When you plan your meals you never think of bread, yet you always have it, and if it is left off the table it is the first thing that is missed.

You can live without bread, but you can live without any other food with less hardship—think along these lines and the absolute necessity of bread comes home to you.

And because it is a necessity, its quality should be the best—quality in bread depends largely upon the flour.

Royal Household Flour has convinced the women of Canada that it is the best for pastry as well as for bread.

Try Ogilvie's Royal Household. Your grocer recommends it, because it gives such good results.

Beaver Made a Dam.

The industry and skill of a colony of beaver saved the Dominion Government $2,000 or more in work on the Trent Canal.

Superintendent J. H. McClelland, of the Trent Canal, was a guest at the annual outing of the Toronto Engineer's Club in the Government tug Bessie Butler, on the Trent waterways yesterday, and told the remarkable happening. The Government, he said, placed a dam across Gull River last autumn for the purpose of raising and conserving the water in Little Mud Lake. On its completion it was found, however, that the water of the lake backed up and began running in the wrong direction. As a consequence it was decided to build a second dam at the northern outlet. To the amazement of all the engineers who proceeded to the spot to make the surveys, they found the work done. A perfect dam 700 feet long and 7 feet deep, had been constructed by beaver during the frozen winter months. There was not a leak discernible and no likelihood of future leaks, at least for years to come.

Mr. McClelland ordered another stop-log to be placed upon the first dam to raise the water an additional foot and send it flowing again northward over the beaver's obstruction. Instantly the ambitious little animals set to work and added another foot to the dam.

Traverston.

Barley harvest is on, fall wheat is mostly safely housed; oats have considerable rust on the straw. It may hasten the ripening.

The Trustee Board of No. 5 met on Thursday evening of last week and out of a number of applications, accepted that of Miss Bernice Taylor, of Collingwood. By the way, we wish we could give to the public, samples of writing of over fifty per cent of the applicants. And the use of the English language! One fellow writes,—"Having saw" another—"Your advt in the mail and empire!" Ye gods of education! Doesn't this strike you as progress? "Yes, yes sunny and issy! you must work at your Greek and your Latin, your German and French but it doesn't matter a-blank, blank, whether you can spell write or clearly express an idea; the looming rural trustees don't know any better and they have to whack up the salary to you, anyway! The forgoing briefly sums up the modern educational practice. No wonder Business Colleges and Commercial Schoos are waxing rich and multiplying, while our High Schools and Collegiate Institutes are turning out crowds that cannot even word a receipt for the salary paid them. For the sake of the future of our land, let us have a little more drill on the three R's and in the correct usage of English.

Mr. and Mrs. Bright and baby returned to their home in Toronto, after holidaying with the Peart families for some weeks.

On learning of his mother's serious illness, Mr. Jim Hudson, hurriedly left his home in Manitoba and arrived here on Wednesday evening of last week and has been in constant attendance on her since. She is somewhat better.

Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Scroggie and bright boy of five are guests for a fortnight of Mr. and Mrs. White Anderson. Mr. S. is a manager of one of the Mail and Empire's heavy departments

Miss Mary Martin has arrived at the old home from Toronto.

Messrs. Stanley McNally and F. Benton took the service in Zion on Sunday. The former is a fluent speaker, with good voice and wide command of words; the latter is a singer sweet. His solo was well received.

Mount Forest has been granted the sum of $5000 by the Dominion Government for the purpose of building a post office.

S. J. Hisey, of Creemore, bought a cow with calf at foot from T. Thompson for shipment to Toronto, last week, the calf being several days old. On the way to the city the cow gave birth to another calf, the exact image of the other, but smaller.—Shelburne Free Press.

Sympathy.

It is hard to tell
As the years roll by
When the sun shines bright
From a cloudless sky;
When the pleasures and joys
Of Youth abound—
It is hard to tell
Where Life's griefs are found.

It is hard to feel
For those who mourn,
Whose hearts are saddened,
Whose lives forlorn,
When our own glad hearts
With songs resound—
It is hard to feel
For the sorrow-bound.

It is hard to think
When our lives are glad,
That lives around us
Are pained and sad;
It is hard to remember
From day to day
That the thoughts of many
Are grave, not gay.

But ah! how quickly
We learn to feel
When shadows of sorrow
Across us steal,
Tis then we wonder
How all around
So much that is pleasant
And bright is found.

Worth While.

It is easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows along like a song;
But the man worth while is the man
Who will smile

When everything goes dead wrong;
For the test of the heart is trouble;
And it always comes with the years,
And the smile that is worth the praise of the earth
Is the smile that comes through the tears.

It is easy enough to be prudent
When nothing tempts you to stray;
When without or within no voice of sin
Is luring your soul away.
But it's only a negative virtue,
Until it is tried by fire,
And the life that is worth the honor of earth
Is the one that resists desire.

With the cynic, the sad, and the fallen,
Who had no strength for the strife,
The world's highway is encumbered to-day—
They make up the item of life.
But the virtue that conquers passion,
And the sorrow that hides in a smile—
It is these that are worth the homage of earth,
For we find them but once in a while.

Old Kentucky.

Take me back to old Kentucky,
Where the crystal waters glist
As they dance along the borders
Through the fragrant beds of mnt;
Where the lasses and the horses
Are but terms for grace and speed,
And the whiskey and the statesmen
Both are noted for their bead.

Take me back to old Kentucky,
Where the blue grass decks the hills,
Where they have no use for water
Save for operating mills;
For they scorn it as a beverage
On that dark and bloody ground,
As they claim e'er since the deluge
That it tastes of sinners drowned.

Take me back to old Kentucky,
Where strong waters flow so free
Where they cool off in the summer
Near the fragrant julp tree;
Where the high ball and the low ball
Always hit the centre square
And you never have next morning
Rheumatism in your hair.

Take me back to old Kentucky,
To the place where I was born,
Where the corn is full of kernels
And the Colonels full of corn;
Where to disapprove that beverage
Is to toy with sudden death,
And they have a bonded warehouse
Where they bottle up their breath.

Take me back to old Kentucky,
Let me hear the pistols pop
See the pigs and politicians
With their snouts eye-deep in slop;
Take me back to those blue mountains,
Where they argue points with lead,
But you need not rush the matter,
Take me back when I am dead.

At Dinner,

No matter where we children are
We run in answer to the bell,
And dinner comes in piping hot,
It makes us hungry just to smell.

Poor father sharpens up the knife,
And carves with all his might and main,
But long before he's had a bite,
Our Willie's plate comes back again.

We eat our vegetables and meat,
For mother, who is always right,
Says those who wish to have dessert
Must show they have an appetite.

And when a Sunday comes around,
So very, very good we seem,
You'd think that most anyone could tell
That for dessert we'd have ice cream.
