EGREMONT FAIR.

For forty-three years the Egremont Agricultural Society has been favored by the weather man, and never till this year did they have a bad day for their show. Tuesday last, however, the record was broken, and the heavens wept sorrowfully over the Society's first jolt. From early morning there was a downpour of rain, but notwithstanding the very unfavorable conditions, the people of the township, ever and always loyal to their own local show, hustled out the very best of their products and the exhibits in the hall were highly creditable, both as to quantity and quality. From a competitive standpoint, the show was by no means a failure, but the attendance was much below the average, and the gate receipts were proportionately reduced. The attendance, in fact, was very slim for Holstein.
