STRAY SHOTS FROM SOLOMON.

(The Shoe and Leather Journal.)
PRECIOUS TWADDLE.

There is a lot of sweet guff talked by professors of religion that is enough to make a saw-horse sick. When religion gives a man a desire to "sit and soar away to everlasting bliss," it is time his wife got after him with a broomstick or a good dose of calomel. There is nothing in religion as taught by Jesus Christ that warrants a man in developing a desire to get out of the responsibilities of life and leave the wife and family to solve the problem alone. These people who roll their eyes and talk about the "sweet bye-and bye" need medicine of larruping. This world is a good place to live in, and even if it is as thoroughly bad as some of these "saints" think, that ought to be the most potent motive for their staying with us. If they believe religion has any mission they will find no more promising field this side of heaven. "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this: To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world." This bespeaks a purpose far different from the small bore conceptions of those whose idea of religion begins and ends with self. If the Lord will only save them and their nearest and dearest (but save them first) and take them all to heaven, the rest of the world may go to the devil. If it had not been for the peanut stand kind of salvation the millennium world would have been here centuries ago.

Are you a success as a bread-maker? Is your cake and pastry complimented by your friends? If not, whose fault is it—yours or the miller's. If you are successful in other lines, your reputation as a cook is vindicated, and it is plainly the fault of the flour. Look up the good bread and pastry makers of your acquaintance and get their flour experience. You will find that most of them are using Royal Household Flour gladly paying a little more per barrel for it and getting for that extra cost a purer, better flour. For bread or pastry, it has no equal. Ogilvie's Royal Household—repeat the name to your grocer. Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., Ltd. Montreal.

sow seed that is going to produce a harvest of the kind indicated by the wise man. When the next "easy mark" for your meanness and perfidy comes along, ponder.

LAZINESS AND SLAVERY.

There is no man who thinks he enjoys more liberty than the lazy man, and yet there is no more abject slave than the loafer. The hardest and meanest master to serve is Self, for he can never be satisfied and never repents. The free man is he who can say to his own mind and body, "I am master." The man who controls himself controls the greatest power on earth, and the matter of controlling others is but child's play after holding the reins over his own thoughts, ambitions and acts. "The hand of the diligent shall bear rule." In the light of self-control—for the very essence of diligence is self-control—the diligent man has an open door before him that no man can close. The sluggard stands no chance of getting to the place of the big potatoes at the top. Diligence is the outward evidence of an inward condition. We do not take any stock in the diligence of the man with a ball and chain on his leg, and a man with a Winchester over him, nor the alacrity of the boy who knows there is a "hot time" ahead of him if he does not get through his errand in a specified time. Diligence that is the result of force and circumstances is not much better. The kind of diligence that will inevitably bear rule is the kind that is born and bred of love of the task. It is the man who is in love with his job, whether it be stone-breaking for a macadam road or for the delectation of a class in geology, who will bear rule in his calling.

LYING OR POVERTY.

There are few people, apparently, who believe the statement that "a poor man is better than a liar," or there would not be so many rich liars. There are lots of men whose fortunes are founded on falsehood and whose whole business and social life is a tissue of lies. They lie when they buy, they lie when they sell, and lie all the way between. They think it is smart to secure an extra five per cent. by lyingly representing that the goods they purchase are not up to sample. They call it good business when they browbeat a house into extending the time of their payments from thirty days to three months, unjustly claiming such terms at the purchasing. They claim it is "push" when they make statements in their advertisements that are as far from the facts as the earth is from the fixed stars. Fortune built with such scaffolding may well cause its possessor uneasiness. The man who can look his fellow in the face may be poor, but he is a noble man beside whom all the shriveled-souled scoundrels that can be piled up between earth and the utmost heavens, though the wealth of each rival that of Cæsar, are but pigmies. When a man gets the idea that riches are better than honor, he is not far from the kingdom of hell. It will not be long before he will divide honors with the most adept professional safe cracker as a spoiler of other men's property. "Better is a little with righteousness than great revenues without right."

PUT THIS DOWN.

There are some people, fortunately the number is small, who think it is smart to take advantage of the innocence or generosity of others. The case of the young man comes to mind, who through the kindness of a friend was lifted from a position of destitution almost, and given steady employment. He betrayed the friend's confidence, robbed him and injured his business to an extent that represented much more than his stealings. He escaped the penitentiary through the leniency of his injured friend, but although years have passed, nothing that he has touched has prospered. Young man remember it—a distinct curse is upon the man who betrays friendship, and returns kindness with ingratitude. It is written, "Whoso rewardeth evil for good, evil shall not depart from his house." Young schemer, old cynic, pause before you

SUBDUED LIGHTS.

Try Colored Shades For Toning Down the Trying White Glare.

Women who pride themselves on having artistic homes are selecting neutral and subdued shades for shielding the glare of the trying white light in an effort to get becoming and restful tones. Few women will be subjected to an awful greenish glare, a purple hue or even pale blue rays at any time, for careful housekeepers realize the advantage of having a soft shade of light to give a desirable tone to the surroundings as well as to make the most of their personal appearance, and for this reason delicate shades of yellow, pink and rose will be found ingeniously twisted around almost all the electric light bulbs in an apartment, particularly in the dining room, where a glaring or trying light frequently causes untold discomfort to the nerves of guests, besides making them look unreal and often ghastly. The strong light will be toned down by a ground glass or silk shield that has recently been invented. Those made of glass are screwed to the fixtures beneath the light and usually fit inside the globe. They really add to the appearance, because, being of glazed glass, the inside view of the framework is shut out. Those made of sheer silk are round, or of whatever shape will fit the bottom of the globe. They should be fitted to a fine wire frame that can easily be fastened to the fixture. The silk, of course, is put on smooth, so that, while the light is softened, it is not dim. In a dining room the artistic scheme is to have all the light concentrated on the table, leaving the rest of the apartment in subdued shadows. This is readily accomplished by placing the lights directly above or right on the table. Candelabra dropped from the ceiling are most frequently used above dining tables and are sufficiently high not to interfere with the placing of floral decorations in the center. The glare from these lights is softened before it falls on the white linen, sparkling cut glass and shining silverware by placing a shield of glass or silk beneath the bulbs and around the edges of the globe. It should be of light yellow, pale pink or red if the desire is to get a becoming light.

A WINDOW SEAT.

Use a Settee From Which the Back Has Been Removed.

The accompanying illustration shows a modern room environment in which has been added a window seat which is a separate piece of furniture. This special construction of simple character is merely a settee without a back, made to fit the window trim and placed closely against the wall. The upholstery is a movable cushion, and the ends of the settee have been decorated in a simple conventionalized flower design. The comforts of the window seat are being appreciated, particularly in colonial period homes, into which it enters without incongruity or inappropriateness. Its charm grows with familiarity. It makes for comfort always.—Interior Decoration.

WIVES WHO NEGLECT THEIR MUSIC.

What a pity it is that women neglect their music after marriage! Nearly every young girl of today has had musical training of one sort or another. She may not be a great musician; but, then, the average man is not a very severe critic. Yet no sooner has she a house of her own and a husband than she forgets all her pretty little pieces, and, as for getting up new ones, the idea never occurs to her. She used to be proud and happy to accompany a song, but now she cannot. She "has no time" to keep up her practicing, and when she attempts to she finds, to her dismay, perhaps, that she is forgetting all she once knew. In time her little girls may take her place, and she, fond, unselfish mother, will be quite content maybe, but the husband misses something. Deep down in his heart there is perhaps a picture of a sweet girlish figure playing his accompaniments so much in harmony with his song. What happy, bright days they were for them both, and why are they no more?

RUGS AND CARPETS.

A good authority on wilton and axminster carpets tells us that they should never be swept with a straw broom, says the New York Post. The corners and edges should be cleaned with a stiff hairbrush and the rest of the floor gone over with a good carpet sweeper. Oriental rugs should never be beaten on the line, but should be swept in the direction of the nap. If very dirty they ought to be laid, face downward, on the porch or grass, beaten with a rattan beater as they lie and then turned and swept on the right side.
