The PILLAR OF LIGHT

trou of herself to some extent, she rang for the maid and asked at what time the first train left for London next day. She ordered her breakfast at an hour which seemed to indicate her intention to depart by that train, said that she would leave instructions with Mr. Pyne concerning the children, and gave the maid two letters which she had written. These were to be delivered at nine o'clock. It was now nine o'clock. What was to be done with the letters?

As they were addressed to Pyne and his uncle respectively he soon settled that point.

His letter read:

"Dear Mr. Pyne—I am leaving for London quite early, so I will not see you again in Penzance. I have supplied the little girls with all the garments they will need during the next few days. If, on inquiry, you ascertain that they have no relatives anxious, not merely willing, to take charge of them, I shall be most pleased to assume that responsibility.
In that event, kindly write to me, care of my bankers.

"Yours very sincerely,
"E. Vansittart."

The communication to his uncle was equally brief. Mr. Traill read it to him. It ran:

"Dear Mr. Traill—I cannot marry you. Please forgive me. I did not realize, when you honored me with your proposal, that an insuperable obstacle existed. That is all—a lame explanation—but complete so far as it goes. A woman who has wrecked her life finds it hard to choose her words.
"Your sincere friend,
"E. Vansittart."

They discussed these curt notes during breakfast.

"I do not like their tone," said Mr.
Traill, gravely. "They impress me as the hurried resolutions of a woman driven to extremities. Were it not for her request about the children, I should think what you thought last night, Charlie, when that policeman turned up."

"I must have telephoned my idea to you mighty quick," was the reply.
"My dear boy, even at this moment we don't know what she intended to do. Why did she go out? What is the nature of her sudden illness? How comes it that she is at Brand's house?"

"I may be mistaken, but I think we will be given answers to all your questions in due time. Nothing really serious can be amiss, or we should have heard of it from Brand himself.
Now, will you remain on guard here whilst I go out with Elsie and Maudie?
The one thing that matters in their little lives this morning is that I shall hurry up and go doll-hunting with them."

"I will hold the fort until you return. You will not be long?"

"Perhaps half an hour. Whilst I am out I will make some inquiries as to the condition of our other friends of the Chinook."

"By the way, many of them must be destitute. It is my desire, Charlie, to pay the expenses of any such to their destination, and equip them properly for the journey."

"You are a first-rater, uncle, but it'll make your arm tired if you O.K. the bill all the time. Now here's a fair offer. Let me go halves."

"Be off, you rascal. You are keeping two ladies waiting."

"With seeming anxiety to atone for the excesses of the week, the weather that morning justified the claim of Cornwall to be the summer land of England. The sun shone from a blue sky flecked with white clouds. The waters of Mount's Bay sparkled and danced in miniature wavelets. The air was so mild, the temperature so equable, that it was hard to credit sea and wind with the havoc of the preceding days.

The Gulf Rock disaster did not stand alone in the records of the herricane. Even the day's papers contained belated accounts of casualties on the coasts of Normandy, Holland and far-off Denmark. But nowhere else had there been such loss of life whilst renewed interest was evoked by the final relief of all the survivors.

Pyne's appearance outside the sitting-room was hailed with a yell. Not withstanding her own perplexities, Mrs. Vansittart had taken good care that the children were well provided for. They were beautifully dressed and the smiling maid who freed them from control when the door opened said that they might go out without jackets, the day was so fine.

He descended the stairs, with a cigar in his mouth and a delighted youngster clinging to each hand.

In the hall he encountered a dozen journalists waiting to devour him.
They had failed to penetrate the strategic screen interposed by the head waiter. Now the enemy was unmasked, and they advanced to the attack.

Pyne was ready for them. He had already outlined his defence.

"Will one of you gentlemen, representing all, kindly give me a word in private?" he asked.

This was readily agreed to.

"Now this is the deal I will make," he said, when the two were isolated.
"I will meet you all here in an hour's time. I shall be interviewed, sketched snap-shot, give you locks of my hair, my autograph, my views on the Far East, the next Presidential election, and the fiscal question, if you bind yourself to one thing."

"And that is?"

"Among the passengers saved from the Chinook is a Mrs. Vansittart. She is very ill, and is being cared for by Mr. Brand and his daughters. Make no reference to her in any way whatever beyond including her name in the published lists. Promise that and I'll talk a page."

"I am sure I can agree without consulting my colleagues," said the surprised reporter.

"Come along, kids," said Pyne. "I am delivered bound to the torture."

He passed out into the street, when Elsie's sharp eyes, searching for a shop, suddenly caught sight of Enid hurrying towards the hotel.

The child ran to meet her, and Enid, flushed with excitement, began to explain that Mrs. Vansittart was in bed, suffering from collapse and in a feverish state. The doctor's verdict was that she was in some danger, but would recover if carefully tended and kept in absolute quiet.

"Is Constance with her?" asked Pyne.
"Yes."
"And where is Mr. Brand?"
"He will be here soon. He asked me to call—and tell you—and Mr. Traill—what had happened." Enid's speech was not prone to trip. Pyne's eyes gleamed into hers.
"Mr. Brand asked you to see my uncle?" he said cautiously.
"Yes," she faltered.
"Did he say anything else?"
"Yes—cousin."
"Let me take you right in. I guess it would make a sensation if I—here, Maudie, just hug Miss Enid good and hard for me, will you?"

Whilst the children waited in the hall, he accompanied the girl up the stairs and threw open the door of the sitting-room.

"Here is somebody you want to see, uncle," he cried, and rejoined the little ones.

"Hoo-roosh!" he yelled. "Now let's buy a toy-store."

Enid and her father faced each other for some seconds in silent bewilderment. Then Mr. Traill rose and came near to her. She did not know what to do or say. This tall, stately man was one who should be dearer to her than anyone else in the world.
She was his daughter, yet they were strangers one to the other.

"I—How could she utter conventional words in such a moment?
Her lips quivered and tears trembled in her eyes. Then he knew. The lace around her white neck was fastened with a little gold brooch bearing a four-leafed shamrock in emeralds. He looked at her with a profound reverence, and caught her by the shoulders.
"My dear," he murmured, "you are very like your mother."
"I am glad," she said, and kissed him.

TRY ZAM BUK FOR PILES

Read How This Sufferer Benefited.

Don't you believe that experience is better than hearsay? If you suffer from piles, just try Zam-Buk. You can do so at our expense. So assured are we of the result that we will send you a free trial box if you will send to our Toronto offices full name and address and a one cent stamp to pay return postage.

Scores of people daily acquaint us with the benefit they have derived from the use of Zam-Buk.
Mr. F. Astridge, of 5 St. Paul St., St. Catharines, Ont., says: "For five years I have suffered untold agony with protruding piles. The pain was so great at times I would almost scream.

"I lost weight and had no appetite. I tried everything I ever heard of for piles, as I was wanting to take anything to get relief.
It was useless, however, and I almost gave up in despair.

"One day a friend gave me a sample of Zam-Buk, and told me of a friend of his who had been cured. I decided to try Zam-Buk, and the relief I got was astonishing. I used three boxes, and at the end of that time I was completely cured. I wish I could have got Zam-Buk years ago; it would have saved me a great deal of misery."

Zam-Buk will also be found a sure cure for cold sores, chapped hands, frost bite, ulcers, bites of poison, varicose sores, scalds, sore ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions, and chapped places, cuts, burns, bruises, and skin injuries generally. All drug-

DEATH OF MRS. R. H. CAULFIELD

A very sad death occurred in Egremont on Friday when Margaret, beloved wife of R. H. Caul-field and daughter of Mr. John Fairbairn was suddenly cut off by pneumonia leaving her husband too ill to attend the funeral, and two children motherless. It will be remembered Mr. Caulfield just returned home from Penzance on a mission work in the West on account of ill health and he as well as deceased's aged parents and other relatives will have the sympathy of the community in their

RHEUMATISM
Cured by Booth's Kidney Pills

T. E. Foster, of St. John Street Frederickton, N.B., says: "I have found more actual relief from Booth's Kidney Pills than in all else I have ever tried for rheumatism. The pains in my limbs have lessened greatly, and I am better and stronger than in years previous. My appetite has built up and I eat and sleep better than I have in over three years. My general health is greatly improved and I can credit this only to Booth's Kidney Pills."

This is the Booth Kidney Pill way. These wonderful Pills are

Lesson V.—First Quarter, For Jan. 29, 1911.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, II Chron. xvii, 1-13.
Memory Verses, 3, 4—Golden Text, Matt. vi, 33—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This week's lesson is much more interesting than that of last week, inasmuch as we are now introduced to another good king of Judah, Jehoshaphat by name, who succeeded his father Asa and reigned twenty-five years.
Last week it was chiefly the devil and his wickedness; now it is chiefly Jehovah and His ways. We say "chiefly" because there were some things in the life of Jehoshaphat which were not ordered by the Lord, though they were doubtless overruled by Him for good. I refer to his joining affinity with Ahab and with Abaziah, kings of Israel, who both did very wickedly (xviii, 1; xx, 35). God wants a people wholly set apart for Himself and in no way entangled by or mixed up with unbelievers. Our instructions are plainly written in II Cor. vi, 14-18, the only passage in the New Testament outside of Revelation where we find the name "Almighty," the significance of which we will not know in our experience unless we are wholly separated unto Him.

Many beautiful things are said of Jehoshaphat in our lesson, such as "The Lord was with him; he sought to the Lord God of his father; his heart was lifted up in the ways of the Lord;" also some grand things that he said are found in the record of him, such as "Believe in the Lord your God, so shall ye be established; believe His prophets, so shall ye prosper" (xx, 20); also his charge to the Levites and priests in chapter xix, 9-11, and his prayer in chapter xx, 6-12.

It was most commendable that he should send throughout all the cities of Judah those who would teach out of the book of the law of the Lord verse 9. So we read that the Lord established the kingdom in his hand, and not only all Judah, but also the Philistines and the Arabians, brought him presents, and he had riches and honor in abundance and waxed great exceedingly (verses 5, 10-12), a fulfillment of the words, "Them that honor me I will honor" (I Sam. ii, 30).

It would have been a better record if it could have been written that this good king never in any way turned aside from doing right in the sight of the Lord, but only one ever lived on earth who knew no sin and did no sin. Ever since Adam sinned every mere man has proved himself to be a sinner. How wonderful it is and what glorious good news that He who never sinned, having been made sin for us, offers to blot out all our sins and put His righteousness to our account before God (II Cor. v, 21).

When Jehoshaphat went with Ahab to battle and almost lost his life thereby, when he in his extremity cried out, the Lord helped him, and God moved them to depart from him (xviii, 29-31).
It is only as the Lord, or Jehovah, who by grace becomes our righteousness, that God, or Elohim, the Creator, can do anything for such as we are. It was after Jehoshaphat had been rebuked for his sin in the matter of Ahab with the memorable and far-reaching words, "Shouldst thou help the ungodly and love them that hate the Lord," that he said to the judges whom he appointed, "Take heed what ye do, for ye judge not for man, but for the Lord" (chapter xix, 2, 6, 7).

When we see in our day those who profess to honor Jesus as God joining hands in so called good works with those who deny that Jesus is God it looks very much like a union of Christ and antichrist, an impossibility, and therefore all who unite in any way with the enemies of Christ are for the time being denying Him.

The record of Jehoshaphat's victory over the people of Ammon, Moab and Mount Seir in chapter xx is in many respects the most remarkable part of his story. His confession of utter helplessness and lack of wisdom, with his reliance upon God, as set forth in his prayer (verses 6-12), is very beautiful. The answer to his prayer through Jahaziel (verses 14-17) was most encouraging with its repeated "Be not afraid nor dismayed," and its other words, so like those through Moses, when the Egyptians pursued Israel. Compare Ex. xiv, 13, 14, "If we are true children of God the battle is always His, and it is ours to stand still and see the salvation of the Lord." On this occasion the people went forth singing and praising the Lord, and not only were the enemies smitten, but they began to destroy themselves. It is always safe to believe God and to praise God, to bless the Lord at all times.

So God gave Jehoshaphat rest round about, and his realm was quiet, and all the kingdoms feared God when they saw how He fought for Israel (xx, 29, 30). If we were to the Lord what He would like us to be He would fill us with His rest and peace and joy, and something of the life of Jesus would be manifest in us to His glory.
In Jehoshaphat's prayer Abraham is mentioned as the friend of God, and only in two other places is he thus mentioned, in Isa. xli, 8; Jas. ii, 23 But in John xv, 14, Jesus said, "Ye are my friends if ye do whatsoever I command you."
