A PAPER OF INFLUENCE.

An Eminent King's Counsel Expresses His Opinion of Canada's National Newspaper.

In addressing a jury at Cobourg last week in the libel action of Coyle
v. The Globe, Mr. W. K. Riddell, K.
C., counsel for the plaintiff, gave utterance to the following sentences:— "There is a paper known as The Toronto Globe, a paper known to everybody in this country. It has an enormous circulation throughout the length and breadth of the civilized world. It has an enormous influence; it is a paper which at least one half of the grown individuals in this country desire to see, and upon which a very large proportion put their faith. So influential was it that some of the Reformers said, instead of 'Give us this day our daily bread,' 'Give us this day our daily Globe.'"

When ignorance is bliss, it is wise to be foolish.
There are lots of people who would be able to raise the wind if hot air could do it.
You hardly call it a miracle when you go into an orchard and find a few peaches picking cherries.
We excuse all kinds of pranks in a good looking girl if they are directed against some other man.
There are some people who seem to keep their affections in cold storage.
Happiness for some people seems to consist in getting and keeping what the other fellow wants.

Jury at Inquest of Death of Miss Kate Boyd Thus Describes Conduct of Her Man Friend.

On Tuesday evening the inquest into the death of Miss Kate Boyd, who committed suicide last Saturday morning, was continued in the police court in the fire hall. The place was crowded with persons interested in the parties concerned and with those who came for mere curiosity. Dr.
Dow, coroner, presided over the inquest, and Mr. John Armstrong, county crown attorney, examined the witnesses. After the examination the coroner asked the spectators to withdraw. The jury then arrived at the following verdict: "That deceased Catharine Boyd came to her death by poison administered by her own hand while laboring under mental depression caused by disappointment in love and in the opinion of the jury the conduct of the young man who was keeping her company while engaged to another was very indiscreet and ungentlemanly.

The first witness, John Frost, when sworn, said he had known Kate Boyd since she was a child. Saw her about 1.15 on Saturday morning, she having been out with him. He met her by appointment about 4.20 p. m. on Garafaxa road. They then drove to Robt. Dunn's where they spent the evening. Returning they left about twelve o'clock driving to Owen Sound where they called at witnesses' livery barn and then to the girl's home. "I got out of the buggy and lifted Kate out. She left for the house. I did just as usual. She was not sick and did not complain of anything." She said "I'll be in on Monday afternoon to see you off on the train." Kate and I had been talking about me going West. She knew I was going to be married in about three weeks as soon as I knew myself. I told her when walking up street in Owen Sound. We had been friends for years. We were close friends. We have not been regarded as lovers for two years this month.
I told her I was going to marry another girl. I never asked her to be my wife. I was a frequent visitor to her house, taking her out.
We have been together frequently by appointment, and spent a good deal of time together. The meetings were for a pleasant hour. I called on several other young ladies " Witness went on to say that he had driven Miss Boyd home the previous Wednesday evening. He also told of other meetings. When he talked of going West she did not appear to be disturbed. He had no correspondence with her except a letter over two years ago asking her to meet him in Toronto and a few notes making appointments. He did not know any reason that would lead to her action of Saturday morning.

Deceased had never expressed attachment to me for two years. He had never bought a ring for her, and did not know where the ring she wore came from. He did not think Miss Boyd and the girl he was engaged to ever had any correspondence.

Mr. James Boyd, father of deceased, was next witness. He told of having seen his daughter last on Friday at 3 p. m. Next morning at 6.40 he was called to her room to see her dead in bed. He said that Frost had kept company with her for four years. Rarely was she out with any other man, and not at all recently.
He did not know Frost was engaged to another girl. His daughter had three large boxes and one trunk filled with utensils for housekeeping, which she prepared during evenings, etc.
She procured those out of her own savings. Witness identified bottles as the ones found in the girl's room.
He did not hear Miss Boyd come in on the night of the tragedy. She never came in late except when out with Frost. She kept company with Frost against his wishes. He fore-bade her going with him a year ago.
Previous to that he sometimes remained all night. When he came he put his horse in the stable before he came in. Witness understood Frost and the girl would be married but had no reason for thinking so. Kate never had any quarrel with any of her own family. He thought she had committed suicide over disappointment in Frost.

Dr. Cameron, who conducted the post mortem was called and said that death was caused by poisoning by strychnine. He submitted the report of autopsy upon the body.

Mr. T. C. Hatton testified to having sold strychnine to Kate Boyd, for killing rats.

The other witnesses, Mary Ann Dolphin, Catharine Rowland, Thompson Malcolm, Robert Dunn, Robert Boyd and Jamie Malcolm corroborated the statements made by former witnesses.

Caught Cold While Hunting a Burglar.

Mr. Thos. Lanorgan, provincial Constable at Chapleau, Ontario, says:
"I caught a severe cold while hunting a burglar in the forest swamp last fall. Hearing of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, I tried it, and after using two small bottles, I was completely cured." This remedy is intended especially for coughs and colds. It will loosen and relieve a severe cold in less time than by any other treatment and is a favorite wherever its superior excellence has become known. For sale at Parker's Drug Store.
