NEWS AROUND TOWN

Spirella corsets always on hand.
—Mrs. J. C. Nichol, Durham.

Clover and timothy seed for fall seeding. Apply at the Central Drug Store.

"The political spirit in religion" and "The searching eye of God" will be themes for sermons in the Methodist church next Sunday.

The annual garden party of Purn's church, will be held at S. Petherbough's, on Friday evening August 25th. Tea served from 6 to 8 o'clock.

Lost.—On Monday last, a white corded belt, with large, bright buckle. Emblem in centre. Finder will oblige by leaving it at this office.

Mr. James Atkinson recently purchased fifty acres of land from Mrs. Daniel Greenwood. This increases Mr. Atkinson's land holdings to 300 acres.

On Sunday last, Mrs. Jas. Atkinson accidentally slipped while crossing a fence, and the jar injured her side, and it is thought, fractured one of her ribs.

A meeting of the Conservatives of Durham will be held in their committee rooms, next door to telephone office, Siegner's old store, for organization purposes, this Thursday evening, August 24. All Conservatives requested to be present.

The annual garden party in connection with the Epworth League of Zion Methodist church, will be held at Mrs. Blair's home on Tuesday evening, August 29th. The 31st Regimental Band will furnish music and addresses will be delivered by H. H. Miller, R. J. Ball, Dr. Jamieson and others. Tea will be served from 7 to 8 o'clock. Admission 25c. children 10c.

Mr. John Fallaise recently purchased the Durham—Chatsworth stage route, and bids for a share of public patronage. The rates are to Chatsworth, $1. return fare, $1.50. Persons wishing to go may leave word at the Hahn House, or the proprietor's residence, one door south of the Baptist church. Passengers will be called for at their own homes.

Complaint has been made by a resident of Glenelg, and a very frequent visitor to the town, regarding the neglected condition of the Durham hill. If the hill is in bad condition, the town council should remedy the defects at once. Leading roads to and through the town should always be kept attractive and in first class condition.

Miss Dick, who took in a three weeks' trip to the West, going as far as Edmonton, returned last week and expresses much delight in the progressive character of the country. The crops in the vicinity of Fielding, Sask., where she spent a whole day driving through the country, are looking excellent. In an interview with her a few days ago, she was very modest in her statement, fearing that if she told the whole truth it would seem like an exaggeration.

The Holstein and Durham baseball teams played a tie game here on Monday evening, the score being 9 each. It was an exciting match, too, in almost every way, and the umpire, Mr. W. J. Sharp, of Holstein, came in for the usual share of roasting. Despite the opinions of the crowd, we could see no glaring mistakes that he made. The locals should have won, but blew up in the third innings with the bases full, letting in the three men on a wild throw to first, and another to third.

On the harvesters' excursion on Wednesday morning, the following residents of town and vicinity took the train here for Winnipeg and West: W. N. McDonald, Alice Lawrence, R. Gardner, C. R. McIntosh, J. McDonald, S. Ewen, A. Fizzell, E. Edge, R. Ewen and wife, P. Hepburn, R. Keith, D. Watson, A. Ferguson, J. Lennox, F. McCuaig, W. Seth, J. Carson, J. G. Banks, H. Gray, J. Brown, Sarah Brown, Jas. Brown, J. Edwards, Agnes Ewen.

The stage fare to Chatsworth is $1.00. Round trip, $1.50.

See McGrath's for Empress shoes.

Owen Sound will vote on local option repeal in January next.

Mr. R. J. Scott, of Fielding, Sask., advertises choice farm lands for sale. See his ad., and if interested write to him.

Live hogs were $7.40 last week. This week we are quoting them at 10c. higher. This looks like a good price.

The following from this vicinity left for the West on the home-seekers' excursion Tuesday: Victor Adams and J. P. Hunter, for Edmonton, T. Torry for Regina, Wm. Lunney for Medicine Hat, and Mrs. C. Elvidge for Dauphin.

On Tuesday afternoon, Mr. Robt. Ewen and Miss Mary Wright, daughter of Mr. Wm. Wright, were happily married by Rev. Mr. Wright, at the Methodist parsonage. Amid showers of confetti, and the best wishes of friends, they left on the afternoon C.P.R. train for a trip to the West.

Mrs. W. C. Vollett is in Toronto where she will probably be obliged to undergo an operation for some internal trouble. The operation, which was to have been performed on Tuesday last, has been postponed. We are pleased to learn that her trouble is not so serious as her friends anticipated.

A HORSE ON MR. GRAHAM.

From The Toronto World.
Editor World; The Hon. Mr. Graham, in his address to the Simcoe Liberals yesterday honored me by taking notice to my remarks in the World of Aug. 15. I cannot argue the question with him for the simple reason that there is no argument, but a plain statement of facts. I will give him the facts.

We are not horse dealers. We own the Repository, the largest horse market in Canada, and sell horses on commission for the public. We are therefore in a position to give an opinion on the effect which reciprocity will have on the horse trade in Canada better than most people.

Fact No. 1.—The horse trade in Canada was never better than now nor have there ever been higher prices paid for horses than during the past year.

Fact No. 2.—The prices in Canada are indisputably better than in the States.

Fact No. 3.—The Ontario farmers have shipped upwards of $10,000,000 worth of horses to the Northwest during the past year.

Fact No. 4.—The Northwest will get cheaper horses from the Northern States, and the average price of working horses in Canada will be lowered accordingly on a par with the States prices.

Fact No. 5.—Mr. Yeagher, who is a very good friend of ours, is a buyer and dealer in show horses, but we handle as many horses in a day as Mr. Yeagher would handle in a year.

Fact No. 6.—Mr. Yeagher, and men in his line want reciprocity so that they can go to the States and buy horses, import them without duty and fit them up for the show ring, and profit in the transaction goes to Mr. Yeagher, and not to the farmer.

Fact No. 7.—Mr. Yeagher is considering the effect which reciprocity will have on the horses he sells for Mr. Yeagher. We have to consider what it will do for the farmer and general public, for whom we sell.

A resume of the foregoing facts is conclusive in showing that the prices of horses in Canada will be lowered if reciprocity passes, and the farmers who raise horses will suffer accordingly. It would be well for the public to remember that the raising of horses is one of the largest, if not the largest, live stock industries in Canada.

LIBERAL CONVENTION.

H. H. Miller the Unanimous Choice of South Grey Liberals —Hon. William Paterson discusses Reciprocity.

The Liberal convention held here on Saturday last, was largely attended. The hall was well filled, and listened very attentively to the addresses of Mr. Miller and Hon. Wm. Paterson.

Mr. Miller was the unanimous choice of the convention as Liberal candidate for the House of Commons, but nothing was done in regard to selecting a candidate for the Legislature.

Hon. Wm. Paterson arrived by the G.T.R. train, and was received with loud cheers as he entered the hall and took his place on the platform.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. Walter Hastie, of Egremont as the President, Dr. Mearns, of Hanover, was unable to be present on account of his severe illness. After a few introductory remarks by Mr. Miller, the meeting was handed over to Mr. Paterson, who occupied about an hour and a half in addressing the electors. The order was good, and the speaker, who appeared to be in excellent form, pleased all advocates of reciprocity by the way he treated his subject.

On rising, Mr. Paterson handed out a few bouquets to Mr. Miller, whom he regarded as one of the strong men of the party. Needless to say, Mr. Miller took very kindly to the eulogiums of the Minister, and the applause of a large portion of the audience showed their appreciation of the member who had served them in the House of Commons during the past two sessions.

In starting on his speech proper Mr. Paterson said that reciprocity was the subject before the people; it was a business subject and that there was no necessity to bring in outside issues. The business of the farmer is farming, of the miner, mining, and so on with all the avocations in which the people are engaged. The business of the House of Commons is to do the business of the country. It is pre-eminently the business of parliament to open up markets, and to furnish transportation facilities to enable the producer to dispose of the products of his labor. The party in power for the last fifteen years had been doing this business, and doing it well, as the records go to show.

Comparisons, he said, are sometimes odious, but he would make a comparison between the eight-years of Conservative rule, with the fifteen years during which the Liberals held office. In the eight-years of Conservative rule the foreign trade had increased sixty-six millions, but in the fifteen years of Liberal rule, the increase in the same trade had reached five hundred and sixty millions. The Conservatives, he said, attributed this success to the National Policy, and to Providence, and then to please his Liberal hearers he suggested that the National Policy must be operated to better advantage by the Liberals than it was by the Conservatives. Again he thought on the other hand that Providence caused the rain to fall and the sun to shine on the Conservatives the same as on the Liberals, so that some credit must be given to the governing party for the prosperity they enjoyed so long.

The Conservatives, he said, had charged the Liberals with abandoning the question of Reciprocity. The Liberal platform of 1893 had one plank which made for "Freer trade in natural products with the nations of the world, and freer trade with the United States and England especially." British Preference, he went on to say, was given without being asked for, and soon Canadian cheese and Canadian bacon was sought for in the British markets.

The Liberals tried to get Reciprocity with the United States. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir John Charlton and Sir Richard Cartwright being the delegates, but the attempt was
