Flesherton Fair is being held today and to-morrow, September 22nd and 23rd.

Get a 10c. can of chloride of lime for disinfecting and bleaching purposes at Grant's.

We are agents for "Five Roses" flour. Every bag gives satisfaction.—Mrs. Beggs & Son

Pork in Chicago has reached the highest price ever touched in the packing industry.

The cement works are occupied to their full capacity in all departments. They have all they can do to fill the orders that are rushing in.

A special invitation is given to the ladies of Durham and country to visit our show rooms on Fair Day, and see our large stock of trimmed and untrimmed millinery. Miss Dick

Next Sunday will be observed as "Bally Day," in the Methodist Sunday school. The pastor will preach morning and evening on topics connected with Sunday school work.

We intend visiting the millinery centres in Toronto every two weeks, to keep in touch with the very latest and newest in millinery. If we haven't what you want in stock, we will do our utmost to procure it for you.—Miss Dick.

The Fall Fair Prize Lists are out and any person wanting a copy may receive one at this office while the supply lasts. Those desiring them sent by mail may address the Secretary, Mr. C. Firth, Durham, Ont.

Lost.—Between Mr. G. A. Watson's and John McKenzie's, on Sunday, August 28th, the sum of four dollars, and some letters addressed to James Gregor, Durham Ont. Finder will be rewarded by returning money to Mr. Geo. A. Watson, McWilliamsville.

Mt. Forest fall fair, to be held this year on September 28th and 29th is famous for the large prizes offered for all kinds of exhibits, resulting in a big list of entries and crowds in attendance. Grand concert each evening. You are invited.—J. T. Allen, Secy.

The Standard Bank will change its quarters in the course of a few weeks, having decided to occupy the corner store in the McIntyre Block. As soon as Keeler & Son vacate the premises, preparations will be made. This is a cheerful occasion, and very convenient for the public.

Mr. James Eden, the Frost & Wood implement man, has a B. & C. litter carrier erected in his warehouse, and all interested in this labor saving device will do well to examine it and see how it works. Claiming out stables in winter is no small job, and the loading and unloading of manure in the early summer is quite a task. With one of these carriers, a manure spreader might be kept in place, loaded every morning without extra work, and taken direct to the field. This would keep the barnyard clean, and do away with objectionable features of present methods.

Mr. Kelly owns the flowing well, and is engaged in piping it into the town. When tests were made, it was ascertained that there was sufficient pressure to supply the whole of lower town by gravity alone, and when properly harnessed up, it will furnish an abundance of water for all domestic purposes. Mr. Kelly is putting in a ten-inch pipe, and from this, smaller pipes will be taken to furnish water to all users. For six or seven years, there has been a constant flow, with little or no diminution of pressure. This should be a satisfactory test for future permanency.

A lady who understands advertising says: "No lady wishes to be looked upon as a shopping addict; she does not care to go into a store and have the merchant stare at her all his stock in order to find out whether she keeps what she wishes to purchase and if the articles to purchase and if the articles are sold at a price that she can afford. It is much easier and more pleasant to look through advertisements in a newspaper than to bore the clerks and waste their own time. Next to the local advertising in a newspaper, the most interesting advertising will keep much of the cash that goes to the large city at home.

Apprentice wanted.—To learn millinery. Apply to S. F. Morlock.

The World's Fair, at Holstein, will be held on Tuesday, the 4th of October.

Fax for fun. Hear him at the Fall Fair concert on Tuesday night next, Sept. 27th.

We are pleased to notice some repairs being made in the sidewalks. This is a good and necessary act.

Miss Gun, who keeps a small-ware store up town, slipped a few days ago, and dislocated her ankle.

One more farm laborers' excursion to the North-west, over the C.P.R., Friday, Sept. 23rd. For particulars see R. Macfarlane, town agent.

Mr. A. Gordon has sold his jewelry business at Weyburn. For some time he has been afflicted with rheumatism, and unable to do any work.

The twin babies of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Lawrence, of Egremont, and the infant of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Grady, of town, were baptized in St. Paul's church, Egremont, last Sunday.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services of Trinity church, Durham, and St. Paul's, Egremont, will be conducted next Sunday by the rector. The offerings for the day will be devoted to mission work. The choir are preparing special music for the occasion.

The new market building is showing up well, but a flat roof will spoil the appearance of it. Notwithstanding the fact that the council has so decided, we know the members of the council and the people, too, would prefer a more artistic finish to the building.

The Cement Co. has torn down the high board fence in front of their offices, and with the change, the prison-like appearance of the place has disappeared. They may go in next for some decorative improvements, but we can scarcely think it would make a good town park.

A special invitation is extended to those who were unable to visit our show rooms on opening day, to call and inspect our stock of high class millinery, and to those who have seen our display, we want them to come often as every day we add new trimmed hats to our stock.—Miss Dick.

It is understood that Hon. A. B. Aylesworth will receive the honor of Knighthood in recognition for valuable services rendered in connection with the Fisheries Arbitration at The Hague. Mr. Aylesworth had the Canadian case in charge, and Mr. Ewart worked under him. The latter was two years in hunting up the particulars and preparing the argument.

The young people of the Methodist church had a debate on Tuesday night, in connection with the Epworth League. The subject was "Resolved that the pen has done more for the welfare of the world than the sword." The affirmative was well sustained by Mr. W. A. Glass and Miss Ford, while arguments on the negative side were piled up by Mr. Hugh McCrae and Miss Fletcher. Messrs. Peter Ramage, Joseph Reid and Edward Watson were the judges, and decided that the weight of argument was in favor of the negative. The evening was enjoyably spent.

We do wish that all who contribute to the newspapers would take a little pains, and give us plain, readable copy. It causes us a great deal of annoyance to have to stop and figure out some of the illegible copy that comes in to us. In ordinary articles, we can sometimes guess at the correct word, but when technical terms and proper names are used, they should be written plainly. In ad. writing, plain handwriting is an absolute essential, and especially so when the writers have no telephone connections. Our time is often too limited to run all over town to get the writer to translate a word that has been illegibly written.

On Friday night last, the fine new barn of Mr. Hugh Riddell, of Welbeck, was destroyed by fire, together with all the season's crop. We have not been fully informed as to the cause, but incendiarism is spoken of, and very strong suspicions are entertained. The barn was one of the finest in the township of Bentinck, erected only about three months ago, and we understand the stable part underneath was not fully completed. There was no lightning on the night of the fire, and as everything was all right in the early part of the night, there is strong reason to believe the deprecation was the work of a fire bug. We sympathize with Mr. Riddell in his loss, and hope the culprit, if there was one, may be brought to speedy justice.

We have refused to publish obituary poetry for a number of years past unless paid for at the rate of ten cents a line. Notwithstanding the fact that we have made this announcement several times, we have often had chunks of home-made obituary stuff thrown at us, and to be consistent with our decision we had no alternative, in the absence of payment, but to consign it to the waste basket. Some may not understand what we mean by home-made obituary poetry, and explanation may serve a good purpose. Here it is in brief: Disease or accident enters a home and soon works havoc with its object of attack. Dissolution takes place, and no sooner does the spirit leave its tenement of clay and soar aloft to join the celestial choir than the mundane mourners begin to feel some strange mutations. The heart palpitates, the stomach takes on a sort of peristaltic action, the mental faculties give evidence of disarrangement, the lachrymal glands become juicy, and the whole physical organism becomes affected with motor ataxia. Then the imagination soars aloft into ethereal space, the heart becomes inflated, and the afflicted mourner feels a portial spasm, which he works off in four-line chunks, using sufficient poetic license to make Mary Ann rhyme with Kingdon Come. This he calls poetry, and sends it to the newspaper to have it published. We hope our explanation is perfectly clear, but we don't want any of the poetry, unless we get ten cents a line along with it.

OUR CORRESPONDENTS.

For twenty-five years, we have known Mr. Blackburn, and for fourteen years he has been known to readers of the Chronicle, as the Flesherton correspondent.

For a number of years, Mr. Blackburn was a trusty and trusted employee in Mr. M. K. Richardson's store, acting as bookkeeper, and general overseer of the business. Twenty-two years ago, he was married to Miss Ella Ayers, daughter of the late Walter Ayers pastor of the Methodist church at that time. Twenty years ago last February, he was taken down with la grippe, and has been a constant sufferer ever since, never spending a painless moment. Yet, he is always resigned to his fate, and we never heard him murmur. Never in our experience did we see true, consistent, and constant Christianity so fully exemplified as we have in the life of Mr. Blackburn. Notwithstanding the excruciating pain he endures at times, he is always cheerful, and though years ago he entertained hopes of ultimate recovery, these hopes have all vanished. He feels that his life may be prolonged for years to come, but only with pain and suffering. He has no fear of death and expresses willingness to go when the time comes. Mrs. Blackburn has been a true and faithful wife, always ready and willing to do what she could for his comfort. Mr. Blackburn is a Presbyterian, an Oddfellow and a Mason.

MR. JOSEPH BLACKBURN.

THE DURHAM FAIR

The Durham Fair will be held on the 26th and 27th, Monday and Tuesday of next week. This is not going to be as big, nor as interesting as the Toronto Exhibition, but as we said on previous occasions, the show is our own, and will be good or otherwise, according to the interest taken in it by patrons in the vicinity. We fully believe in the advisability of all entering with a friendly rivalry. All cannot be winners of first prizes, but all who grow farm produce may exhibit their productions, and give the fair as big an appearance as possible.

Too often, only a few bring in exhibits, and the distribution of prizes seems to go to only a few of the persistent exhibitors. The neighbors of prize winners may have just as good articles on their own farms, but they never bring them out, and by keeping in the background, they fail to advertise themselves, and often they are not known outside of their own immediate neighborhood.

We believe it is the duty of all farmers to make themselves known as good farmers, and there seems to be no better way than to do so by showing the kind of stuff they produce. The day is used every year by many as a visiting day. They meet friends they have not met perhaps since they attended the last fair, and the renewal of acquaintanceship is a mutual pleasure as a rule. Let everybody come out on the 26th, and swell the attendance so as to make 1910 a record breaker in attendance and exhibits, for South Grey Agricultural Society. The Society had hard luck a couple of years ago, and needs help. Let us all pull together, and help to make our fair a big success. Don't come with the expectation of seeing as much as you did a few weeks ago at one of the big exhibitions. Don't come to grumble at everything. A grumbler is a nuisance wherever you find him, and he isn't needed at the Durham show. The concert in the evening should not be missed. Fax will be one of the entertainers, and a comedian who can make good before the public for a quarter of a century, and still be popular, is surely worth hearing. Miss Rodham, a new entertainer in Durham, and we can't say anything about her, more than that she comes well recommended.

Chicago's population is 2,255,235, being a gain of 28 per cent. during the past ten years. New York's population is 4,766,893, the gain in the same time being 38 per cent.
