NEWS AROUND TOWN

Wanted.—General servant Apply to Mrs. F. Kelsey, upper town

Mr. Wm. J. McFadden is getting a new driver which he purchased near Toronto.

Watch found.—Owner may have same by proving property, and paying for this advertisement. At this office.

Mt. Forest Business College has started hundreds of young men and women on the road to success. Will you not be the next? 1121f

Dr. Brown, L. R. C. P., London, England, eye, ear, nose and throat. Will be at the Hahn House, Durham from 1 to 5 p. m., February 18th, March 18th, and April 15th.

We are pleased to learn that good hopes are now entertained for the recovery of Mr. William Farquharson who has been so seriously ill from pneumonia.

The Standard Bank is now being handsomely fitted. The fittings are of quarter cut oak manufactured by the Stahlschmidts of Preston. We fancy everything should be in readiness in the course of a week or two at most.

Mr. Frank Eden, of British Columbia, is still the guest of his brother James, but he intends to leave for the West shortly. He is an old miner and intends to visit the Cobalt region before his return. Before coming East he had been engaged in ranching in the Okanagan valley, and for several years previously he was in the mines in California, Idaho, Nevada and other places.

Dr. Brown, of Holstein, having sold his practice to Dr. James L. Wilson, of Wingham, expects to leave for Chicago the latter part of April for a month's special course under Dr. Murphy, the well known surgeon. In June, he will leave for London, England, accompanied by Mrs. Brown, and Miss May Brown. They expect to remain in London for about a year, during which time the Dr. will devote his time to hospital work, paying special attention to surgery. The Dr. may be consulted professionally here until the end of April.

Mr. Ted. Vickers was married in Toronto on Wednesday of last week, to Miss Clara Ethel Macdonald, of Almonte. Mr. and Mrs. Vickers spent part of their honeymoon with friends in and around Durham. They came to town on Thursday, and enjoyed a reception at the home of his sister, Mrs. Robt. Smith. Mr. Vickers is well known here as a long-distance runner, having captured many trophies for his sprinting abilities, but the climax must have been reached when he captured the prize at Almonte. Mr. Vickers is a young man of good habits, and we predict for him a bright future, in which we trust his young bride may enjoy a full measure of happiness. The Chronicle tenders sincere congratulations, and shall be ever pleased to learn of the welfare of the happy young couple.

A letter from Rev. Mr. Pineo to a friend in town, announces death from Pneumonia, of his son Charles, who was attending the Normal College at Truro, Nova Scotia. The deceased young man was favorably known here while attending our high school department a few years ago. Rev. Mr. Pineo was then pastor of the Mullock Baptist church, and the distinction to which the deceased has risen as a debater may be learned from the following item, clipped from a Nova Scotia paper: "Recent Truro papers contain reports of an interesting debate by students of the Normal School. The resolution under debate was, Resolved, that Canada does not need a navy. Mr. Charles L. Pineo, of Grafton was the leader in the affirmative. In commenting on the debate, the Citizen says: With pleasing and convincing manner and voice, harbingers of greater things in the field of oratory in the days to come, Mr. Pineo arranged his arguments. . . In the rebuttals of the two leaders, especially Mr. Pineo, wit and sarcasm played a prominent part."

Evangelistic services will be held in the Methodist church the latter part of March.

Mrs. A. W. H. Lauder is recovering from a two weeks' attack of pleurisy.

Hemlock, spruce, balsam, basswood, and cedar logs wanted, at the rear of the foundry.

Miss Dick has returned from Toronto and Buffalo millinery openings, and is now prepared to receive orders for spring millinery.

Young man, remember the great men of to-day were once like you. They succeeded, why can't you? You will if you attend Mt. Forest Business College. 1121f

Next Sunday the pastor will preach in the Methodist church on "Winning Men to Christ," and in the evening on "Getting Right with God."

Mr. W. J. McFadden, agent for pianos and organs, has disposed of eight fine instruments during the past two weeks. He ordered another lot, and expects them here in a few days.

School section No. 1, Pilkington, Co. Wellington, is said to be the smallest school in the province. There are only three children of school age in the section which contains 5,208 acres.

In the Epworth League competition meeting on Monday night, the Whites had the floor, and treated a fairly large attendance to a very good program. Look up, lift up, rise up, cheer up, etc., were the texts of some of the topics.

The new Continuation school at Markdale was formally opened last week. Inspector Campbell was one of the speakers, and expressed much pleasure in the educational advancement of the past quarter of a century. Inspector Huff, of East Grey made one of his vigorous speeches in commendation of continuation work. Dr. Sproule, I. B. Lucas, and Hon. James S. Duff, were also expected, but were unable to be present, and sent their congratulations and regrets.

At their meeting in the I.O.O.F. hall on Monday night last, the A. Y.P.A. of Trinity church, spent the evening with curios. The hall was like a miniature museum, and among the various relics brought together by the members, there were some very interesting and rare curiosities. The collection included old pictures, old books, old coins, articles of wearing apparel made by generations long passed away, rare pieces of jewelry, fancy needlework, trinkets from Japan, China, India, Africa, and many places in the old world, medals given for conspicuous bravery, souvenirs of the battlefield, given by a fallen hero to his comrade. The collection was a valuable one, and a very pleasant and profitable time was enjoyed by all present. A committee of young ladies served refreshments.

On Friday evening, about forty members and adherents of the Methodist church assembled at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Calder. It had leaked out that Miss Sarah Dennett, who has been in the family for many years, is about to leave town, and to do her slight honor, the company assembled. Miss Dennett has been a good worker in the church, League, and Sunday school, and a little surprise party was arranged for. Though Mrs. Calder knew of the gathering, not a hint was given to Miss Dennett, who was pleasantly surprised at a number of kindly references, and a miscellaneous shower of useful household articles that would serve a good purpose to the recipient had she any idea of getting married, and entering a household for herself. As to her matrimonial intentions, the reader will have to do some guessing, as the Chronicle has no license to say what's going to happen about the middle of the month. Mrs. Calder served refreshments, and made all feel at ease by her genuine hospitality. About eleven o'clock, the company retired, wishing Miss Dennett a bright future, and a happy journey through life.

Admission, 7 cents; bring Yee, 7 cents. Come, and exit your friends, and receive a 7-fold welcome.

As our typograph operator, general machinist, and "trouble man" had to spend four days since last issue in making repairs on our large newspaper press, we have been compelled to be a day or so late in getting out our paper, this issue. Accidents are bound to happen sometimes, and while we regret any annoyance that may be caused to our readers in not getting the paper at the regular time, we are quite certain they will all forgive us when they know our share of the cost, trouble, and anxiety.

The first Victor Victrola in Durham was purchased recently by Dr. Jamieson, from our town agent, Mr. W. J. McFadden. This is said to be the king of entertainers in the way of a talking machine, and it is certainly a handsome piece of furniture. This beautiful cabinet is made of highly finished mahogany, and the music, speech, or song emanates from the records without the use of the unsightly transmitter used in most of the talking machines. It is certainly a most unique device, and to listen to it forces one to take off his hat in reverence to such men as Edison, whose plodding industry leaves to the world such pleasure-giving monuments.

COLIN M. BLYTH DEAD

Again the whole community was shocked to hear of the sudden death of Colin McDonald Blyth, one of Normanby's most highly respected pioneers. Some few weeks ago, Mr. Blyth contracted a cold but paid little attention to it and went about his work in his usual manner until a few days before his death. On Monday evening, against his wishes, Dr. Jamieson was summoned, and pronounced it Pneumonia. His brother and other relatives were then called to his bedside and all that medical aid and kind and loving friends could do was of no avail, and death came peacefully early Thursday morning.

Mr. Blyth was the eldest son in a family of nine, six brothers and three sisters. Two brothers, John and Robert having predeceased him some sixteen years ago.

Mr. Blyth was born March 20th, 1835, on the old homestead near Guelph. His mother who predeceased him five years ago was a Miss Janet McDonald, of Inverness, Scotland. His grandfather on his father's side saw service in the British Navy in the stirring times of the battle of Waterloo. Several of the brother's on his mother's side were prominent ministers and Missionaries in British Columbia, some seventy-five years ago and interesting letters of theirs are still preserved by the family.

In 1855 Mr. Blyth settled on the old mill farm, Concession 2, Normanby where he carried on the business of saw-miller and farmer. The mill being one of the first in township, being erected in 1861. This same year his brother, the late John Blyth came to Normanby and was later followed by another brother, Joseph, who also settled near by.

Although holding no prominent position in politics, Mr. Blyth was a staunch Conservative.

The funeral which took place on Saturday afternoon to Maplewood cemetery was largely attended. Mr. Kendall, of Dromore officiating. The pall-bearers were James McIlvride, James Peter, John Thompson, John Gray, Dr. Seim and John Marshall.

Shortly after one o'clock on Thursday last, smoke was seen issuing from the building on Garafraxa street, now being improved for a dwelling and store by the recent purchaser, Mr. M. Glaser. Geo. McMeeken, engaged in Walpole's livery, adjoining, was the first to notice the danger, and at once sent in an alarm to the fire brigade, which was not long in getting out the engine. In the meantime, a willing bucket brigade got to work, and after bursting in the doors and windows, got the incipient blaze under control, and the services of the firemen were not needed. The fire originated while Mr. Glaser was at dinner, but how it occurred is not known. It was fortunate, indeed, that the early visitors to the scene had got to work so promptly, as a very few minutes' delay might have resulted in considerable loss of property. Mr. Walpole's livery and residence, right beside the burning building, would have stood a poor chance of escape, and Ye Editor's residence, and other properties, right across the street, would certainly have had a close call, as a fairly strong wind was blowing from the west. We have all reason to be grateful to the young men who went to work so willingly, and met with such good success. Considerable damage was done to the inside of Mr. Glaser's building, but he was very fortunate in getting off so safely. Mr. Glaser knew nothing of what was happening till advised by Mrs. Glaser, who arrived on the scene just after the blaze was extinguished.

We regret to learn of the death of Mrs. Watson, who died in Toronto on Saturday of last week. She was the widow of the late Peter Watson, who left here with his family a few years ago for Toronto. With the exception of the notice, published elsewhere in this issue, no particulars have been handed in.
