BRITAIN DISAPPEARING.

The Island Being Gradually Washed Away.

Under the alarming heading, "The Disappearance of England," The Gaulois publishes an article by M. Guy Dorval on the erosion of the English coasts.

The writer refers to the predictions of certain British scientists, whom he does not name, that England will one day disappear altogether beneath the waves. He says that this terrible news has fallen on the British public like a bolt from the blue, and leaves his French readers to imagine the emotion and stupor produced by it.

Under pressure of public opinion, he continues, the King, in order to allay the fears of his subjects, appointed a Commission of Inquiry. M. Dorval then proceeds briefly to summarize the findings of the commission, which hardly bear out the sensational exordium. Still he repeats his conviction that the British Isles will sooner or later sink under the ocean unless the inhabitants show greater zeal in the construction of protective works.

In his anxiety concerning the fate of the entente cordiale, M. Dorval has interviewed several French scientists on the subject. M. Bouquet de la Grye, a member of the Institute, has somewhat reassured him by estimating the rate of erosion at two-thirds of a mile in a thousand years. He guardedly states as his personal opinion that the English people would be wrong in exaggerating the dangers of the situation.

Prof. Stanislas Meunier, who is equally comforting, declares at the outset that the conservation of the British people is based on scientific facts. He compares England to a large piece of sugar in water, but says that France is in the same plight, and Belgium, Holland, Germany and Scandinavia are also interested in the question at the same time. The panic in England is due to ignorance of geological processes.

KEEP THE KIDNEYS WELL

Health Saving Explained by a Durham Citizen Who Knows From Experience.

Many Durham people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help.

Sick kidneys are responsible for a great amount of suffering and ill health.

The reason so many use Booth's Kidney Pills is their quick relief for all kidney weakness. Here is what a Durham citizen says:—

Mrs. Thos. Wilson, Queen St., Durham, Ont., says: "Occasionally I would suffer with backache. A dull bearing down pain would settle in the kidney region and extend into my shoulders and neck. Headaches and spells of dizziness were frequent and would leave me unable to walk across the floor. Spots would appear before my eyes and leave me in a miserable condition. I had tried different plasters and remedies but could find no relief. I learned of Booth's Kidney Pills through an advertisement and procuring a box at Mr. McFarlane's Drug Store, I commenced treatment. The one box took the pain from my back and strengthened me wonderfully. The dizzy spells and headaches soon had gone and I feel like a new person."

Sold by dealers. Price 50 cents. The R. T. Booth Co., Ltd. Fort Erie, Ont., Sole Canadian Agents.

England's Day.

April 23 is a memorable day in English history. To begin with, it is the day dedicated to the patron saint of England, St. George. It was through the crusaders that St. George was thus selected. He was born in Cappadocia, and later his bravery against the Romans became a military tradition; hence the regard for him on the part of the English warriors who engaged in the crusades. On this day also Shakespeare is reported to have been born and died. Later, in 1661, Charles II. was crowned king on April 23. Lastly, Wordsworth died on this momentous day.—London Standard.

One Gene.

"He gave his wife a toy terrier, didn't he?"

"Yes, and she gave him an English bulldog."

"So each of them has a dog now?"

"No—he has one."—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

She Got the Chance.

Stylate (11 p. m.)—Do you really believe that absence makes the heart grow fonder? Miss Cutting (strangling a yawn)—I'm sure I don't know, but it's up to you to give me a chance to find out.—Chicago News.

ARTISTIC TASTE.

In This the French Are First and the Irish Come Next.

Artistic taste is due to temperament, and where this exists the simplest materials lend themselves to artistic combinations and beautiful effects.

The French excel in dainty, graceful designs because of their volatile, mirth loving temperaments. The Germans can never reach these heights because their temperaments are just the reverse, while it has been proved in several workrooms that, next to the French, the Irish temperament is the most artistic.

The more artistic the general training of a person the more ready are they to appreciate and profit by the fine productions of others; hence we are glad to see and grateful for the privilege of studying the "models" brought from Paris each season by the enterprising importers.

Twenty-five years ago in Paris and London the houses that catered to America and the colonies put aside for this trade any designs that were too extreme or "screaming" for the fastidious home buyers, says the Millinery Trade Review. But times have changed, and the American woman is now considered the best dressed in the world, and the leaders of American society are the women who dictate quite as much as the elite of France.

MINE TIMBERS.

They Add Eight Cents to the Cost of Each Ton of Anthracite.

The cost of every ton of anthracite is increased 8 cents by the expense of the mine timbers. To supply these timbers, says the Vegetarian Magazine, requires each year the product of approximately 150,000 acres of forest.

Timber is used for cross ties for tram roads in the main haulage ways, as wooden rollers and as props. A set of gangway timber consists of two legs, commonly nine or ten feet long and about thirteen inches in diameter, and a collar six or seven feet long. These sets are placed on an average at intervals of five feet. One gangway frequently contains 1,000 sets, and ten gangways to a colliery is not an unusual number.

The average life of the timber is hardly above two years. Forty-five per cent of the timbers are destroyed by decay, while breakage, wear and insects destroy the remainder. By peeling the timbers and properly seasoning them and especially by giving them a treatment in oils or chemical salts their length of service is materially increased.

The Marble and the Pencil.

The marble trick is as old as the days of Aristotle. Cross the middle and fore fingers and roll a marble between them. The marble will feel like two, because it is being felt in an unaccounted way. If a pencil is drawn between the crossed fingers the one pencil will feel like parallel bars. The same illusion may be worked by placing the pencil between the lips and then moving the under lip to one side, causing the pencil to feel like two. More curious than any of these is the one where the forefinger is crossed over the little finger behind the other two and then applied to the end of the nose. Not only can you feel two noses, but one of them seems to be about an inch longer than the other. This last sensation is caused by the fact that we do not ordinarily feel the edge of any object with these two fingers at the same time unless the part felt by the little finger projects beyond the part felt by the forefinger.

She Said So Anyway.

The young man who was endeavoring to win the favor of Bobby's pretty sister met the boy on the street one morning and greeted him with much cordiality.

"Er—do you think your sister was pleased to know I had called the other day?" he was at last forced to ask, bluntly, after several efforts to guide Bobby's conversation in that direction.

"Sure!" said Bobby, with gratifying promptness. "I know she was. I heard her say so."

"When she came home mother said, 'Mr. Brown called while you were out,' and she said: 'He did? Well, I'm glad of that!'"

Ink on Leather.

For ink spots on leather chairs wash the spots with milk, renewing the milk till it is no longer stained and the spot on the leather has disappeared. Then wash the leather with warm water, and when dry polish it with a very little linseed oil and vinegar mixed in equal parts. The ink stain should be removed as quickly as possible, for if allowed to dry and harden it is doubtful whether you will ever be able to entirely remove it.

A Better Authority.

Young Husband—My dear Jemima, I must say that this pudding tastes very bad. Wife—All your imagination, dear. The cookery book says that it tastes excellent!—London Telegraph.

Self Satisfied.

"Look at the self satisfied duff! Now what commendable trait does he possess?"

"Well, that of being easily pleased."

Three Feet and a Yard.

The trouble with buying residence property by the front foot is that it requires considerably more than three feet to make a presentable "yard."

If money didn't talk, some people would never be heard of.—Philadelphia Telegraph.
