GOOD CHANCE FOR CHEAP DAIRY.

Now that the elections are almost upon us, the public will be more than ever interested in their daily paper. The Reciprocity issue, which will be the chief topic of discussion, is of vital interest to every citizen of Canada, and to keep closely in touch with the campaign a daily paper is a necessity. The Toronto News is the leader in the fight against the ratification of this pact, and with its able editorials and complete news service, is doing a great work.

We have an arrangement with this paper whereby we are able to offer it together with the Chronicle for $2.25 per annum. This is a remarkably cheap offer, and should be taken advantage of now so that you can keep thoroughly posted.

HUGH HAWLEY who died July 16th, 1911 Aged 22 years, 1 month

Dromore, for tumor, is recovering nicely.

Mr. Arthur Wells is down with an attack of typhoid.

Born.—On Sunday, August 20th, to Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Moore, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Ector and family, of Durham, spent Sunday in this neighborhood.

Mr. John Davis spent Sunday with his father, near Holstein.

Miss Alice Lindsay, of Toronto, visited in this neighborhood recently.

Mr. Frank Scott is busy building a new house. Now's a chance for some pretty girl.

G. A. Watson sold a Driving horse to Mr. John McKenzie, Dromore, recently.

BIRTHS CORNERS

In the absence of pastor Kendall his place was ably filled by Mr. Wm. Allan, his subject being practical and inspiring.

Miss Jennie Bush, who has taught very successfully in Vidua for the past two years, arrived home on Tuesday last to enjoy her holidays, and looks as though the West agrees with her.

Quite a number of the farmers are through with their harvest; others are nearly through. Altogether, the harvest is somewhat disappointing, but still there is no room for long-faced complaint.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Allen, of Durham, visited Eremont friends on Sunday, and took in the service in Knox church.

Mr. Wm. Dickson, on the gravel, raised his bank barn on Monday afternoon and Tuesday.

Your Traverton scribe hit it right, when he said "tis too blooming slow," this system of raising with block and tackle, as in this case it took 1 1/2 days to raise what 50 good men would do in half the time.

Rev. Donald Campbell, who labored so successfully in Knox and Amos communities some time ago, is among the probationers preaching for a call in Hanover and Hampton congregations, and will preach on Sunday, August 20, and we understand the following Sunday, August 27th. The Rev. gentleman is a very excellent man, an able preacher, and a genuine spiritual hater in building weak and faltering churches, as all the stations in which he has labored can testify. Seldom has a minister been held in higher respect by his people, than the reverend gentleman was while laboring amongst us.

Everything in and around the Corners is coated with reciprocity. We have been up on our lofty perch taking observations, and so far we are at sea to know, since the main issue is reciprocity or no reciprocity, how any elector can vote intelligently either for or against a measure in which he has had no experience, and we think Borden would have acted more wisely to act on Mr. Fielding's suggestion, and have given it a two years' trial, then we be in a position to judge for ourselves, as the reputation of politicians in the past is largely made up of liars and deceivers.

TRAVERTON

Miss Emma Ritchie, of Edge Hill is the guest of her cousins, Misses Jennie Cook and Eva McNally, this week. She is a gifted lassie.

Tom Cook are Harry Gray leave on Wednesday morning for Calgary. They are strong, active fellows, as good mechanics as they are hustling farmers, so are sure to do well during these busy months.

Wilbert Wright visited Owen Sound relatives over the week end ere leaving on Wednesday morning for Saskatchewan, where his father and brother Alex, are home-staying.

Mr. and Mrs. Colin McArthur spent over the week end with friends in the Glen.

(Rev.) Mrs. Geo. Barry, and three children, of Cooks' Le, are spending some weeks with Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Falkingham, at the Falls Farm.

Master Lauder McKinley returned to his Toronto home last week after spending a few weeks' holidays at the home of Mr. James Melon.

Masters Charlie and Hughie Reed of Eden Grove, drove over on Sunday, and are spending a few days at the home of Mr. E. W. Hunt.

Big preparations are being made for Zion's garden party on Tuesday evening, August 29th.

Many and sincere are the words of sympathy extended hereabouts to Mr. and Mrs. H. Williams, over the loss of their fine barn and its contents. It means so much hard and slavish work to rebuild.

Canadian Nationality In Double Harness

By ARTHUR HAWKES.

You cannot wisely consider Canadian nationality without keeping in the front of your mind the division of Canadians into those who couldn't help being Canadians and those who could—the native-born and the immigrant.

Don't be scared by the immigrant, it is bad for you and worse for him. And don't think you know all about the immigrant host and their country just because you hired a green, Englishman from a city, who didn't know how to put a collar on a horse.

Perhaps you never saw a Doukhobor, or a Galician, or a Buckowinian, or a Ruthenian. Thousands of these people, scattered over the prairies are Canadian citizens just as much as you are, you lucky great-grandson or great-granddaughter of a United Empire Loyalist.

They will vote on Reciprocity two thousand miles from where you are. One of these days a full-blooded Doukhobor will sit in the House of Commons. I have an excellent friend in the Saskatchewan Legislature—a Ruthenian—who couldn't speak a word of English a few years ago. It isn't far, you know, from the Assembly to the Commons. The Chairman of the Licensing Commission of the Province of Saskatchewan is a German who came from the Fatherland to Minnesota, was naturalized and elected a senator, left Minnesota for Saskatchewan, and was naturalized again.

The largest place of public assembly in Port Arthur is owned by Icelanders. In Vancouver I could take you to a Chinese theatre where two performances daily are given. The Jap is almost as numerous as the Chinaman in the salmon fisheries of British Columbia. The Hindoo's turban has become a commonplace on the Pacific Coast.

Down in Nova Scotia travellers not infrequently hear people speak of going to Canada, when they mean another province in the confederation of which Nova Scotia has been a constituent for forty years. On the prairies you will find a foreign flag exalted, I had almost said worshipped, in uncounted homes. At Red Deer, in deference to foreign sentiment, they stopped singing songs in harmony with the flag that has these thousand years braved the battle and the breeze. Canadian nationality is marching in double harness, with these imported elements in the team.

I tell you Canada is infinitely more than an Ontario concession line, a little red school house and a Loyal Orange Lodge. What is to be done about the amazing medley of kindreds and tribes and tongues which I have hinted at, and for which the Bible Society prints the Scriptures in seventy different languages? And, mind you, there is more than the differences of race and language between you and your fellow-citizen from the South of Europe who flourishes alongside the South Saskatchewan. He comes from a country you never saw to a country you have never seen, and he knows nothing of the distinctions of the country you inhabit. The prairie country and the mountains are apt to produce people different in their make-up from the dwellers in the east.

A high railway official who came east two years ago, had never seen apples growing on the trees. The non-English speaking people who have come to the country where he was born are twice as unfamiliar with the east as he was. It is something of a job in Canadian development to get all these people up there to live like you live, think like you think, and see things as you see them. And they are Canadians with full rights—citizens. Their children are the native-born, even as your children are. What do you think about it?

What ground can we line them up on so that they will stand where we stand, and be governed by the same well-springs of patriotism that move us? You at present it must be broad ground on which to stand, and a big, high ideal at which to look. And don't forget this—the imagination of their children must be nurtured. How can anything be accomplished in face of the tremendous differences between them and us?

Somehow, soon, we have got to get all Canadian citizens thinking about the same thing. We have got to have a common ideal about our country—their country, speakers of broken English; owners, absolute owners of Canadian soil, that they are. They must be helped to become good Canadians.

But what is a good Canadian? Answer me this—What do you mean when you stand up and sing "God save the King"? The King is on the other side of the ocean, and you perhaps are a thousand miles from salt water. On the other side of the world people are singing "God save the King" exactly as you sing it. What have you to do with them? What have they to do with your Buckowinian fellow-citizen over on the Saskatchewan?

It is a mighty curious thing this Canadian nationality in the progress of which you have harnessed yourself with the crowd of aliens to your ideas who have come to the Dominion from all the corners of the earth. You are sure about your own Canadianism. But what about theirs? It is up to you; for you asked them to come in, you know.

Suppose you talk it over with those Scotch and English fellows of your acquaintance. And ask your Irish friend to talk about it.
