VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.
Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe strain and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I dreaded it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was my money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as little better than rogues. One day my boss asked me why I was out of work so much and told him my condition. He advised me to consult Dr. Kennedy & Kennedy. They were square and skilled. I wrote them and got THE NEW METHOD TREATMENT. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat discouraged. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was rewarded with a complete cure. I could only earn $12 a week in a machine shop before treatment, now I am earning $21 and never lose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment."
HENRY C. LOCUST.

THE TENDERFOOT'S WOING

silence. It was as if he were being mesmerized. At last he broke it.

"Well," he said. "What do you want, KheLOWNA?"

The chief shifted his seat a little.

"What you doing here?" he asked.

"Taking a cuitus coolie" (stroll).

"Too much cold wind. Cuitus coolie no good."

"Then why are you out?"

"Indians got no grub. Got no guns now. Indians very hungry. You got any grub?" and he reached out his hand like a cat that steals from the table, his eye all the time upon Jim, and drew away the cartridge case which had contained the sandwiches.

That was the first move in the game.

Until that day no Indians on the Risky lands would have dared openly to take a white man's property from under his very eyes without leave, and Jim when he saw the chief take his cartridge case and search it, understood that the old restraint was breaking down and that a change was in the air. All the food had been eaten, but the flask remained in the bag, and this KheLOWNA opened, unscrewing the top with clumsy fingers and sniffing at the mouth of it like a beast.

"No more fire water?" he asked.

"No, there wouldn't have been any for you anyway. Think I'm going to be run in for giving Indians whiskey?"

KheLOWNA laughed, and his laugh was like a wolf's snarl.

"Whisky very good for Indian. Any water here?"

"Plenty. Nothing but water in this cursed hole."

"You got get some," and the chief held out the flask to Jim, but though the blood rose to his face at the insence of the bidding, Jim neither stirred nor held out his hand for the flask.

"You go, I say, hyak (quickly)," and the chief, who misinterpreted Combe's silence, pushed the flask almost into his face.

"Go to hell and get it yourself," the cowboy replied and his steady eyes met KheLOWNA's without flinching.

For a moment the chief hesitated. Then he threw down the flask with a laugh, and the murderer under the pretext of picking it up, edged a thought nearer to Jim.

As, even so, the Indian was not near enough to strike or grip him, the watched man never moved, and again the silent game of cat and mouse went on.

"You got good rifle, Jim?" asked the murderer, and he writhed forward and laid his hand on the stock of Jim's Winchester, pulling at it gently.

"Take your hands off," snapped the white man, and certain now that the Indians had not pluck enough to rush him all together, he whipped out his six-shooter and covered his man.

Instantly the Indian's hand was withdrawn and a change came over the five faces.

The Chilcotens had only calculated upon the rifle, which they could see.

"What for you so mad, Jim?" asked KheLOWNA. "Indians all time good friends. He not want to take you gun."

"I know, I have plenty very good friends. Six here, the very best," and he glanced at the revolver in his hand.

Then he reached forward in his turn and took back the empty cartridge bag from between the chief's knees, and the silver flask from the ground where the murderer had dropped it.

For a moment he looked at the flask, and then a grin-like flickered round his mouth, and looking KheLOWNA squarely in the eyes he said, "I think you go and get me some water," and as the chief hesitated, he tossed up the black muzzle of his revolver and added "Get."

At that moment the roan snorted, and Jim's quick eye noticed that there were only four Indians round him. Whilst he had been playing his game with the old chief, Kineshew had slipped from the circle. In a flash the white man was on his feet, and his revolver shot was echoed by a sharp cry of pain.

"Come back," he roared. "Kineshew, leave the knife there," and then dropping the muzzle so that it looked KheLOWNA straight between the eyes, he added, "You get it you move."

"Now get," he said, as Kineshew came back. "I want that horse and I want you out of this blanked quick. Hump H. March," and for the second time in a week he drove the five redskins before that deadly little weapon which has done so much in the States towards the equality of man.

PASSING OF THE HAYSEED.

The farmer has come into his own even in the matter of terms. To-day he is a farmer, and the word carries with it the same respect for the person designated as is attached to banker, merchant, mechanic, or others in the commercial and industrial world. We expect in these days to find the farmer looking his part with his city comrades, and playing his part with the brightest and best of them. In a word, he is no longer a "hayseed." Farm life may brown his face, may harden his hands, but the open country, the freedom of his avocation, the independence of his position, and the general prosperity he enjoys have given him assurance and an undisputed place.

Farm life itself has undergone great changes and is on the eve of others. Agricultural machinery has removed in an important degree the drudgery of farm work. It has lifted the burdens that early stooped the shoulders of the pioneers. The hay is loaded onto the rack and stored in the barn without the need of the farmer raising a forkful. Even the barnyard manure is taken to the field and spread over the ground without forking. The farmer's wife, too, has felt the beneficent effect of inventive genius.

The refining influences to be found in the cities are not now removed from enjoyment by the farmers. The improvement of transportation facilities has made it possible for farmers at a distance to avail themselves of the visits to the cities of noted divines, lecturers and artists of the musical and dramatic world. The farmers' sons and daughters are enabled fully to enjoy the privileges of education in the city. The daily newspaper finds its way regularly to the farm home being another important link in the general and marked tendency toward bringing the urban and rural life into closer contact.—London Free Press

HAVE THE RAILWAYS GAINED?

In advancing the rates on farmers' institute excursions to the Ontario Agricultural College, and in demanding a larger guarantee from members, the railway companies operating in Ontario are certainly not advancing their own interests. This action was taken before the recent June excursions began, and the result was a considerable falling off in the numbers who took advantage of the excursion to visit the college this season. One or two institutes that formerly held excursions regularly dropped out because of the advanced rate and increased restrictions. No one expects the railway companies to do this excursion business at a loss if, however, they lost money at the old rate, one fails to see how they have improved things under the new rate. A higher rate with fewer people travelling, is no better, if as good, as a lower rate with a crowd on board. If an excursion is arranged, a train has to run over the route planned, and if they carry a big crowd at little, if any, extra cost, over a small crowd. And besides, the class of cars provided for these excursions are of the cheapest kind, and one would need to get a pretty cheap rate to be induced to ride in them. The farmers, however, complained little about the equipment, but are likely to do so pretty strongly if the rate is raised and the train service not improved with it. But be that as it may, the railways can afford to do a little more for the farmers of Eastern Canada than they have been doing. Farmers visiting the agricultural college on one of these excursions, even if it is only for a day, carry away with them some new idea that will enable them to increase the output from the land. Every acre of land that can be made to produce more, even if it is a small percentage, adds grit to the company's mill. The railway cannot get along without the farmer any more than the farmer can get along without the railway.—Canadian Farm.

FOR SKIN DISEASES

A Treatment that costs Nothing Unless it Provides Satisfactory Relief

We have a grayish-white ointment with a pleasant odor, that is clean to use, which we believe is the best known remedy for the relief of skin diseases. It is especially efficacious for overcoming eczema in all its various forms, ringworm, acne, pimples, blotches, insect bites, tetter, certain forms of ulcers, sores and wounds. It is strongly antiseptic, cleansing, soothing and healing. It stops all itching and burning caused by skin eruptions.

We are so positive this ointment is unequalled that we offer it with the distinct understanding that if after having given it a reasonable trial, you are not satisfied with the results, you have only got to tell us and we will, without quibbling, return every cent paid us for it. We exact no promises or obligations whatever.

We want you to try Rexall Eczema Ointment. The first application gives a refreshing sense of relief, and because of its germ destroying power, it eradicates the germ or parasite which causes eczema and many other eruptions. It quickly allays the inflammation, gives protection to the inflamed surfaces, and helps restore healthy tissue. It is particularly active in relieving skin ailments peculiar to children. You certainly cannot lose anything by trying it. We would not dare make this offer except we are positive Rexall Eczema Ointment will satisfactorily benefit you. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember you can only obtain it at our store—The Rexall Store, Macfarlane & Co.

RHEUMATISM AND COMMON SENSE

Father Morrissey's No. 7 Eliminates the Uric Acid.

Many treatments will relieve the aches and pains of rheumatism, but there is only one way to cure that dread disease. The common sense method is to remove the cause, and the effects will soon disappear. Rheumatism is caused, as is well known, by the failure of the kidneys to perform their intended work of filtering the uric acid out of the blood and eliminating it from the body through the bladder. When the kidneys go on strike, the uric acid is carried to the joints and tissues, where it causes stiffening of the muscles, and the excruciating pains of rheumatism.

Father Morrissey, the learned priest-physician, after much research, devised a prescription which would get directly on the kidneys, and by toning them up to vigorous action, cause them to clear the system of the uric acid. This remedy, known as No. 7, has been used successfully in thousands of cases.

Father Morrissey's Liment will bring relief from the effects of rheumatism, while his No. 7 Tablets will get to work on the cause and in due time cure the disease.

Why suffer from this painful and troublesome affliction, when by using the common sense methods originated by Father Morrissey and successfully followed for years, it is possible to aid Nature to restore you to health?

If you are not yourself rheumatic, you doubtless know of some one who is, and who would be glad to learn of a treatment which has such a consistent record of cures. It is easy to take and sure to benefit and ultimately cure rheumatism. 50c. a box, at your dealer's, or from Father Morrissey Medicine Co., Ltd., Montreal, Que.
