no desire to repeat. - Shelburne Economist.
