BALL FIELD STORIES

ODD INCIDENT THAT ONCE WON A GAME IN CHICAGO.

A Bucket of Paint Helped the Orioles to Capture the National League Pennant—The Importance of a "Color Scheme" in Batting.

One of the oddest things that ever happened on a ball field took place on the west side grounds, in Chicago, in a game against New York. Anson's men were playing the Giants, and the victory hung in the balance until in the ninth inning, with the score even, Bill Lange faced Jout Meekin and ramped a certain double to center. There were two out, and the crowd rose with a yell of delight when Lange smote the ball, which rolled past Van Haltren. That ball rolled on and finally disappeared. Van Haltren was on top of it, but instead of picking it up he suddenly threw himself flat on the ground, rammied his right arm into the earth and commenced reaching. Lange meantime kept on. He turned second, raced on to third, gave a look outward and then sprinted for home, scoring the winning run. The ball had rolled into a hole in the ground from which a post had been pulled that morning, and Van Haltren had been able only to reach it with the tips of his fingers. The next day the hole was filled in.

Upon what small things the results of baseball depend can be guessed when it is known that a forty-five cent bucket of paint won the National league pennant for Baltimore two years in succession. The men who composed the three times champion Orioles all admit the fact that the bucket of paint had more to do with their pennant win- ning than anything else.

The facts are these: The Orioles were not hitting. They could not find out why until one day Willie Keeler remarked that the ball when pitched from the pitcher's box was the same color as the center field fence and that the ball was lost to them against the dark background. The players set themselves down to figure it out, and in the end they figured that the reason they were not hitting was because there was a lack of relief in the color scheme of the grounds. The bat boy was sent in a hurry for a pot of white paint and a patch of the fence in center field exactly on a line with the pitcher's box, and the plate was daubed white. The paint made a difference of nearly forty points per man in their batting averages that season, and they won the pennant.

After that the space in center on most of the big league ball grounds was kept clear or painted in some color that would assist the team in its hitting.

The color scheme in baseball is more important than the casual observer would suppose. For instance, the Polo grounds are one of the hardest grounds in the world for an outfielder. Back of the grand stand rises a huge bluff—"Coogan's bluff"—and the stand is built partly on the side of the hill. Naturally the shadow of the stand and the bluff lies heavy over the field as far out as second base in the late after- noon, and the outfielders have great difficulty in seeing the ball until it rises out of the shadow and above the sky line. The players learn to judge balls by the way they sound against the bat, but visiting players at the Polo grounds have a hard time judging line drives.

For years the New York players have had the advantage because of the color scheme of their grounds. In center field is a panel of color to relieve the batter's eye and show the ball in relief against it, while to mitigate the effects of the shadow sections of the front of the stands and even the bowlers on the hillside have been painted. Those mechanical aids for batting are great things. Almost every home team has its grounds arranged for relief in color, so that they can by looking at a certain spot be certain to see the ball. It is not necessary for the ball to rise against the relief background, but it is necessary for the player's eye to be filled with the color, so that when he looks at the ball it stands out in relief against the color which still is imprinted on the retina of his eye.

One of the best hitting pitchers that ever lived, Walter Thornton, who was driven out of baseball because of the personal dislike of an official of the

A Word to Women

Every woman may not be handsome, but every woman should keep with care the good points which nature has endowed her with. Sallow skin, dull eyes, a blotchy complexion—these no woman need have who pays proper attention to her health. Where constipation, liver derange- ment, blood impurities, and other irregularities exist, good complexion, bright eyes, and sprightly movements cannot exist. Internal derangements reveal themselves sooner or later on the surface. Headache, dark rings around the eyes, sallow skin, labored heavy movements, a constant tired feeling—all these mean that the liver and digestive organs are needing help and correction. Bileans give this necessary help. They are purely vegetable and they work in Nature's own way. They do not merely flush the bowels and clear out the liver cells. They tone up liver and stomach to fulfil their proper functions. Not only so, but while more effective than the medicines hitherto obtainable, they are, at the same time, more mild in their operation, and are suitable for the most delicate constitution.

A WOMAN WHO WAS AS YELLOW AS A GUINEA.
Mrs. A. TRAVIS, of Gringley, says:—"I got completely 'run down' in health, my strength went. I was constipated, had frequent headaches, and my skin became as yellow as a guinea. Food gave me pain, and hours upon hours I laid awake at night quite unable to get any sleep, because of indigestion. I lost flesh and became quite wasted. Medicine did not seem to do me any good at all. One day bileans were recommended to me, and I decided to give them a trial. They did what other medicine had failed to do, and soon after I began to take them I felt an improvement. I persevered with them until they cured me, they cleared my skin, rid me of constipation, banished my headache, ended the indigestion, and made me well and hearty again."

Bileans FOR Biliousness

National league to him, had a scheme which worked well and which he claimed aided him in batting. He simply sat and held his fingers tight against his eyes for several minutes before going to bat. Shutting out all light, he claimed, rested his eyes after pitching a hard inning, and he went in to bat with eyes fresh and steady. And how he did hit them! How he did hit them!

Pietro Gladiator Browning tried every treatment possible for his eyes to keep them clear. Smoking a cigarette on the bench was one of his ideas, and he carried an eye wash with him which he poured into his eyes just before going to bat.

Most of the schemes of players to keep their "eyes in," as they say, are ridiculous, but there is no reason why a lot of players should not follow literally the advice of the bleacherites and "see an oculist." Any good oculist can devise a color scheme that will help the batter.—Hugh S. Fullerton

RADIUM AND LIFE.

The Experiments That Have Been Made and What They Show. Does it appear that any one has prepared from sterilized bouillon by the action of radium or in any other way living organisms capable of multiply- ing either by repeated subdivision or by means of spores or capable of pro- ducing definite fermentive changes such as those which we associate with so many of the organisms hitherto in- vestigated? The answer jumps straight to the lips. No such discovery has been recorded nor has anything been ob- served which would justify us in sup- posing that we are on the verge of making such a discovery at the present moment.

The fact is that, though much has been written and among other things quite a big book, very little has really been accomplished up to the present. A few preliminary experiments sug- gested by the marvelous qualities of radium have been made, and that is all. Those experiments and their re- sults, which are not at all revolution- ary, may be described in half a dozen sentences. Mr. Burke finds that when small quantities of radium bromide or chloride are scattered on the surface of carefully sterilized bouillon well pro- tected from the air in closed vessels minute objects appear in the bouillon after one or two days.

These objects have been watched, and Mr. Burke reports that after their first appearance they develop into two dots, next present the appearance of dumbbells and subsequently of bis- cuits, afterward take on forms which remind an observer of frog's spawn and finally divide, lose their individual- ity and become transformed into mi- nute crystals.

These bodies, which Mr. Burke very prematurely describes as "cultures," do not multiply, as living organisms should do, when they are transferred to fresh tubes of sterilized bouillon, though, as might be expected, they give some slight evidence that the ac- tivity of the radium salt is not quite exhausted by its first action, and they are soluble in water.

Now, it would be dogmatic to say that radium will not generate life in organic matter, but clearly Mr. Burke gives us little or no reason to suspect that it does so at present.

Twinkle, dim electric light,
You are almost "out of sight,"
Like a feeble dying spark,
Like a firefly in the dark.

Twinkle, twinkle, hit or miss,
Tell me how you came to this;
Did the Comp'ny orders take
For more light than it could make?

Twinkle, twinkle nervous light,
You have had some dreadful fright;
Tell me, dear, what caused the shock,
Was it water in the stock?

My! You are a ghastly hue,
Sometimes red and sometimes blue;
Is this the best, come tell me true,
Private Ownership can do?

Book-keepers can't read or write,
Factory work is tied up tight,
Merchants blue and "in the woods,"
Customers can't see their goods.

Twinkle, tinkle little bill,
Yes, ah, yes, I know you will
Be as large as e'er of old,
For the Comp'ny needs the gold.

Do Not Be A Burden.

Some Good Advice to Readers of the Chronicle.

A weak stomach and its resulting ills are not natural. With proper care and the use of Mio-na stomach tablets, the very worst case of indig- estion or stomach trouble can be completely cured.

It is a sin to deprive oneself of en- joyment in life and become a burden to others through indigestion. The backaches, headaches, distress after eating, loss of appetite, gulping up of undigested food and gases are not natural. Mio-na stomach tablets used for a few days before meals will so strengthen the digestive organs that you can eat anything you want without fear of distress or resulting sickness.

The directions for taking Mio-na emphasize the difference between this remedy and the ordinary medicine that is given for indigestion. Mio-na is to be used before meals, strengthening the digestive system for the food which is to be eaten, while the ordinary remedy is taken after meals, and simply digests the food without strengthening the stomach.

We absolutely agree that your money will be refunded should you buy a 50-cent box of Mio-na stomach tablets and not be satisfied with the results. Mio-na is sold by druggists everywhere, or will be sent by mail on receipt of price, 50 cents.

Write to day for a free sample package, and also give us your symp- toms, and one of the best known stomach specialists will give case his careful and personal attention with- out charge. The R. T. Booth Com- pany, Buffalo, N. Y.
