On Friday morning last, after a somewhat prolonged illness, Mr. Donald Weir died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adam Weir, in Glenelg. The deceased was an only son, thirty-eight years of age, of a quiet and retiring disposition, a good, honest, and industrious young man, a thoughtful student, and of more than average intellectual ability. We are not informed as to the cause of his death. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of the community in their sore bereavement. Interment took place to Durham cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

Dr. J. C. McGillivray, of Denver, Colorado, was a caller at the office on Saturday, in company with his uncle, Mr. Neil McLean. The Dr. left Denver about the 1st of June on an excursion trip with the Scots of America, and reports an enjoyable time in the Land of the Heather. He spent a week in the old city of London, and visited many places of interest, historical and otherwise. Dr. McGillivray was born in Bentinck, and has a very warm spot in his heart for the friends of his boyhood. He regretted to leave without an opportunity of seeing Inspector Campbell. After visiting a few days with his father at Elmwood, he intends to return to Denver, "the city of Light," and re-enter his medical practice.

We regret to chronicle the death of Miss Margaret Weir, the bright and promising daughter of Mr. William Weir, of Glenelg. For some time, we understand, she has been suffering from tubercular trouble, and for several weeks very little hope was entertained for her recovery. The deceased young lady was eighteen years of age, and gave promise of a very brilliant future. Death occurred on Saturday last. This is Mr. Weir's second sorrow, at very short intervals, as he lost a very clever son about a year or so ago. Mrs. Weir died eight or nine years ago, and the community is in deep sympathy with Mr. Weir and the sorrowing relatives in their many afflictions. Interment took place to Trinity church cemetery on Monday afternoon last.
