Eccentric Balzac. Leon Gozian used to relate how he met Balzac one day on the Boulevard des Capucines "dying with hunger." The novelist insisted on taking Gozian to a confectioner who sold macaroni patties. Forgetting his hunger, Balzac plunged into an appreciation of Cooper's "Lake Ontario" (newly appeared). Gozian noticed that the shop attendant, an English girl, had heard him address Balzac by name and was gazing at the author as though fascinated. She was astounded presently by the appetite of genius for macaroni patties, which disappeared by couples.

"How much do I owe you?" asked "Nothing, M. Balzac," said the English girl firmly. Balzac was nonplused for a moment; then he pushed his precious copy of was in town last week erecting a "Lake Ontario" into the girl's hands, saying, "I can never sufficiently regret, mademoiselle, that I did not write that The Baptist Sunday School held their annual entertainment in the

A LITTLE LEARNING.

English School Children.

Here are some amusing blunders, of She wore the conventional bridal veil inst. we learn that Mr. W. F. Doll "howlers," made by English school eyes and long black hear. "'Ich dien' is the motto on the Prince of Wales' features." "The Dutch and English after the armada struck a medal; Jehovah blew, and they were scattered on it." "John Baliol was persuaded to rebel and fled to France, where he afterward died in mental agony." "In 55 B. C. Julius Caesar crossed over to Britain and conquered it, and in 54 B. C. he crossed over again to drive out the Danes; this shows, therefore, that he laid the foundation of the French language and French civilization and also made Italy safe from any attack from the barbarians." "Hamilcar has a touring show, panorama, etc., and acrobats in the Curzon hall, Birmingham." "Cicero was a Grecian historian; he led the 5,000 Greeks after Xenephen was killed."

Social questions are sometimes treated after this fashion: "In one of the slums of Liverpool, in the back yard, was a girl filled up with cabbage stalks and tea leaves." "In the houses of the poor the drains are in a fearful state and quite unfit for human habitation." "In nearly all poor houses the landlady lives in the center of the room, keeping a tenant in each corner." "The best way to improve poorhouses would be to put a thick plank on the floor and a cast iron beam on the ceiling."

The Bible provides some quaint instances: "When Lot's wife looked back she was turned into a pillar of cloud by day and a pillar of fire by night." "The city of refuge was heaven." "Amos was a very doleful person or an optimist." "A synagogue was not used as a swimming bath or a tanner's shop." "The Passover lamb might not be older than eight days or younger than one

BURNING A DIAMOND.

The Experiment as Made by Davy and Faraday.

That diamonds will not only burn, but will blaze, was proved as long ago as 1814 by Sir Humphry Davy and Michael Faraday. The experiment was carried out at Florence, where the two scientists were visiting the great Duke of Tuscany, whose burning glass was the medium through which the sun was induced to operate. This burning glass consisted of a couple of convex lenses, distant from each other about three and a half feet, the large lens being some fourteen inches in diameter, the smaller about three inches. The diamond rested on a rod of platinum which had a cup shaped receptacle at the top, pierced with holes to admit of free circulation of gas. This rod was fixed in the center of a glass globe of twenty-two cubical inches capacity, exhausted of air and filled with pure hydrogen. Intense heat was brought to bear upon the diamond when it was exposed to the sun, the second lens greatly reducing the focus. In the course of three-quarters of an hour it was necessary twice or thrice to cool the globe. Then it was noticed that the diamond was slowly diminishing and becoming gradually opaque. Suddenly it burst into flame. They removed the stone from the focus, and it blazed away merrily. It glowed brilliantly, with a scarlet light inclining to purple, and continued to burn for about four minutes. The glass was then cooled and the diamond again submitted to the action of the sun. Again it blazed, but not for so long a period as at first. Twice more this was repeated, and then the diamond was totally consumed. This was the first occasion on which, so far as is known, a diamond had been seen

How to Test a Restaurant. The man was enthusiastic about a restaurant he had discovered.

"Best place I've eaten at in months," he said. "Everything first class. You'd better try it." "Were you very hungry when you went in?" asked his friend. "As a bear," said the man.

"Go back some time when you are not so ravenous," his friend advised, "and see how you like it then. I make it a point never to experiment with a restaurant recommended by a person who was very hungry when he ate there. To a person who is half starved anything tastes good."

He Was Very Cool.

A congressman who was on board a train which was wrecked says that when the shock came one of the passengers was pitched over several seats just in time to receive the contents of the water cooler, which tipped over and soaked his clothing with ice water. A highly excited passenger rushed up to him and told him to keep cool. "Go away," said the wet man, "I am the contest man in the car. I have just had two buckets of ice water emptied down my back."

Its Origin. "I wonder who first said 'It's better to be born lucky than rich?" queried ham, on Saturday, January 2nd, "Some old fool whose young wife 1909, at the hour of eleven o'clock married him for his money, I imagine," "Some old fool whose young wife rejoined the wise bachelor.-Chicago
