NEWS AROUND TOWN

The purchase price of salvation and "Rest for the weary," will be the subjects of discourse in the Methodist church next Sunday.

Those requiring fence wire, or wire gates of all kinds, will do well to see W. D. Connor. Sold at the shop or erected. Prices reasonable and satisfaction guaranteed.

Rev. Mr. Harkley, of Blyth has been appointed by the Bishop of Huron to Trinity church here, but just what time his duties will commence, we cannot say. Next Sunday, Rev. Mr. Collins, of Exeter, will preach to the congregations here and in Egremont.

McGrath, the Shoeman, is putting on a big sale of boots, shoes, rubbers, etc., to commence on Saturday morning next. His $2500 stock must be sold in 21 days, and early buyers will have the first and best choice of goods. All stock is fresh and good. There's nothing old, shop-worn, or out of date. Everything is first-class, and the prices are cut away down low. Don't forget that Saturday, April 23rd is the first day of this great price-cutting sale.

We are in receipt of the first issue of the Wednesday Sun, the new third paper published in Mt. Forest. It is a small sheet about nine by twelve inches, containing six pages, and well patronized by advertisers. The editor, Mr. Arthur Rogers, announces his political independence, and moreover that he will not be influenced or dictated to by any political clique. We may be mistaken, but we don't think there's much need for three papers in Mt. Forest. The subscription is fifty cents a year.

It again becomes our duty to chronicle the death of one of the earliest pioneers in the township of Glenelg, in the person of Mrs. Archie McLean, who resided for many years in the vicinity of Rocky Saugeen. She died on Friday last at the age of seventy-eight years and the remains were interred Monday at the Rocky, Rev. Dr. Farquharson, of Durham Presbyterian church officiating at the burial, in the absence of a regular clergyman. No particulars have been handed in, but we learn that the deceased, with her husband, who still survives, was one of the first settlers. She was a woman of a quiet and kindly disposition, a good neighbor, and a devoted member of the Presbyterian church. She was a sister of Messrs. Dugald and Alex. McDonald of Crawford. Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves a family of three sons and two daughters. Lachlan and Neil on the homestead, Archie, in Saskatchewan, Mrs. David Watson at Welbeck, and Mrs. James Watson, at Newmarket. All the members of the family except Archie, were present at the funeral.

On Sunday morning last, about one o'clock, Messrs. Thos. Wilson and Wm. Stiles, employed at the cement works, had a narrow escape from serious injury. While engaged in their regular work of wheeling clay, with which the marl is mixed, a slide of clay fell, which overtook the two men, and while Mr. Stiles escaped with only slight injury, Mr. Wilson was buried underneath about four feet of the material. Willing hands, however, soon extricated him from his perilous position, and he was conveyed to his home, where he is now slowly recovering, though at first it was thought the chances were against him. To those who do not understand the situation, we may say the clay used is unloaded from the high trestlework and constitutes a pile in the clay room over twenty feet in height. The custom is to take the clay from the bottom, till the heap is undermined, and large quantities fall to the floor convenient to the workmen. It was in one of these clay slides that Mr. Wilson was caught, and the great surprise is that he wasn't killed outright. It was a very close call, but there is consolation in the thought that he is getting along nicely.

Lost—On Sunday or Monday, a diamond ring. Liberal reward will be given on returning same to this office, or to R. C. Banks, Chemist, National Portland Cement Co.

Word has been received here that Mr. W. Livingstone, formerly with the Standard Bank here, but latterly of New Hamburg, has severed his connection with that institution and has accepted a position with the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

Lieutenant-Colonel Cleland, of Meaford and Major Chisholm, of Owen Sound, were in town Tuesday on business in connection with the 31st Regiment. Camp will be held at Niagara this year, instead of Owen Sound, and will commence on June 7th.

For the past two or three months the stores in town have been closed every night in the week except Saturday. The agreement among the merchants was to keep them closed till the first of April, when they would again be kept open every Wednesday and Saturday night during the remainder of the year, or till further notice. They realize this to be necessary for the accommodation of the farming community during the busy season. Shopping may now be done on Wednesday night of each week.

Just arrived.—A long looked for remedy, and a limited supply only of the genuine famous Indian Remedy, which has given great satisfaction in the vicinity of Durham, in curing many ailments. If you want a supply, come early, for it will all soon go again. This medicine is manufactured at the Saugeen Indian Reservation, and made from pure Nature's remedies, herbs, roots, barks, etc. You can get this famous remedy only at Gun's drug store, Wm. H. Crowl, Manufacturer, Saugeen Indian Reservation.

Wilfrid Lake, a young lad about fourteen years of age, was bitten by a dog belonging to Mr. Wm. Johnston on Friday evening last, while on his way home from school. The animal, it is claimed, attacked him without any provocation, and gave him a couple of slight nips in the hand, from which no serious results are anticipated. The dog, we are told, had been tied up, but had broken loose. Dr. Wolfe now has him under surveillance, and is watching for any developments of rabies, which it is believed will not occur, as the animal has not shown in any way that it is affected.

Miss Minnie Barnett returned last week from Toronto, where she spent the past three months.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

Mr. Allister Anderson, the correspondent at Hampden, whose picture we give this week, is a young man we have never met, and know him only as our readers now know him. His services have been much appreciated at this office, and we have every reason to be-

MR. ALLISTER ANDERSON.

He is giving good general satisfaction as the reporter of the happenings in his locality. We understand he isn't a married man, but has good prospects.

WATCH FOR OUR NEW STORY.

Our last serial story, "His Courtship," is evidently the best ever published in the Chronicle judging from the numerous written and verbal expressions of appreciation we receive. Remarks so complimentary as these can be nothing less than highly gratifying to us, as we now know that our efforts to please our readers in this line are meeting with a good measure of success. "His Courtship" is now almost done, and it will take but a couple more issues to conclude this, the greatest of our serials. For some weeks past, we have been on the search for another one "just as good," and though we have not yet made our final selection, we have a number under our consideration that should prove just as interesting as the one we are now running. To select one of these serials entails, as most of our readers will admit, no small amount of labor, and when it is considered that it is not our own taste, but that of our readers, that we have to please, the matter of selecting is made doubly hard. Controlling, as we do, our entire paper, we have the full power of choosing the matter that goes into every page of the Chronicle, and in selecting a serial story neither time nor expense is spared, to place before our readers, the most wholesome, and interesting literature obtainable and in making our next selection, we will not be content with the mere supplying of a good story, but will endeavor to surpass, if possible, any previous serials that have appeared. Watch for the announcement of our new serial story in the near future.

Somebody carried a pick away from our yard on Monday afternoon last, and we want him to return it at once. It was a borrowed one, and we would sooner give it back to the owner than have to pay for it. The first man we charged with stealing it was Frank Lenahan, but we might have known better than think he would cultivate any particular acquaintance with a tool of that kind. Rev. Mr. Newton is a good worker when he feels like it, but he looked so innocent when we made the charge against him that we really believe he is innocent. We think the other clergymen of the town would fight shy of a pick, so we'll not prosecute our enquiry any further in that direction. If the person who carried it off will kindly return it, with or without close call, we'll freely forgive him, as we are very anxious to use it.

MILLER AND AYLESWORTH.

Ottawa, April 19.—One result of the defeat of the Miller Bill to suppress race-track gambling has been an extraordinary bitter attack by Mr. Miller on Mr. Aylesworth, the Minister of Justice. Mr. Miller's charge in effect is that Mr. Aylesworth assured him that the Bill was satisfactorily drafted, and that when it came up in the House he assured the House that it was badly drafted. "He advised me in one way when I consulted him, and has advised the House in an entirely different way," was Mr. Miller's final remark.

The member for South Grey bro't the matter up on a question of privilege, resenting a statement by Mr. Aylesworth in debating the Bill that he (Mr. Miller) had quoted a letter which he had not expected to see quoted. Mr. Miller made it perfectly clear that he had procured the letter from Mr. Aylesworth for the express purpose of using it, and he declared that he had warned Mr. Aylesworth of his purpose.

"I have a great deal to complain of, I think," he said, "as to the treatment of the Minister of Justice in connection with this whole matter. Having discussed the question with him, as I have discussed it with him, and he having made the statements that he did make, and which it would perhaps take too much of the time of the House to discuss, I do say that if I had used the Minister of Justice as he has used me in this matter, I would have thought that I had struck below the belt, and that I had not acted either honestly or honorably. That is a plain statement to make, but if the Minister of Justice demands of me to make the fullest possible detailed explanation of my words, I am ready to do so at any time, either in the House or outside of it."

Mr. Aylesworth contested that he had not meant to impute dishonorable conduct to Mr. Miller, and the member for South Grey retorted by charging the Minister with double dealing. His objection to the Bill had been that it would interfere with private betting. Mr. Miller submitted the Bill to him and the Minister said: "I do not think it can be improved on, for the purpose for which it is intended." "But," said Mr. Miller "I took the fullest care at all times to tell the Minister of Justice that it was not the desire of the promoters of the Bill to in any way interfere with private betting. Knowing that that was not the intention, he suggested that the Bill could not be improved upon for the purpose for which it was intended. I said to the Minister of Justice; if this Bill, in your opinion, would affect the man who makes a private bet, I would like you to suggest any language that you can suggest that would leave out the private bettor and exempt him. He said 'I cannot suggest any language that would be an improvement on the Bill as it is drawn in that respect. Afterwards, I myself, fearing the Minister of Justice might make some further objections to the Bill in that regard, that is, was interfering with private betting, drafted a clause and submitted it to him, and as he in his own writing amended it in order, as he thought, to fit the case, I said 'will the amendment, as you have changed it, fill the Bill, and exempt the private bettor?' He said 'I think it will.' The Minister of Justice then must have known that that was my intention. The Minister of Justice looked carefully over the Bill. He said that clause 235 did not in any way interfere with the private bettor, but that it would with the recording or registering of a private bet.

And in conclusion, Mr. Miller repeated that Mr. Aylesworth had said one thing to him, and another thing to the House.

The Board of Works is guilty of a good act in having the dirt and small stones cleaned off the front street. We expect the necessary repairs to the sidewalks will be attended to in due time.
