On the Trying Art of Puff Paste Making —

Across the briny we are told, when a tenor is up for Grand Opera honors, they test his range in all manner of ways. If triumphant, they hand him the score of "William Tell" Which floors manybeing a stumbling block for young tenorambitions. Which all reminds one of the difficult art of Puff Paste Making. Being, as you know, the supreme test of cooking ability. She who risks above the level at ordinary everyday paste must be an artist. She is one in a hundred, mighty good marrying er of the Park in that city decided cut down some trees where there were too many, and had been planted over fifty years ago. One particular tree was marked for the sacrifice, The choppers felled it, and it was solid from circumference to centre. Sawing the trunk into four-foot lengths, eight feet from the butt, the saw just missed a long-necked black bottle. Observing it, the choppers carefully hewed away the wood, when, Ito their surprise, they brought forth, tightly corked. a bottle of one pint capacity filled with liquor, It was sampled by experts who pro-nounced it whiskey of a most superior quality. How the bottle got there is a mystery. At no place about it was there any cavity, and counting the rings of wood from the place where the botle was lodged, each one of which represents a year's growth of the tree, it must have been there thirty years. The bottle and contents have been placed in the public library as a curio. Trees like this one would be at a premium in this country after May 1st.-Shelburne
