With His Wife.

Higgins is very fond of his wife, but sometimes they have little scrappy arguments, in which Higgins invariably comes out second best, though he hates to admit it even to himself. Not long ago Higgins thought he had "get it on" Mrs. Higgins at last so surely that she wouldn't have the last word. He came home one evening with one eye all red and inflamed and not in the best humor on that account.

Mrs. Higgins became all concern. "What on earth is the matter with your eye, Henry?" she inquired sym-

- pathetically. "Cinder," said Higgins shortly.
- "Let me get it out for you."
- "Already out." "Well, let me put something on it."
- "Don't need anything on it." "Well, at least I'd bathe it in salt

"No; just let it alone, and it will get well of itself." "Henry, do let me bathe it in salt water for you," pleaded Mrs. Higgins. "Don't want any salt water on it, I tell you. The best thing to do for a bags, pocketbooks, purses, card Higgins authoritatively. The next day the eye was still inflamed, but Higgins resolutely declined to let any one "fool" with it. That afternoon he went down to the beach with a gay party of friends and disported himself with them in the surf, swimming and diving to his heart's content. At the breakfast table the Finest imported and domestic next morning he noted with surprise that his eye no longer troubled him

> "You see now," he announced triumphantly to Mrs. Higgins, "my eye is cured already, and I didn't do a thing

"I did nothing of the kind. I didn't touch it, and as a result my eye is already the same as ever. I tell you there's nothing like letting things

alone." "Didn't you go in the surf yesterday

"Yes. But what's that got to do with my eye?" said Higgins belligerently. "Everything. The salt water cured

Her Wish.

A clergyman was about to leave his church one evening when he encountered an old lady examining the carving on the front. Finding her desirous of seeing the beauties of the church. he volunteered to show her over, and the flustered old lady, much gratified at this unexpected offer of a personally conducted tour, shyly accepted it. By and by they came to a handsome tablet on the right of the pulpit.

"That," explained the good man, "is a memorial tablet erected to the memory of the late vicar."

"There now! Ain't it beautiful?" exclaimed the admiring old lady, still flustered and anxious to please. "And I'm sure, sir, I 'ope it won't be long afore we see one erected to you on t'other side."-London Tit-Bits.
