PUMPKIN PIE

Some poets sing of mighty deeds While others sing of love, Not insubstantial human needs Nor yet the stars above, Will ever inspire me to mount My Pegasus and fly;

I sing a song of some account-I sing of pumpkin pie! Oh. how it sets me all a-thrill With joy. to be exact!

It pours a cataract. Thou ecstacy! Thou crusted bliss! Thou source of rapture high! I know no greater theme than this I sing the pumpkin pie.

I feel my spirit surge until

I rise to heights undreamed before I faint with sheer delight, Away with vaunted classic lore! I tread a nobler height. I soar and soar at memory's beck.

I range the farther sky, Until to save my mind from wreck I eat the pumpkin pie!.

Awakenig of Mr. Skaggs Jim Skaggs once had the notion That a woman's lot was best, While he was toiling hard by day His wife could take a rest. She had no stern and cruel boss To tell her what to do; When beds were made and the
