Corner Concerns.

A goodly number from this part attended the Varney Loyal Orange Pie Social and report having a very enjoyable time. Mr. Medford by his songs gave our boys some straight tips on fishing, that success in it depends much on the kind of bait that is used, we would therefore judge that the young chaps who have been taking turnips and mangolds to the homes of their lady loves, are also fishing for one or two of the old man's best cows.

Turnips are a good crop and they are all snugly housed now and the farmers happy as a consequence. Although it looked during the snow of a week ago as if they would again this year with feelings of disappointment mourn their loss.

Jim Eden is a christian and a law abiding citizen but he gives no attention to the command "remove not the old landmarks" He is removing the old house from Bob Mead's farm to his own place for a stable. It was one of the first buildings raised in this part and was used at one time as a general store we are told.

Three years ago an arbitration case on school matters occurred in the south east corner of our township. Jas Allan, county commissioner, and Inspector Campbell were two of the arbitrators. Recently the case was again submitted to the same procedure with Judge Hatton, Inspector Hughes and another County Commissioner as arbitrators and the former decision was fully sustained. We don't know much about the case, but we know it gives proof that our officials are as competent as any in the county.

We haven't heard of any nuisance being committed on Hallowe'en. The practise is a thing of the past.

Miss Bella McLaughlin returned home last Monday from her Chatsworth visit which was spoiled by her severe illness but we are all pleased to see her able to be around again.

Miss Lottie Eden went to Toronto on Saturday in company with her aunt, Mrs. Robinson, who spent the past two months with old friends in this part. Lottie's stay in Toronto will depend on how she likes city life.

Mr. Dave Smith with his new threshing machine closed the season's work in this part. His separator is a good one is the opinion of every body. Mr. Dave Eccles with his new machine also gave good satisfaction to all his old customers who could wait his coming. Both these machines have straw blowers and it is a settled fact that blowers have come to stay.

Mr. Sam Ritchie lost a valuable cow last week. The fall is usually a time for fatalities among stock. The farmers are too busy to keep a watch on them.

Although a good report of our S. S. Concert appeared in your paper of a fortnight ago, there was some things really worthy of special mention. Miss Pettigrew is a very sweet singer and delighted the audience. Miss Rita Irwin, who is becoming so noted in this place. The other organist were the Misses Allan Aljoe and Eden. Mr. Medford helped the choir with his singing, and the Durham male quartette was much appreciated. Many other good features of the programme were by home talent. The report read by the Superintendent showed the school in good condition.

Our young lady reciters each gave a good long temperance recitation at the entertainment, and it is a good thing to see them so temperate, for while it is said that whiskey makes men appear bright and highly conversational, women under the influence of it are apt to lose much of their grace of movement as well as their refinement of expression and sweetness of tone all of which add so much to their charms. We are pleased to see our girls are bound to preserve all their loveliness.

Mr. Jas. Matthews was so unfortunate last week as to lose one of his team of horses by acute indigestion, and for a time appearances were that Joe Lennox would suffer a similar loss, but the skillful treatment of V. S. Seim has brought him around.

Mrs. Jas. Tucker went to Belgrave on Friday to see her mother who is ill.

Mr. John Grasby, of Glenelg Centre, is moving to Belgrave to farm on the old farm on which his wife was bred and born.

C. McArthur

Among the many amusing things that have occurred since our last budget is a twin report of the Miller meeting at Varney by the Review, but they don't resemble each other at all. The one, no doubt, is as they would have wished it to be and is set up in large type with glowing headlines, while the other is much more truthful and is set in small type and tucked away down at the bottom of the page, showing conclusively that the Review gives first place to a slick story in politics over a true one. Like our own report it just dealt with the increased indemnity question, as it was clearly seen to be the subject of the evening, and the one solitary thing in the estimation of the people that Mr. Miller has done during his first parliamentary term is to take a thousand dollars more than has ever been given to old experienced men who could render the country valuable service. As for the other report, it is a lovely piece of literature and we don't wish to say that, except on one point which does the audience a great injustice and would lead people to think them a lot of silly things, at least after reading from our own report and the one the Review makes little of, that Mr. Watson's remarks received the applause of the evening. The other one didn't say that he had got any notice from the audience but pretended to give them in full as follows: "Mr. Watson said he would stick to the motion he made condemning the increased indemnity but thought that judges, bankers and many others got too much salary as well." Now don't it look foolish to give great applause for that. It should have read that Mr. Watson said in spite of all that had been said he would stay by the motion on the books condemning the taking of the money, but more especially the questionable way it was taken. Whereupon Mr. Miller rose up and said "Take the judges of the bench who should be our great moral examples they have got a raise of salary from Parliament in the same way." But Mr. Watson contended that judges were appointed by Parliament to carry out the laws made by them and they got their pay from their employers, while M. Ps. were elected by the peoples their servants and should have had the sanction of the people to a raise of salary. Mr. Miller then jumped to the case of bankers whom he said had got a raise without the approval of the shareholders, but Mr. W. again protested that they were given the increase by the directors who were acting for the shareholders and appointed by them. As the Review Editor was not present himself and admits that the second report was from the regular correspondent who always gives a very correct account of things, we could not even make a rough guess as to who the other writer is, but there is one thing sure it isn't Mr. Miller as no man could be so lacking in modesty as to write a report of his own meeting and say he had been the whole tip of the evening when he saw men holding opposite opinions were carrying off the laurels.

Winter.. Millinery

EVER HAVE CRAMPS?

Kind of fierce to be tied up in a knot at midnight with cramps. Keep Nerviline handy. Ten drops quiets cramps instantly. Used occasionally Nerviline prevents this trouble entirely. From Stratford, Ont., Wm. Dee writes: "Nothing I know of will give such quick relief to cramps, colic, or pain in the stomach as Nerviline. If you feel squeamish or sick, just ten drops of Nerviline in water and you're well next minute." Think of the protection and comfort contained in a 25c bottle of Nerviline, and get it to-day.

There has never been in the world's history a country favored so by nature as Canada. We have the richest minerals in the world, the finest timber in the world; the greatest wheat raising country in the world; the largest fisheries in the world, while Canada's coast equals half of the earth's circumference, and there never was a country that has made the progress so short a time that Canada has. Canada's first census of 1865, showed souls to-day we have over 6,000,000. Canada is destined to become the industrial storehouse of the world. Over $2,349,717,000 is the capital of Canada's industries. Canada stands third among the nations commerce. Canada leads in railway mileage. Canada manufacturing capital trebled in nine years from 137 to 1,200 millions. The value of manufactured products in 1901 was over 452 million. Canada has the largest grain elevators in the world; Canada has the largest canal locks in the world; Canada has the largest gold field in the world. Canada has more than one half the fresh water of the Globe, and we are the best people in the world.

In the great industrial expansion felt in every portion of this vast Dominion, every Province contributes its quota to make Canada what she is destined in the near future to become the great industrial storehouse of the world. Just as the various villages, towns and cities contribute to the whole.

One great mistake that has been made, in the various towns, cities and villages, and which the people in these various centres have in the past ten years, began to realize and that is, allowing prospective manufacturers to go elsewhere while small loan of $10,000 or $20,000 have brought them to their town. The history of a great many villages, towns in Ontario has been one of a strict economy. And where such cases they have had factories which have allowed more aggressive cities of population, with inducements of way of loans, exemptions from taxes, water rates and other conditions, to profit by their cheap policy and carry off these factories.

Durham has unfortunately been of this class. Here as in most communities, there have been a few early settlers who helped to build the place and who incidentally fortunes for themselves. Unaided made whatever money they possessed and they could not understand other people should receive assistance. And generally you could depend them stamping at the sight of a bonus, by-law like a bull at the of a red rag. And as they were majority, things generally in the towns went to the tarination wows. Progress was impossible these places, the usual rut being enough for these frugal citizens, people either died or moved away their places were taken by young and more progressive men, who had been educated in a different way. These young men knew the value of factories and assisted to find them and locate them, believing that man who made two blades of grass where one grew before, a public benefactor, then the town secured one factory where there none before, was doubly a benefit.

The value of factories to a benevolent better illustrated than in the case of Durham, when ten years ago we had no factory of any kind. We have four of as fine industries one can find in a day's travel. Portland Cement works; Creamery works; the Durham Foundry and Smith's Foundry.
