NEWS AROUND TOWN

Cook wanted.—At once. Apply to Mrs. (Dr.) Jamieson.

General servant wanted. Apply to W. Boyce, Queen street.

Mr. Calder is getting his residence equipped with a hot water heating system.

Galignani, of Paris, France, says Aptommas is "the King of harpists the greatest living master." In the Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening, October 11th.

We have been instructed to say that on Wednesday evening, Oct. 11th, the stores will be closed, to give an opportunity to all who desire to hear the harpist, in the Presbyterian church.

Aptommas does everything with thee harp that can be done with brilliancy and unerring perfection.—Signale, Leipsic, Germany. Will appear in the Presbyterian church, Wednesday evening, October 11th.

Mr. Conmee has decided not to contest the election in Rainy River District on the 12th of October, and as there is no other candidate in sight, it is likely J. J. Carrick, Conservative, will be elected by acclamation to-day, October 5th. This will add another to Borden's majority.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Ritchie, his sister, Miss Ritchie, and Mr. John Ritchie with two children, are all down with typhoid, but so far no serious results are expected. The two homes are close together, and all use water from the same well, which is supposed to have caused the trouble.

Last week we reported the death of the infant child of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Welsh. Death occurred on Sunday, and the remains were taken on Monday afternoon for interment at Uxbridge. On Sunday last, the little twin sister died, and was also taken to Uxbridge for interment on Monday afternoon of this week. The children were about three months old, and Mr. and Mrs. Welsh have the sympathy of the community in their double sorrow.

It is now quite certain the voters of Durham will have an opportunity at the municipal elections in January to say whether or not they wish to have local option continued. A petition for repeal was submitted to the council last year, but no action was taken. At the meeting on Monday night last the meeting was discussed briefly by the council, but action was deferred. The feeling prevailed that a petition should be again presented this year. Some of the council, however, think they have the power to submit, or withhold such by-law, irrespective of a petition from the ratepayers, but in order to avoid personal responsibility, the majority seem to favor the presentation of a petition.

A remarkable story of endurance comes from the vicinity of Kemble. On 24th August—five weeks ago—Mr. McGardner, who is well-known throughout Keppel, missed a yearling steer from his herd. After several days had been spent in unsuccessful search it was given up as lost, though all hope of its recovery was not abandoned, as it was thought possible the animal might have joined the cattle that were grazing along the shore. However, nothing was seen or heard of the lost steer until Monday, when Mr. Gardner, visiting the back of his farm, heard the lowing of a beast, apparently coming from underground, and hurrying to the spot whence the sound came, found the long lost steer imprisoned in a crevice of the rock, about two feet wide, and ten feet deep. There it had been for at least thirty-two days, without food or water. With the help of Mr. D. Davidson, his son, Mr. Ferguson, Mr. Gardner soon released the animal from its prison and though it was much emaciated it was able, after it had been given some food and water, to walk to the barn, a distance of about half a mile. The animal seems to be none the worse of its trying experience, and is apparently doing well.—Queen Sound Sun.

All kinds of bulbs for fall planting, at the Central Drug Store.

Dundalk fall fair will be held on Thursday and Friday, October 12th and 13th.

The Artemesia township fair will be held at Priceville to-morrow, Friday, October 6th.

Mr. Wm. McFadden's new house on Bruce street is now closed in, and will be completed shortly.

Markdale was another of the surrounding towns that picked on a bad day for their annual fair.

Mrs. Thos. Morton, jr. had an attack of appendicitis on Friday last, but, we are pleased to report, is recovering without the necessity of an operation.

The Weekly Sun says: "Had the contest come on in the ordinary course of events, with all the policies and all the record of the Government up for review, defeat would not have caused astonishment. Indeed, defeat under such circumstances would not have been unexpected, as the Administration had been long in power, and had many sins to answer for." This is quite an acknowledgement from an organ that has just finished an unsuccessful fight for the return of the Liberal Government.

We left unpublished this week from Montreal an advertisement offering work to people in their own homes. It may be all right, and it may not, but cash didn't accompany the order. Furthermore, applicants were asked to send stamp for full particulars. We may be wrong, but it seems to us that all the company wants is the stamp, and hundreds might be sent in if we published the little harmless looking advertisement. The chances are that many local papers this week will publish it, and thousands will send in inquiries with stamp for particulars. Our advice is "Don't do it."

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Ferrier left for their home at Hillman, Mich., on Monday afternoon last, after spending a week or so with her uncle, Mr. Henry Storey. Prior to taking up his home in the land of the Stars and Stripes over thirty years ago, Mr. Ferrier was a resident of this town, and he likes to pay it an occasional visit, although it is nine years since he was last here. He sees many changes in the place, but particularly in the people. Amongst the old familiar faces, he mentioned the names of Gilbert and John McKechnie, John, James and Archie Hunter, Geo. Kress, W. B. Vollet, John Smith, James Smith, and a number of others. We had a couple of brief calls from Mr. Ferrier, and enjoyed his company very much. He is quite in love with the land of his adoption, but is willing to admit that Canada, too, will be a great nation in the near future.

ROBERT LAIRD BORDEN PREMIER-ELECT OF CANADA

From The Toronto Globe.

A new international and Imperial figure emerged in a single night when last week's general elections made Mr. R. L. Borden the Premier-elect of Canada. The fortunes of political warfare, ever fickle and uncertain, were never more so than when the reciprocity cause, which, at most, it was thought, would reduce the Laurier Government's majority, sent the Liberal party to a smashing defeat. In a twinkling, Mr. Borden leaped from the obscurity of a minority leader to the prominence and power of the Premiership and a figure that should count in Imperial councils. Like Sir James Whitney in Ontario, and Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the Dominion, Mr. Borden has earned his success by a long and tiresome service in Opposition, marked by discouragement, defeat, and sometimes humiliation. Twice he led his party to disaster at a general election, and each time he suffered the unpopularity that comes to an unsuccessful general. It has been no secret that he would long ago have cheerfully laid aside both the burden and the honor of leading the Opposition, but as he was the best man available he was prevailed upon to remain. Now that his hour of victory has come, no one will grudge him his triumph.

During his years of minority leadership Mr. Borden would fain have returned to the law, his chosen vocation in life. It was as a lawyer of the first rank, especially in constitutional matters that he achieved his standing in his native province of Nova Scotia. His firm was at the front of the legal profession, and Mr. Borden was happiest when arguing before a Judge of a Superior Court. He was not a jury lawyer, and he has never been a popular orator: he lacks the magnetism or the personality that appeals to the popular emotions. His style is logical and argumentative, rather than fervid or imaginative. His speeches are thoroughly prepared, and filled with the thought that comes of wide reading. Only now and again a story relieves the weight of the argument. As a campaign orator Mr. Borden, though never brilliant, has improved in recent years. His audiences are impressed by his sincerity and earnestness, as well as by his courage. His courage was notably shown in his recent western tour, when he told the grain-growers he would continue to oppose reciprocity, even though he never became Premier. Time

THE BORDEN POLICY

It is his manifesto to the electors of Canada R. L. Borden gave the pledge of the Liberal-Conservative party to carry out the following policy if returned to power:

1. A thorough reorganization of the method by which public expenditure is supervised.
 2. The granting of their natural resources to the prairie provinces.
 3. The construction of the Hudson Bay Railway, and its operation by independent commission.
 4. The control and operation by the state of the terminal elevators.
 5. The necessary encouragement for establishing and carrying on the chilled meat industry.
 6. The establishment of a permanent tariff commission.
 7. The granting of substantial assistance towards the improvement of our public highways.
 8. The extension of free rural mail delivery.
 9. The extension of civil service reform.
 10. The granting of liberal assistance to the provinces for the purpose of working and extending the work of agricultural education and for the improvement of agriculture.
- And lastly a course of policy and administration which will maintain independent and unimpaired the control of our own affairs by the Parliament of Canada; a policy which while furnishing no just cause for complaint to any foreign nation, will find its highest ideal in the autonomous development of Canada as a nation within the British Empire

OBITUARY.

GEORGE LEDINGHAM.

We regret to learn of the death on Friday morning, September 29th, of Mr. George Ledingham, of Dornoch, after a somewhat prolonged illness.

The deceased was a son of the late Alexander Ledingham, and was born in Bentinck forty-three years ago, and spent his life in his native township. Five or six years ago, he married Miss White, of Berkeley, who survives him, together with two small sons. His aged mother, and two brothers, James, of Souris, Manitoba, and John, of Duluth, Minnesota, are the other surviving members of the family. The deceased was a devoted Presbyterian.

The remains were interred at Latona cemetery on Tuesday afternoon last, the services being conducted by his pastor, Rev. Mr. Stevenson. The Chronicle extends its sympathy to the bereaved ones.
